COURT CLERKS STUDY BONDING RULES TODAY

Justice and Judge Order Drive for Uniformity in All Tribunals.

STATEMENTS MADE BY 14 SURETY MEN

Each Voluntarily Reveals Extent of Assets and Liabilities.

FEES TO BE ALLOWED WILL GET ATTENTION

Whether or Not Limitation Should Be Imposed Is Moot Question.

By AUSTIN T. ROGERS.

As a result of a conference yesterday between Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, of the District Supreme Court, and Judge Gus A. Schuldt, presiding jurist in the Police Court, the clerks of the various courts are to meet today to study such rules and regulations as are in effect governing the bail bonding business as practiced in the different courts and jurisdictions, with a view to establishing a basis of uniformity.

As a visible expression of their desire to promote the intercourt cooperation and uniformity urged by The Post, each of the fourteen professional surety bondsmen now practicing in the District, filed with the Supreme Court yesterday a detailed statement of his assets and liabilities.

Bondsmen have been required to submit such statements, sworn under oath, in the Police Court every three months for the past five years, but no such requirement is made in the Supreme Court and the action of the bondsmen was entirely voluntary and unsolicited by the court, it was stated yesterday by Justice McCoy, who declined to make the reports public on the ground that he could not break the confidence of the bondsmen, inasmuch as they made the reports on their own volition.

Bondsmen Are Organized.

Announcement that the reports had been filed was made by Milton S. Kronheim, president of the new Surety Bondsmen's Association of the District of Columbia, which came into being last Saturday as the result of the investigation of the bail bonding situation being conducted by The Post. In organizing, the bondsmen pointed out that they are unanimous in accord with the contemplation of The Post that greater cooperation between the bondsmen and the courts, and uniformity of bonding practice in all courts of the District, would tend to improve the relations of the bondsmen, the courts and the community at large.

Judge Schuldt informed Chief Justice McCoy last night that he would instruct Frank Sebring, clerk of Police Court, to call upon Frank Cunningham, clerk of Supreme Court, today with the complete rules and regulations now in force in the Police Court, with a view to determining which, if any, of these rules might be applied successfully in the Supreme Court, and where changes might be made with benefit to both courts.

Following this conference, the clerks are to report to the presiding jurists of their respective courts, who will then confer with each other and with United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, to formulate a uniform code of rules and regulations to apply for all jurisdictions in the District.

Fees to Be Considered.

One point which is to be given particular consideration, it was indicated, is that of the fees which bondsmen may be permitted to charge for their services. In the Police Court the limit is $5 for each $100 of bond, but in the Supreme Court and other jurisdictions there is no limit and the bondsmen are permitted to demand whatever the prisoner will pay for his freedom.

Whether or not a limitation should be imposed on the amount of fees is a moot question. The bondsmen are unanimous in the contention that the fee is a private matter between the bondsman and his client, and should not be restricted. They point out that there is no just comparison between bond fees and banking loan interest, for instance, for the reason that the bondsman runs a far greater risk of losing the principal of the bond than the banker takes with a loan.

That there is strength in that argument is admitted by jurists, but they point out, on the other hand, that a prisoner applying for bond is quite apt to be so eager for freedom that he will consent, under the stress of the moment, to pay a far higher fee than he can afford or than may be warranted by the circumstances of his arrest. The need for regu-

Good's Condition Critical After Operation for Appendicitis.

James W. Good, Secretary of War, was waging a fierce battle last night with death at the Walter Reed Hospital, following an emergency operation for gangrenous appendicitis. His condition was decided as "very serious" and fear was expressed by intimate friends that he would not recover.

His condition was described by his physicians as unchanged at 9:40 o'clock last night.

Staff physicians said that it would probably be 72 hours before the crisis is past and the Secretary could show a definite trend toward improvement.

SINGAPORE NAVAL BASE WORK TO LAG

POLICY IS UNDER ATTACK

London, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—With the London five-power naval conference only two months off and the Anglo-American naval negotiations successfully terminated, the British Labor government has decided to slow down work on the great naval base at Singapore.

A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, made the announcement in the House of Commons today in response to questions from members.

He recalled the fact that the Labor government of 1924 had decided not to proceed with the proposed base and then pointed out that the decision of the late Conservative government to go on with the work had altered the case for the new Labor government. The Conservatives had carried on work that had been expensive to the British taxpayers and involved contributions from the Malay Peninsular States, New Zealand and Hongkong.

"The House is aware that a naval conference has now been arranged, the decisions of which may affect the question of the use of this base," he said, "and in all the circumstances the government has decided that the work already contracted for at Singapore shall be slowed down as much as possible, that all the work that can be suspended shall be suspended and that no new work shall be embarked

SACKETT HEARING VEILED IN SECRECY

Senate Subcommittee Chief Says "Grave Matters" Prompt Action.

DISTRICT QUIZ BEGINS

Matters of a "grave nature" were discussed behind closed doors last night by the Sackett subcommittee of the Senate District committee as it began its investigation of the Police Department and other branches of the local government.

So serious were these matters, Chairman Sackett said, that he and the other members decided to throw a blanket of secrecy over the proceedings.

"We have decided to function as a grand jury," said Sackett. "The matters we discussed were of such a grave nature that we decided that it would be in the public's interest to keep them secret. Besides, we don't want anybody to know what we are doing."

As a result of this decision, none of the communications sent to the subcommittee will be made public. The most important of these are from Attorney General Mitchell, Chief of Police Pratt, United States Attorney Rover and Police Court Judge Schuldt.

Mitchell's letter was in response to a request that Department of Justice agents be assigned to help the subcommittee in its investigation of District affairs. It is possible, of course, that the agents already are at work for the subcommittee and that Sack-

Tariff Bill Action to Wait Till Regular Term, Is View

Senate Plans to Quit for Week's Rest; Move Opposed.

(Associated Press.)

With the Senate unable to finish work on the tariff bill before the regular session in December, Congress appeared to be ready last night to adjourn on Saturday, November 23, allowing a week's recess between terms.

It was announced last night by Senator Jones, of Washington, acting Republican leader, that he was ready to offer the adjournment resolution probably today. The announcement, made after consultations with members of both parties, was followed by announcements from Democratic leaders that they would support the resolution. The Western Republican independents, however,

POLICE COURT INVESTIGATION IS UNDER WAY

Justice Agents Scrutinize Workings of Tribunal Searchingly.

PURPOSE OF INQUIRY SECRET AT PRESENT

Some Operatives Openly Take Notes as Others Labor Secretly.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN LIQUOR CASES

Congestion of Docket and Small Courtrooms Are Possible Factors.

A thorough-going but mysterious investigation of Police Court is now under way. It has been going on for some time with Department of Justice operatives in the role of observers and checkers, it was revealed yesterday.

While some of the operatives are working openly with no effort to disguise what they are doing, still others, who do not identify themselves as agents, are silently looking things over and making mental notes.

The purpose of the investigation is not known. Police Court attaches, however, are of the opinion that it presages changes in the operation of the court and possible revision of the personnel of the tribunal, even going so far as to say that it may affect some of the judges when next they come up for reappointment.

Liquor Cases Observed.

Persons who are in daily attendance at the United States branch of the court, where two operatives have been seen at work for the past several days, advance the opinion that the investigation has to do with the enforcement of the National prohibition act. It is a known fact that the criticism leveled at the District from Capitol Hill regarding enforcement of the prohibition law and the Jones act has caused the Department of Justice considerable worry, and it is believed that it may be the guiding idea behind the present probe.

Practically all prohibition cases originate in Police Court, and while more and more offenders are being bound over to the grand jury, the bulk of such cases are handled in Police Court.

Persons who advance the theory that the investigation is along that line point out that the two operatives who have been haunting the United States branch of the court have been taking copious notes particularly in regard to liquor cases. They sit with pencil and pad and openly note pleas, sentences, evidence, names of the judge and the prosecuting attorney and other features.

Offset to Theory Seen.

However, other operatives, who are not so open, are in attendance in that branch and others, too, and are said to be paying close attention to practically every case. That fact and the fact that records of prohibition cases are religiously kept in the United States attorney's office and would be available for the department's scrutiny at any time mitigate against the theory that the investigation concerns only the prohibition law enforcement.

It also has been said that the investigation is for the purpose of aiding President Hoover's law enforcement commission. Members of the commission are said to have been in attendance at the sessions of the various branches of the Police Court at varying times, and some think that the department might have been asked to gather all possible data, particularly since the Police Court of Washington functions differently, and has more powers, than any other like tribunal in the United States.

Then, too, there is a theory that the department may be planning to recommend an additional judge for Police Court and larger quarters.

Both Long Needed.

Both are said to have been crying needs for several years. There are four regular Police Court judges—Presiding Judge Gus A. Schuldt, Judge John P. McMahon, Judge Isaac R. Hitt and Judge Ralph E. Given. Each is supposed to preside over one branch of the court, but at times, when one is ill or during summer vacations, Judge Robert E. Mattingly is summoned from Municipal Court to lend a helping hand.

It is a known fact that the docket so far as jury trials are concerned is almost hopelessly congested. The condition is so bad that the judges' meeting recently ruled that the oldest liquor cases would be taken up first and so on down the line. This brought on a condition which, it was said, would postpone a trial a year in a case in which a man arraigned today demanded a jury trial. Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart,

UTILITIES UNIT DENIES HIGHER FARE REQUEST

Decision Declares Firms Failed to Make Out Case in Plea.

LACK OF VALUATION BASIS IS STRESSED

Revival of Merger Question Is Looked For at New Congress Session.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday denied the request of the street car companies for higher fares in such a manner as to be considered tantamount to notice that the companies either will revive merger negotiations and carry them through or go along on the present fare basis indefinitely.

The companies failed to make out a case in support of their claims for 10 cents cash fare with four tokens for 30 cents, the commission said.

There is no existing valuation which can serve as the basis for determination of the fairness of existing or proposed fares; different accounting methods employed by the companies make it impossible to fix expenses and revenues, and the companies have failed or refused to put into practice admitted economies which would result from unified operation, the commission declared.

Case Not Yet Closed.

Much of the grounds on which the companies might base an appeal to the courts to upset the adverse fare decision, however, was cut from under them by the formal statement of the commission that the fare case was not finally closed by the decision announced yesterday.

Possibly with a view to forestalling a court attack on its refusal to increase fares, the commission told the companies that they could submit whatever additional evidence they might have to bolster up the inadequate case they already have presented at public hearings extending over several weeks.

What the companies will do next is not known. Company officials yesterday had no comment to make on the commission decision. It was said that undoubtedly the decision will be called to the attention of the boards of directors, but whether special meetings will be called was not announced.

Next Move Is Company's.

The commission is expected to do nothing more in the case for the next few weeks in order to give the companies time to act. Should the companies fail to act reasonably soon, however, the commission itself will take the next step. What that step will be has not been determined, commission officials said.

Joint use of tracks, valuation and merger are the three outstanding factors remaining in the situation. The commission in its order yesterday denying higher fares discounted any likelihood that it would attempt to bring about economies by forced joint use of tracks and facilities.

"While the record indicates that economies might be effected and the service even improved in this way," the commission said, "there is no way of gauging with accuracy the amount by which the cost of operating the lines could be thus reduced.

Cooperation Is Stressed.

"Furthermore, the study which the commission has made suggests that without the hearty cooperation of the still competing companies and without an agreement on their part to inaugurate unified operating control, a difficult matter while they are separate entities, the probability of substantial savings in the operating departments is quite remote."

This statement that the companies, if forced unwillingly to unified operations without merger, could, and, the commission believes, would, so conduct unified operations as to net no advantage, is taken to mean that the commission has no intention of attempting forced unified operations.

The commission declared that the present valuations of the companies are no good for rate-making purposes in its opinion, but, with the question of merger still in the offing, it is not believed that the commission will, of its own initiative, begin new valuation proceedings as a part of the fare case.

Rate Appeal Is Possible.

Furthermore, if the companies force the issue on valuation, whatever valuation is made will be a part of a rate case and therefore will be susceptible of being taken to the United States Supreme Court on appeal from decisions by the District courts, something which could not be done if no question of rates was involved.

There have been rumors that the Joint Resolution to Be Offered in Regular Session.

MOVE IS SUGGESTED AS MARKET OFFSET

Corporations to Benefit $100,000,000; Rest Is Income Saving.

PERCENTAGE SLASH IS ONE IN EACH CASE

Treasury Outlook Justifies Contemplated Action, Mellon Asserts.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The administration yesterday made a very definite move toward checking the spread of the effects of the stock market crash by making known that it would recommend a $160,000,000 tax reduction at the outset of the regular session of Congress next month.

Announcement of the tax cut was made last night by Secretary Mellon after a day of conferences on the part of the President, Treasury officials and leaders of both parties in the House and Senate. The reduction will probably take the form, Mellon made known, of a joint resolution which, without any lengthy and detailed language susceptible of prolonged debate, will lower corporation taxes by some $100,000,000 and income levies in the lower brackets by approximately $60,000,000.

The resolution will at one swoop lower the corporation taxes from 12 to 11 per cent and similarly lower income levies 1 per cent. For example, the present 1½ per cent rate on the first $4,000 of taxable income will be reduced to ½ per cent; on the second $4,000 the rate will be reduced from 3 to 2 per cent.

Mellon States Outlook.

Mellon, in his statement, said that the revenues and expenditures for the present fiscal year are not known at this time, of course, but that indications justify the recommendation for a tax reduction. His statement follows:

"While the final detailed estimates of revenues and expenditures for the fiscal years 1930 and 1931 have not been completed, the Secretary of the Treasury considers the estimates have reached the point where tax reduction should be recommended to the Congress at the coming session.

"The indications are that business profits, dividends, interest and wage payments in 1929 will considerably exceed those of the year 1928. Our estimates indicate that the Government should close both the fiscal years 1930 and 1931 with a surplus.

Relief Is Promised.

"Taking all factors into consideration, the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, will recommend tax reduction to the Congress. The form of relief to the taxpayers which the treasury's recommendations will probably take will be a 1 per cent reduction of the normal tax on the incomes of individuals and corporations applicable to 1929 incomes and payable in the calendar year 1930.

"That is to say, on the first $4,000 of taxable income the rate will be reduced from 1½ per cent to one-half of 1 per cent; on the second $4,000, from 3 per cent to 2 per cent, and on the balance, the present 5 per cent rate will be reduced to 4 per cent.

Corporations to Benefit.

"The corporation tax rate will be reduced from 12 per cent to 11 per cent. The total reduction of taxes to be collected during the calendar year 1930 will amount, it is estimated, to approximately $160,000,000.

"The reduction, it is hoped, will take the form of a joint resolution

Huge Company Joins List of Concerns Abandoning Expansion Plans.

RIGHTS ARE CANCELED

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—North American Co. today joined the list of companies which have been forced to abandon plans for sale of additional stock by collapse of the stock market. Rights to purchase additional shares of North American stock have been heavily traded on the New York Stock Exchange, and as they are now valueless, purchasers will lose an amount estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The company had offered stockholders of record October 1 rights to purchase approximately 557,000 common shares at $100 a share, planning to raise new capital in excess of $55,000,000, for purposes of expansion. On that date the stock closed at $142. Today, however, it touched $66.50, and closed at $69, making the rights valueless. On

1,000,000 Shares of Jersey Company at $50 Sought by Unnamed Buyer.

OFFER IS MADE AT CLOSE

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—A $50,000,000 bid, one of the largest on record, gave tired traders a thrill just before the New York Stock Exchange closed today. It was for 1,000,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey—the "Rockefeller company"—at $50 a share, but from whom it came was a mystery.

The order was placed through the stock exchange firm of J. H. Holmes & Co., none of whose partners would be interviewed on the transaction. The immediate assumption was that John D. Rockefeller or his son, or both had made the offer for the shares, but representatives of the Rockefellers said they knew nothing about it. The elder Rockefeller recently announced that he and his son were buying and would continue to buy sound investment stocks.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Prices on the New York securities markets sank to new low levels for the third successive session today as stock exchange authorities began an inquiry to determine, if possible, the character and source of the relentless flood of selling which has washed away many billions of dollars in quoted values in the last few weeks.

Net declines on the New York Stock Exchange ranged from $1 to $29 a share, although only a sprinkling of the high-grade issues showed losses of more than $10. On the New York Curb, the losses in active issues ranged from $1 to $16, with a few high-priced specialties down $20 to $50 a share.

of Congress, thus permitting prompt action by both Houses by avoiding a general revision of the revenue law.

"The proposal has been discussed with the Republican and Democratic leaders of both Houses of Congress, who have tentatively approved the proposed recommendation."

White House Conference Held.

The conferences leading to the announcement began early in the morning when the Treasury Secretary, Undersecretary Ogden Mills and Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, called at the White House. The conference lasted fully 40 minutes, but no light was thrown on the nature of the discussion until the Secretary's statement last night.

After this conference the Treasury conferred with Speaker Longworth, of the House; Majority Leader Tilson and Minority Leader Garner and with Senators Smoot and Reed and Simmons and Harrison, Republican and Democratic tax experts of the Senate, respectively. It was in these conversations that the assurance was given that partisan politics will not attend the Treasury's recommendation.

While small in comparison with tax reductions that the country has come to expect in recent years, political circles agreed that the gesture, so to speak, would go far toward serving as a reassurance of the country's fundamental soundness, notwithstanding repeated recent crashes of the stock market.

View of Administration.

Administration officials have been contending that the stock market excitement was a purely localized condition; that it would not sweep with disastrous effect into the country's ordinary business channels. The Federal Reserve System insures the confinement of the trouble to the market, it has been contended.

Some officials, indeed, have pointed out that with the removal of the market as an attraction for investment the credit situation throughout the country would be eased.

Money will be more easily available out in the country now for building projects and for industry in general, it was pointed out.

Withdrawal Will Be Felt.

There has been, nevertheless, the realization that the easy money that was being made in the market was money easily spent, and that the withdrawal of this easy money will necessarily be felt in certain trades, particularly those having to do with luxuries.

It is apparent that the Treasury's notice to corporations that its balance sheet is in such good condition that it plans to reduce their tax burden is designed to check any drastic readjustments or sharp curtailments of output which they may have had in mind.

Tax reduction is, in fact, a wholesome thing to contemplate all around. The experience in recent years has been that tax reductions increased business and consequently increased the governmental revenues instead of lowering them.

Aimed at Stabilization.

Therefore the administration offers one now for what it is worth in the general uncertainty that necessarily followed the stock market debacle.

There is no reason to believe that the President has not been studying the financial situation for several days with a view to doing whatever he could do. There has been, however, considerable apprehension on the part of some of his friends that he was not moving fast enough.

Only yesterday morning, in fact, one of his warmest newspaper friends, the Philadelphia Public Ledger, cautioned him, in effect, to forget about humanizing war for the present and do something about the domestic situation.

Tax Cut Anticipated.

There was some suggestion shortly after Hoover came into office that there would be a tax reduction at his first session of the regular Congress. But this feeling was fairly well dissipated in a short while with the realization of the heavy expenditures that had been bequeathed to him by the previous administration.

Insofar as the $160,000,000 reduction is concerned, however, the impression is that the administration will be willing to stand a deficit in order to make this psychological contribution toward stabilization of present conditions.

Yet there is the question of whether it will have to take a deficit to do this. The President made known several days ago that he expected to hold the forthcoming budget to the Coolidge budget and, unless there is an unexpectedly severe drop in revenue, he believes that the reduction can be absorbed without any deficit at all.

GRUNDY "RENEGES" ON PROMISED LIST

Tariff Lobbyist Decides Not to Reveal His Own Senator "Aatings."

CARAWAY RETRACTS GIBE

(Associated Press.)

Explaining that he thought it would be improper for him to criticize "elected public officials," Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, yesterday declined to give the Senate lobby committee his list of "common and preferred senators."

The white-haired Pennsylvanian, who was in a jovial mood, was excused from the stand after a brief exchange of banter with Senator Caraway (Democrat), of Arkansas, chairman of the committee.

Grundy was recalled as a result of his previous testimony that certain States were "backward" and that their senators should have little voice in framing tariff legislation. He was asked to submit a statement of what the committee termed "common and preferred senators," but the statement he sent was considered inadequate.

Takes Rap at Virginia.

Taking the stand, Grundy was asked by Caraway if he was ready to give the list to the committee.

"Upon reflection," he responded, "I think I made a mistake in promising to give the list. I think it would be very unbecoming of me to criticize elected public officials."

"All right," Caraway replied, "I just wanted to see if you would turn yellow at the last minute."

He later withdrew this remark.

Caraway asked Grundy why he included Virginia in the list of "backward States" submitted Tuesday to the committee. Virginia was not mentioned in his previous testimony.

Hill Also Questioned.

"Did the election down there make you change your mind?" the chairman inquired.

"I guess I overlooked it," Grundy replied.

Arising from the committee table, Caraway directed the official reporter to delete his reference to Grundy "turning yellow," walked over to where the Pennsylvanian was sitting, grasped his hand and said "after all, I kind of like him."

They chatted together for a few moments and then Grundy left the room.

The committee also questioned Thomas A. Hill, of Pine Bluff, Ark., treasurer of the National Council of State Legislators, and J. A. Arnold, general manager of the Southern Tariff Association, who was on the stand for his eighth day. Arnold was directed to reappear again today.

BISHOP ANDERSON IS CHOSEN FOR EPISCOPAL CHURCH HERE

Church in the United States, who died suddenly in Atlantic City on October 3.

The new presiding bishop is the Right Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, vice chairman of the House of Bishops and Bishop of Chicago. He was elected with a total of 70 votes on the sixteenth ballot, two above the required constitutional total of 68 votes, which is a two-thirds majority. The sixteenth ballot was the only one, incidentally, on which Bishop Anderson received any votes. He was in a sense a compromise candidate, chosen, no doubt, because of his great prestige in the church and popularity, to break what proved to be a stubborn deadlock in the balloting.

The first appearance of the new presiding bishop in his official capacity will be this morning when he will participate in the service of dedication of the College of Preachers of Washington Cathedral at 11 o'clock.

Earlier in the day the House of Bishops elected the Rev. Samuel Harrington Littell, a missionary of the Church in China to the office of missionary bishop of the missionary district of Hawaii, with headquarters in Honolulu. Particular interest was felt here in this election because the Rev. Dr. Littell has passed much time in Washington and his wife was Miss Evelyn Taber, of this city. He is also related by marriage to the Rev. Joseph Fletcher, canon and librarian of Washington Cathedral.

After the adjournment of the House of Bishops last night many of the 94 bishops hastened to catch trains back to their dioceses. A number remained over to attend the dedication of the College of Preachers today. Bishop Anderson received the members of the press shortly after the adjournment.

The bishop, who is a tall, handsome man of distinguished appearance, kindly smile and eyes, and a voice of unusual volume and clearness was visibly affected by the high honor which had come to him so unexpectedly.

"I have not had time to think about it all yet," he exclaimed. "I will do my utmost to give the church the best service I can in all its work and ramifications."

"I have not made any plans, of course," answered the bishop when asked if he had any special views in regard to the missionary work of the church. "I will not resign the diocese of Chicago," he continued, "and although I will be often in New York at the National Council offices there, yet I will have my headquarters in Chicago."

Discouraged About Dry Law.

In answer to other questions, Bishop Anderson said that he was an advocate of world peace and had tried to be an apostle of peace for a long time. "I believe in prohibition," he declared, "and that it will ultimately prevail, although I am somewhat discouraged about it at the present time."

Immediately after his election Bishop Anderson appointed Bishop Burleson his assessor, a post he had held under Bishop Murray.

Bishop Anderson was elected vice chairman of the House of Bishops by the general convention of the church which elected the late Bishop Murray as presiding bishop in New Orleans in 1925. He is, therefore, acquainted with the administrative work of the church. He presided over part of the sessions of the House of Bishops yesterday in his capacity of vice chairman, and was the celebrant at the service of Holy Communion which preceded the election proceedings of the House of Bishops yesterday morning.

Born in Ottawa, Canada, on September 9, 1865, Bishop Anderson is just 64 years of age and in vigorous health and strength. He was educated at Trinity College, Toronto, and was made deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1887 and became a priest in 1888. Shortly after his ordination as priest he became priest in charge of a parish at Beachburg, Ontario, Canada, then served as rector of Grace Church, Oak Park, Ill., from 1891 to 1900. In 1900 he was elected Coadjutor Bishop of Chicago and succeeded to the full Episcopal jurisdiction of the diocese of Chicago upon the death of the diocesan in 1905.

Is Naturalized Citizen.

On September 4, 1889, Anderson married Miss Janet Glass, of Belleville, Ontario, Canada. They have several children. He is the author of "Letters to Laymen," "The Religion of Our Lord," and "Religion and Morality." Although born in Canada he has been for many years a naturalized citizen of the United States.

In his keynote sermon at the general convention last year, which will go down in church history as one of the greatest pulpit utterances of this generation, he urged the preservation of America's most precious possession, religious liberty, "freedom to worship God." He also gave an emphatic warning to his brethren of the convention against "the intrusion of politics and economics in the pulpits and on the platforms of the church."

The new presiding bishop is said to have a hearty belief in cathedrals as spiritual power houses for the people and to believe that a new age of cathedral building is dawning in the Episcopal Church. He has been foremost in the development of the plan to build a great cathedral in Chicago and is also a member of the national committee of Washington Cathedral.

Fifteen Nominated.

For hours yesterday the House of Bishops appeared hopelessly deadlocked in its task of selecting a successor to Bishop Murray. After the celebration of holy communion by Bishop Anderson, assisted by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, and the Right Rev. Hugh Latimer Burleson, missionary Bishop of South Dakota, the House of Bishops went into executive session. The first business undertaken after organization was the election of a missionary bishop for the missionary district of Hawaii.

On the first ballot, it is said, although the session was executive and every effort was made to maintain the utmost secrecy, that fifteen candidates were placed in nomination. None, of course, was elected on the first ballot. The second ballot was taken also without result, but with the Right Rev. Hugh Latimer Burleson and the Right Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, of Tennessee; the Right Rev. Ernest M. Stires and the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, the choice of a number, but not enough to forecast their election on the constitutional majority of 68 votes. Adjournment was then taken for luncheon, which was served to the House of Bishops in the College of Preachers refectory as guests of Washington Cathedral.

Dr. Littell Elevated.

Immediately on reconvening, the Rev. Dr. S. Harrington Littell was elected missionary bishop of Hawaii. This announcement was formally made to the press by William Hoster, director of the national news bureau of the Episcopal Church upon authority of the Rev. G. Warfield Hobbs, head of the department of publicity of the National Council.

As the hours of the afternoon wore on and ballot after ballot brought the same report, "no election," rumors of a stubborn deadlock began to filter through the massive walls of Bethlehem Chapel. At about the twelfth ballot another element entered into the gossip about what was transpiring within the secret session when one of the younger bishops, the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, Bishop of Virginia and the son of the Right Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, Bishop of Southern Virginia, was said to be gaining in strength to a considerable degree.

Anderson Rally Swift.

While no official statement was forthcoming last night as to particulars of the election it is said that the end of the deadlock came with dramatic suddenness at the sixteenth ballot when Bishop Anderson's name was put forward. There was a strong rally to him at once and while other bishops were voted for on the last ballot the rush to Bishop Anderson was noticeable on all sides.

When the result of the sixteenth ballot was announced the 94 members of the House of Bishops present broke spontaneously into the Doxology and the second election for the office of a presiding bishop in the history of the Episcopal Church in America was over.

Great satisfaction was expressed over the election of Bishop Anderson last night by the bishops and also by the churchmen of Washington, where he is well and favorably known. He is a warm personal friend of Bishop Freeman and other Washington clergymen.

Bishop Anderson will hold office until September, 1931, when the fiftieth triennium of the church in session in Denver, Colo., will elect a permanent presiding bishop for a term of six years. It is regarded as most likely that, if he so desires, he will be reelected for the longer term of office at that time.

Word of his election has been cabled to the Rev. Dr. Littell, who is at present in Hwangpo, diocese of Hankow, China, where he is in charge of the Church of the Heavenly Way there, and also of eleven stations of the mission field. Dr. Little, since his graduation from the General Theological Seminary, New York City, in 1898, has spent his entire ministry as a missionary in China. He is secretary of the lower house of the General Synod of the Chinese Christian Church.

The stipend allowed the new presiding bishop is $18,000 a year and his traveling expenses. He is also president of the National Council of the Episcopal Church and his duties are largely administrative. He is in a certain sense in a position similar to that of the Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the Church of England. Although there is no primate of the Episcopal Church in the United States as such, yet the presiding bishop holds a position of great authority and leadership in the Episcopal Church here.

College of Preachers Here Will Be Dedicated Today

The College of Preachers of Washington Cathedral, the gift of the late Alexander Smith Cochran, of Yonkers, N. Y., will be dedicated this morning with impressive ceremonies. The procession will include Presiding Bishop Charles P. Anderson, Bishop of Chicago, and the Right Rev. Frank T. Woods, Lord Bishop of Winchester, England.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will conduct the service and deliver the dedicatory address. An address will also be delivered by the Right Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, warden of the College of Preachers. Greetings from the Church of England will be extended by the Lord Bishop of Winchester. Admission to the service will be strictly by card.

The Gothic Building of the College of Preachers will be open to the public at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. After today the biulding will be devoted exclusively to activities of the College of Preachers and will not be open to the public.

The dedicatory exercises will begin at 3 o'clock when the first celebration of holy communion will take place in the Chapel of St. Augustine.

MARKET COLLAPSE HALTS SALES PLANS

September 3, the stock sold as high as $188.75.

The rights expire November 15, and the directors today decided not to extend the date of expiration. With the decline in the stock, subscriptions to exercise the rights have been canceled.

"With the change in market conditions," said a statement signed by President F. L. Dame, "the rights have recently had a very small market value and that only for speculative purposes. Your directors have decided that it is not to the best interest of the stockholders to extend the rights beyond the original date."

Directors were unable to cancel the rights, as they have already been issued and mailed to stockholders. More than 500,000 of these rights have been traded on the New York Stock Exchange, and purchasers are left with worthless paper. The prices at which they traded ranged from $7.12 to a low level of less than 2 cents reached yesterday.

Cities Service Co. was recently confronted with a similar problem, and was able to cancel the rights, as they had not yet been issued. North American directors made no announcement as to whether another plan of new financing, involving an offer of stock or bonds, is under consideration.

North American, among its other holdings, owns the Washington Rapid Transit Co., and is interested in Washington Railway & Electric Co. and Potomic Electric Power Co.

upon pending the result of the five-power conference."

When questioners pressed him for the views of the dominions, Mr. Alexander said that they had been notified several times of the forthcoming decision. He ended by saying, "I should like to wait a little longer before giving a definite answer."

He said that no steps had been taken to fortify Singapore. When Commander J. M. Kenworthy (Labor) suggested that there should be a break clause in the construction contracts to allow for later happenings, Alexander said that the matter of compensation would naturally come up.

The Conservatives wanted to know whether contributions from other parts of the empire "were being spent under false pretenses," and whether this was not a policy of "penny wise and pound foolish." The first lord did not answer.

TARIFF ON SHINGLES REFUSED BY SENATE

Upper House Votes to Keep Existing Levies on Foreign Watches.

OTHER DUTIES ARE CUT

(Associated Press.)

Continuing its slashing of tariff increases and elimination of proposed duties on free-listed commodities as carried in the House bill, the Senate yesterday voted 49 to 39 to keep shingles on the free list and 51 to 24 to restore existing levies on watches.

Without record votes it also eliminated proposed higher duties on clocks, placed on the free list logs of fir, spruce, cedar, and western hemlock, now dutiable at $1 per 1,000 feet board measure, and approved retention in the nondutiable column of cedar lumber, which the House had more dutiable at 25 per cent ad valorem along with shingles.

The vote on shingles disposed of one of the major controversies in the tariff question. The measure still must go through another stage of revision in conference between the Senate and House.

Jones and Dill Lead Drive.

Senators Jones (Republican), and Dill (Democrat), both of Washington, who led the drive for retention of the House duty on shingles, mustered 19 Republicans and 10 Democrats on the final roll call, but only after they had proposed the decision be made between free shingles and a 10 per cent rate.

The finance committee majority had proposed retention of shingles in the free category, but when the 10 per cent duty was suggested, four of their number, including Chairman Smoot and Senators Edge, Reed and Shortridge, voted with the Washington senators.

Profits of American watch manufacturers and importers of foreign movements for assemblying in this country figured largely in the debate on the committe watch amendments, which proposed increases only in the low-priced or small-jeweled time pieces and decreases in the duties on watches of seventeen jewels and over.

Profits Slump, Says Deneen.

Advocating the increased levies, Senator Deneen, Republican, Illinois, said the profits of the Elgin Watch Co., of his State, had declined to a fraction over 5 per cent, while the earnings of importers of what he termed a self-winding Swiss movement had reached 529 per cent.

Senator Barkley disputed the latter figure, reading a telegram from the Perpetual Self-Winding Watch Co., which assembled the Swiss watch referred to.

American manufacturers would continue to experience a falling off in earnings, Deneen argued, if importers brining in movements to avoid higher duties were not halted by higher tariffs.

Illinois Decrease Cited.

The Illinois Senator said the Illinois Watch Co., taken over by the Hamilton Watch Co., had a decrease in earnings from 17 per cent in 1923 to 5¾ per cent in 1927.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, also urged higher duties. He said the Bulova Watch Co., of Providence, R. I., importer of watch movements, had shown an increase in earnings of 300 per cent in 1928 over 1926, and that it was the only concern among manufacturers and importers which did not favor the "compromise" watch duties written by the finance committee.

Barkle admitted that profits of some American watch companies had been reduced in recent years, but he produced figures to show that some of them had been making a profit "before the reduction started."

Senator Reed, who had explained the new watch proposals of the committee, regarded as the most complicated of any in the bill, conceded again the overwhelming strength of the coalition opposition by saying he would give a "very brief obituary on the next industry to be slaughtered," referring to clocks.

MARION GRAND JURY INDICTS 45 IN STRIKE

Eight Deputies Are Charged With Murder for Part in Gun Battle.

37 WORKERS ACCUSED

Marion, N. C., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Returning of 45 true bills by the McDowell County grand jury today overshadowed the limited progress made in the State's effort to begin hearing evidence in the case of Alfred Hoffman, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America and four others on trial charged with insurrection and rebellion against the State. This afternoon the grand jury returned true bills against 37 strikers, charging them with rioting, resisting arrest and preventing workers from entering the plant of the Marion Manufacturing Co. to work.

Earlier in the day true bills were returned against eight sheriff's deputies charged with murder in connection with a gun fight at the Marion Manufacturing Co. mill gates October 2, in which six men were fatally injured.

The deputies named were B. L. Robbins, W. A. Fender, Dave Jarrett, Jim Owens, Charles L. Tate, Taylor Green, William Twiggs and Robert Ward.

All Cases Result of Strikes.

All of these cases and the remainder of the 119 to be heard at this special term of superior court resulted from a series of disturbances growing out of strikes at the Clinchfield and Marion Manufacturing Co. plants during the past summer.

Conferences between attorneys and Judge G. Vernon Cowper, of Kinston, again occupied much of the proceedings at the trial of Hoffman and the other four defendants. Fears that the special venire of 100 would be exhausted without a jury being obtained caused the judge to make arrangements to have another special venire called from Rutherford County, an adjoining county.

Exactly half of the peremptory challenges allotted prosecution and defense have been exhausted, the State having used twenty. Many others were excused, leaving only 26 from which to select the jury of 12.

Nine Tentatively Selected.

Nine prospective jurors have been tentatively accepted by the defense, but none by the State.

Many of those called for duty disqualified themselves by stating they thought the defendants guilty. Only one stated he thought the prosecution was at fault. Those on trial with Hoffman are J. Hugh Hall, Del Lewis, W. L. Hogrn and Wes Fowler. All, with the exception of Hall, were strikers at the mill. Will Russell, also indicted and due to be tried with Hoffman and the others, failed to appear for trial and his bond of $200 was forfeited.

This is the second attempt to hold the trial, the first resulting in a mistrial when Hall escaped from jail during the trial. He was recaptured several days later.

indicated they would vote against adjournment.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, followed this by saying he was against adjournment unless the coalition tariff majority approved it. However, it was generally agreed that if the adjournment resolution were indorsed by the Democratic spokesmen the recess would be taken.

Representative Snell, of New York, chairman of the rules committee, left the White House averring that the House would not adjourn before the regular session unless the Senate first passed the tariff bill, but Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican floor leader of the House, announced that the House would "consider," at least, an adjournment resolution if it is received from the Senate.

In a statement through the Democratic national committee, Senator Harrison said he would favor Congress staying in session until December if there were any chance of obtaining a final tariff vote.

The bid for the stock was quietly placed by Robert W. Keelips, floor trader for the Holmes firm, a few minutes before the session ended, but the transaction was not generally known until two hours after the closing gong.

War Veteran Must Die If He Regains His Mind

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—William H. Hauke, Canadian war veteran, was taken to Chester State Insane Asylum today to spend the rest of his life, unless he regains his sanity. In that event a death penalty hanging over his head for slaying a woman would be executed, he was informed by Judge Stanley Klarkowski.

Hauke was found to have become insane after he was sentenced to death. Experts testified he was refighting the war every night in his cell. He killed a landlady, Mrs. Isabelle Shceckly, during a quarrel, after he had gone to her home seeking his estranged wife.

Renewed Activity Noted In Martinique Volcano

Fort de France, Martinique, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Renewed activity in the volcano Mont Pelee has been observed since yesterday. The famous volcano, which destroyed Saint Pierre in a disastrous eruption in 1902, has been emitting smoke, gas, ashes and rock for some weeks, and many communities at its foot have been evacuated.

A great cloud of volcanic ash was thrown up to a height of nearly 9,000 feet yesterday afternoon. Ashes fell on the northern slope and after the wind changed it was observed in the region of the River Blanches.

LIQUOR PLOT IS LAID TO HEALTH OFFICIAL

Dr. Oscar V. Linhardt Held on Prescription Count at Baltimore.

HELD UP, HE EXPLAINS

The resignation of Dr. Oscar V. Linhardt from the United States Public Health Service, pending since October 24, was formally accepted yesterday following the receipt of news that the physician was being held in $1,500 bail at Baltimore by United States Commissioner Supplee on charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition act and issuing liquor prescriptions without making a physical examination of his patients or keeping a record of the prescriptions issued.

The Public Health Service Officials had delayed acting upon the resignation of Dr. Linhardt's request, according to Dr. C. C. Pierce, personnel officer, so that the former health officer could seek a position in another Government department and then obtain a transfer. Dr. Linhardt had been with the Public Health Service about three years, his post being in Tampa, Fla.

The physician told United States officials he was compelled to give up the prescriptions at the point of a gun by three men, who invaded his room in a Baltimore hotel. He later had Earl Doty, of Baltimore, arrested as one of the assailants and a short while later he was also put under arrest.

Dr. Linhardt is a World War veteran and a graduate of the University of Maryland. His home is in Baltimore. He will be given a further hearing next Tuesday.

WOMEN JURORS FIND PRISONER GUILTY

Underwood & Underwood.

District court history was made yesterday when 12 women sat in the jury box of Police Court to try Jack A. Jones, colored, charged with assault. The all-woman jury is as follows, left to right: Front row—Miss Gertrude Dabney, Mrs. Gertrude Furman, Miss Mary Compton, Mrs. Gertrude Hart, Mrs. Alice W. Jenison, Mrs. Marie L. Wilson. Back row—Miss Laura M. Garrett, Mrs. Florence E. Weaver, Miss Margaret E. Wellen, Mrs. Amy B. McGlasson, Mrs. Ester M. Tompkins and Mrs. Katherine A. Costello. The women found Jones guilty of assaulting William Roberts on August 24.

U. S. AGENTS MAKE COURT INVESTIGATION

who is in charge of the prohibition cases in the Police Court, countered by seeking to combine all old cases and all new ones against one offender or a group of offenders and trying them all at the same time. This scheme, however, so far has not worked out satisfactorily and has only succeeded in giving the United States attorney's office additional jury trial days.

Days Are Allotted.

As matters now stand the United States attorney's office is allotted three days a week for jury trials, while the corporation counsel's office has the others. United States Attorney Rover has allotted the first two days of his three for the trial of liquor cases and the other day has been used for trial of assault cases and the like.

The arrangement is one which has repeatedly brought protests from Rover and his staff. Rover wants the docket cleared up, but under present conditions it is practically impossible to hope for that.

However, the present Police Court quarters would not accommodate another court. Traffic Court and the United States branch, which handle the bulk of the cases, have the two large courtrooms, while the District of Columbia court and the jury trial court are located in small rooms, which were so unbearable in summer that the jury cases were transferred to the District Supreme Court Building.

Point of View Considered.

Another factor which, it is believed, might be under investigation is the point of view of the judges on various cases, particularly prohibition. Some of the judges are known to be lenient, while at least one has earned a reputation for passing out the stiffest possible sentences. That judge is John P. McMahon. Attorneys do all in their power to keep a liquor client out of court if McMahon is on the bench.

This is one of the things which is said to have caught the eye of the administration, which prompts the boom for McMahon as a possible successor to the District Supreme Court bench at the next vacancy. Judge Schuldt, too, has been mentioned for the post, and it is hinted that that may be what the now-secret and now-open investigation is about.

SECRECY VEILS QUIZ BY SACKETT GROUP

ett and his colleagues decided to withhold Mitchell's letter rather than let this fact become known. It also is possible that Mitchell has turned down the subcommittee's request.

Last night's meeting of the Sackett subcommittee, which was called after all attempts to hold meetings in the day time had failed, lasted two hours. All five members were present—Sackett, Jones (Republican), of Washington; Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan; Blease (Dmeocrat), of South Carolina, and Copeland (Democrat), of New York.

In addition to discussing the specific complaints in the first Blease resolution (that is, the resolution authorizing the present investigation), the subcommittee also took up another resolution introduced by the South Carolinian, one demanding that Chief of Police Henry G. Pratt, Inspector William Shelby and Lieut. Edward Kelly all be suspended unless both Capt. Robert E. Doyle and Policeman Robert J. Allen are put back on the pay roll.

Senator Blease introduced this resolution just after Doyle and Allen had been suspended for insubordination. Since then Allen has been found guilty and recommended for dismissal, but Doyle has been acquitted and restored to his command at the Eighth Precinct.

Senator Sackett said last night that all of the members of the subcommittee were in agreement on this resolution. However, he said, they had not decided what they would do about it. Unless the subcommittee makes a favorable report on the resolution, the Senate can not act on it.

The Blease resolution authorizing the general investigation calls for an inquiry into reports of "inefficiency and corruption" in the local government and also an inquiry into three specific matters: Why there was a delay in returning an indictment after the last tong murder; the number of Chinese and others permitted to carry revolvers, and the reason for the suspension of Policeman Allen while he was investigating the McPherson murder.

Reports on these three matters were subcommitted to the subcommittee by United States Attorney Rover, Judge Schuldt and Maj. Pratt, but, as has been stated, the subcommittee decided not to make them public.

The subcommittee adjourned last night without setting a date for another meeting.

latory measures to control such situations is seen as urgent.

Bonds Filing Suggested.

The suggestion was made last night by Chief Justice McCoy that a solution of the problem of interchanging information relative to the amount of bonds written in each jurisdiction might be to require all bonds to be filed in the courts as liens against the property upon which the bonds are based.

While admitting that such procedure might possibly work unnecessary hardships upon the bondsmen, Justice McCoy pointed out that it would not only provide an instant check in all courts of the amount of bonds written in toto by any bondsman, but that it also would prevent any bondsman from selling or disposing property listed as an asset in writing any bond or bonds.

There are innumerable pros and cons, strong arguments on both sides, which must be thrashed out and disposed of before any action could be taken on such a proposition, however, and it is extremely unlikely that any such suggestion may be made with a view to having such requirement embodied in the laws of the District until after thorough study of the bonding situation has been made by the jurists, if then.

SECRETARY OF WAR IS DESPERATELY ILL

strict censorship was placed on all sources of information concerning the Cabinet member's condition save the White House, where brief bulletins were issued at intervals of several hours.

The latest bulletin stated that Secretary Good was "resting comfortably" at the Army Hospital. Previous reports were that hope was held for his recovery and that his pulse and blood pressure seemed favorable.

Several rumors spread through Washington and even to the Capitol yesterday afternoon that Good had died, but these were hastily denied. Anxiety over his condition, however, was apparent at the White House. Secretaries kept in constant touch with the hospital and transmitted word of every change to the President and to the press.

For more than an hour the 62-year-old Cabinet member was on the operating table. Gangrene had set in, according to staff surgeons, and the excision was made particularly difficult because of the low position of the appendix. The operation was performed by Col. William I. Keller, note Army surgeon, with Lieut. Comdr. Joel T. Boone, personal physician to Hoover, in attendance. Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, himself a physician, twice examined the patient, before and after the surgeon's work.

Throughout most of the day Mrs. Good kept vigil at the bedside of her husband. Numerous floral tributes were received and placed in the officers' room occupied by the Army chief. No one outside the family and physicians was permitted to visit the sickroom.

Attending physicians expressed cautious optimism early in the afternoon over the way in which Secretary Good reacted from the extremely dangerous operation, one of the most difficult ever performed at Walter Reed Hospital. An abnormal dose of the anesthetic had to be administered to him for the excision, but he had recovered "as well as could be expected" and had lapsed into sleep. He was registering some temperature, but this was said to be not unusual.

Good is the first member of the Hoover Cabinet who has taken seriously ill. A month ago he was treated at Walter Reed for neuritis, after which physicians reported his general health greatly improved. The first indication of appendicitis appeared Tuesday when the Secretary complained to his secretary, John W. Martin, of abdominal pains and went home early.

On Armistice Day he had accompanied President Hoover to Arlington Cemetery to lay a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. At that time, to all outward appearances, he appeared in the best of health.

The Cabinet member was chosen by the President in recognition of his preconvention Western managership of the Hoover campaign and for his work in winning the Middle Western farmers to the Republican standard at the election. He was in charge of the Western party headquarters during the actual campaign following the convention.

A native of Iowa, Good was born on September 24, 1866. He served in the House of Representatives from 1909 until 1921, when he resigned to practice law in Chicago. In the short time of his service as an administrative official he has won notable favor with Army officials because of his thorough understanding of his position.

The Secretary of War has two young sons.

EXCHANGE SEEKING STOCK FALL CAUSE

Members Ordered to Make Daily Reports as Prices Slump to New Lows.

change totaled 7,761,450 shares, and on the New York Curb Exchange 2,779,850 shares, setting new high records for the abbreviated three-hour sessions. The stock exchange ticker did not print the final quotation until 2 hours and 47 minutes after the market closed.

Report of Members Ordered.

The New York Stock Exchange, apparently taking cognizance of unconfirmed reports that a powerful "bear" clique was depressing values to the accompaniment of alarming rumors, ordered all its members to report, as of yesterday, a statement of their position, giving a list of all stock borrowed, from whom and for whose account; a list of all stock loaned, and to whom; interoffice borrowings, and for whose account, and a list of all stock which they have failed to deliver and for whose account, with daily changes thereafter, until further notice. New York firms are required to present their first statement by Saturday noon, while the reports of out-of-town members must be on file not later than Monday noon.

While stock exchange authorities declined to state whether they would make their findings public, brokers generally were of the opinion that if it was definitely determined that professional speculators were taking unfair advantage of the present demoralized situation some punitive measures to check such destructive selling might be forthcoming.

200 Set New Low Marks.

On the New York Stock Exchange 200 individual stocks, or nearly half of those traded in, established new low records for the year, while on the New York Curb Market 306 issues crashed to new low levels.

As the market closed, Wall Street financial tickers printed unofficial Washington dispatches that Federal Government authorities did not find anything in the current situation to warrant their intervention and that their investigation disclosed that banks generally were in sound condition.

No meetings of the New York banking group were held today, although its members kept in constant touch with the situation by telephone.

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange headed downward from the opening gong although United States Steel common and several other high grade issues opened with net gains. Initial blocks ranged from 5,000 to 50,000 shares, declines as a rule ranging from a few cents to $3 a share, with one block of 62,600 shares of General Foods changing hands later in the session.

Steel Main Battleground.

Post No. 2 on the New York Stock Exchange, where United States Steel common stock is traded, was again the principal battleground of opposing speculative forces. Steel opened $2.50 a share higher at $156, sold as high as $160 and as low as $150, the year's minimum, and closed at $151.50.

It was apaprent "150" was the resistance point at which sponsors for the stock were determined to support the issue. Four times the stock dipped down to $150.12 and rebounded a dollar or more, and three times it dipped to the $150 level, and rebounded, despite repeated attempts to break it through that level. Each rebound was greeted with cheers by brokers who hung around the post. With the ticker running an hour or more behind the market, the drama that was being enacted around the Steel post was made known to thousands of brokers and their customers throughout the country by the frequent posting of quotations for the stock as they were telephoned from the floor.

Falling Brick Injures Man.

Struck on the head by a falling brick while at work at the new Internal Revenue Building under construction at Tenth and B streets northwest, Joseph Lee, colored, 36 years old, of Third and E streets southwest, was seriously injured. Taken to Emergency Hospital in an ambulance, Lee was treated by Dr. F. Gilfoy for a possible fracture of the skull.

FARE RAISE DENIED BY UTILITIES UNIT

companies have quietly renewed merger talk between themselves, but nothing has been said about this. At any rate the question of merger is expected to be revived in a forceful manner as soon as Congress gets back on the job in regular session which convenes early next month.

The commission summarized the facts which led to its decision turning down the increased fare request in the following language:

Text of Decision.

"First. There is no valuation, as of today, of the properties of the two street railway companies and, therefore, no rate bases upon which to determine either the return now earned nor that which would be earned if the increased fare is granted.

"Second. Wide differences in accounting methods used by the two companies and certain errors in the accounting records disclosed by the evidence render it impossible to ascertain with the necessary degree of certainty the actual operating expenses or the net railway operating income of the companies.

"Third. The evidence as to the rate of return which would be produced by the proposed increased fares is conjectural.

"Fourth. The commission has the right, and it is its duty, to insist that the companies effect all reasonably possible operating economies before authorizing them to swell their gross revenues by exacting higher fares from the street car riders.

Board's Powers Are Cited.

"Fifth. The commission has the power to compel the companies to make joint use of each other's tracks and facilities. This might result in lesser cost of operation, and in a measure bring about the relief sought by means of higher fares. Without the whole-hearted ecoperation of the companies the full possibilities of such a forced unification of operations could not be realized and, therefore, this procedure might result in little or even no improvement in existing conditions.

"Sixth. A corporate merger, now authorized by law, would substitute unified for dual control of street railway operations in this city, would better the street car service, and would undoubtedly bring about economies, which, with the present rate of fare, would probably put the new merged company in a better condition financially than that of the two separate companies if they are granted the increased fare and if their expectations of its monetary results are fully realized.

"Seventh. Under such circumstances this commission is justified in compelling the street car riders of this city to pay nearly a million dollars more per year for the benefit of the two competing street railway companies.

No Case Made, Is Decision.

"The companies requesting the increase in fares were faced with the burden of proof. The commission, after carefully reviewing all of the evidence presented, finds that the companies have not met this burden. The evidence presented does not afford a basis for final determination of all of the issues involved. The proceeding has been left open for the taking of further testimony with respect to certain features of the case. It, therefore, is unnecessary at this time to rule upon the several motions made at the hearing.

"It is, therefore, ordered that upon the showing made in the record, the requests of the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to be allowed to charge street car riders 10 cents cash, or four tokens for 30 cents, are denied.

"The case is, however, held open and the parties thereto are hereby authorized and permitted to submit further evidence as to the present value of their properties, or to suggest, for the action of the commission, other ways in which the relief sought may be obtained."

Kidnaped FurrierHome, But Threats Follow

Tientsin, China, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Aaron Brenner, New York furrier, arrived here today after nearly a week's captivity in the hands of kidnapers, believed to be Russians. He was in a highly nervous condition and unable to give a coherent account of what had happened to him.

A telephone message was received after he arrived at his home to the effect that "there are twenty of us," and that they would get revenge if his "promise is not kept."

It was believed the "promise" was to pay the ransom demand which finally was reduced to $250,000, since Joseph Brenner, brother of the furrier, denied any ransom had been paid to secure his release.

INCREASE REPORTED IN TOBACCO PRICES

Leaf Producers Get 94 Cents More Than in 1928 for Hundredweight.

BETTER QUALITY GROWN

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Due principally to higher quality, producers sales of leaf tobacco in Virginia for October brought an average of $17.19 per hundred pounds, an increase of 94 cents per 100 over the average for October, 1928, the monthly report of Henry M. Taylor, Federal-State agricultural statistician, shows.

Warehouse statements to the commissioner of agriculture, Taylor's report says, show that prdoucers sold a total volume of 22,951,030 pounds of leaf during October for the composite figure of $3,944,800. Sales for the corresponding month of 1928 were 22,542,741.

"October sales consisted entirely of the flue-cured type as the other markets did not open until November," the report states. "Danville led all markets with total sales of 10,988,852 pounds. South Boston was second with 4,576,296 pounds.

"The average price for the first month's sales this year was slightly higher than last season, but was lower than the October average of $19.26 for 1927 and $24.60 for 1926. Prices improved as the season advanced, as is usually the case.

"The quality of the October sales this year averaged considerably better than the 1928 sales. Warehousemen estimated that the October sales averaged 24 per cent good, 41 per cent medium and 35 per cent common, while last year the estimated quality was 18 per cent good, 35 per cent medium and 47 per cent common.

"The number of warehouses operating during October was 39, compared with 47 last year."

The comparisons of sales for 1928-1929, as compiled by Daniel O'Flaherty, junior crop and livestock estimator in the Federal-State statistical office here, shows:

Total producers' sales to Nov. 1	22,951,030	22,542,741
Average price October producers' sales	$17.19	$16.25
Sales for season		117,254,824
Estimated Virginia crop November 1 estimate of 1929 crop	120,930,000	104,894,000

Sales in 1927 and 1928 were greater than the estimated crop, due to the presence in Virginia markets of tobacco from other States, principally North Carolina.

Baltimore & Ohio Employes Get Raise

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Returning today from a conference in Baltimore of a committee and officials, Russell E. Sandy, local foreman and city councilman, announced that wage increases ranging from 2½ to 8 per cent had been granted all maintenance of way employes of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The workmen also will receive time and a half for work done over eight hours instead of ten hours as heretofore.

Garden Club Starts Tree-Planting Move

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 13.—The Altavista Garden Club has taken the initiative in an effort to plant trees along Route 14 between this city and there, a distance of 26 miles. The club has adopted a resolution, asking the Lynchburg three garden clubs to join the project.

The State highway commission has offered to aid in planting and to maintain the trees.

Land Owners Angered At Park's Zigzag Lines

Luray, Va., Nov. 13.—Zigzag lines—some say drawn to include or exclude holdings of certain owners of mountain lands to be used for the Shenandoah National Park in this county—are intensifying dissatisfaction of many included or excluded from the original boundaries made for the park.

Some of the boundaries are saw teeth to such an extent that they run for a mile or so north and south, suddenly turn east or west, as the case may be, creating the conviction that they were made to exclude or include a certain tract of land wanted or not wanted within the park boundaries.

Surveyors of the original park boundaries say that the zigzag lines were made for the purpose of excluding valuable orchards and farm lands so that the acreage within the park might conform to the amount of money within sight for its purchase.

FIVE ARE INJURED AS TRUCKS COLLIDE

Crash of Vehicles Kills Two Cows and Many Chickens.

ONE MAN LIKELY TO DIE

One man was critically injured, three others received minor hurts and two cows and several crates of chickens were killed yesterday in a triple automobile accident on the Frederick pike, three miles west of Ellicott City, Md., when Karl M. Walz, driver of a motor truck of the Monumental Storage Co., of Baltimore, lost control of his machine and crashed into another truck, overturning it. A third truck veered off the road and its driver was injured in an effort to avoid striking the overturned machine.

The seriously injured man is Lee Hoffman, of Frederick, a passenger in the overturned truck which was operated by Harry Sheetenhelm, of the same place. Hoffman received fractures of the skull, arm, elbow and knee and concussion of the brain. His companion escaped with slight cuts and bruises on the face and hands, but the two cows which they were hauling suffered broken backs and died within a few minutes, while the chickens were mashed into an unrecognizable feather fricassee.

Harman L. Kefauver, operator of the third truck, which is owned by the Peerless Ice Cream Co., of Frederick, and Walz were both cut about the hands and face. All four men were taken to Ellicott City and treated by Dr. A. N. Herbert, and Hoffman was later removed to the Frederick Hospital, where little hope was held out for his recovery.

State Policeman J. E. Haddaway investigated the accident and placed Walz under arrest on a charge of reckless driving, but he was released by Justice of the Peace F. C. Higgenbotham, of Ellicott City, on his personal bond to appear Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at a hearing of the case in Ellicott City.

MARTINSBURG MAN, SICK, SHOOTS SELF

S. S. Felker, Prominent Citizen, Is to Be Buried Tomorrow.

HAD BEEN MAGISTRATE

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Samuel S. Felker, 65, a native and lifelong resident of this county and city, twice elected magistrate in Martinsburg and candidate for mayor on the Democratic ticket eight years ago, committed suicide about 8 o'clock this morning by shooting himself with a revolver through the brain in the cellar of his home here.

The body was found by Mrs. Felker. She said she heard what she later concluded was the fatal shot, but which she first thought was the back fire from an automobile engine. Half an hour later, arising, she discovered his coat, but did not see her husband. Investigation disclosed the lifeless body. A note addressed to Mrs. Felker explained that he was driven to his act by seven years of illness. Friends and relatives were aware of his poor health, but said he had never indicated thoughts of self-violence. Contents of the note were not made public entirely. Coroner H. G. Tonkin, investigating, held the death a suicide and an inquest unnecessary.

Mr. Felker, widely known in business, fraternal and Democratic political circles in the eastern end of the State, had not been active in any of these fields for several years. He retired from business some years ago. He was identified with State and local building and loan association undertakings; secretary of the local branch of the United Commercial Travelers and for many years was active in Masonic work. During the period of the orchard boom here ten years ago he was one of those who engineered a number of sales, as well as directing formation of orchard companies.

Surviving are the widow, one grandson, S. S. Felker, who resides at his grandparents' home, one brother, John D. Felker, and one sister, Mrs. George Mason, both of this city.

As a request to the note to Mrs. Felker, funeral services will be private on Friday at the home with burial here.

Conference Is Called To Talk Child Health

Special to The Washington Post.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 13.—With the object of presenting a united front in the battle against forces which would undermine and destroy the health of the children of West Virginia, the division of child hygiene of the State department of health has called a conference for November 26 at Morgantown. Invitations have been sent to 38 organizations inviting them to attend a special session of the West Virginia Public Health Association, which will be devoted especially to the discussion of the organization of a State child health council, which would be affiliated with the West Virginia Public Health Association.

Mrs. Mary E. Snyder Dies at Spring Mills

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Mrs Mary E. Snyder, wife of Thomas Snyder, and one of this county's oldest residents, died yesterday at her home at Spring Mills, near here, after an illness due to the infirmities of her advanced age. She died on her fifty-sixth wedding anniversary and just eight days previous to her eighty-third birthday.

Surviving are her husband, six children and a brother.

FALL KILLS GIRL, 10, AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Willa Jeanne Lash, Daughter of Chaplain, Plunges Through Skylight.

WAS PLAYING IN ATTIC

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13.—Murky weather, which kept Willa Jeanne Lash, 10 years old, daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. Frank Lash, of the United States Naval Academy, indoors with her playmates, caused her death at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The girl plunged headlong through a heavy skylight from the attic to the first floor of her home on the naval reservation.

Willa had wanted to play with her companions, but her mother had persuaded them all to stay indoors because of unpleasantness outside. Before she was aware of their departure they had slipped off to the attic on an exploration adventure.

The child's father, who was downstairs, heard a crash of shattering glass a few minutes later and rushed into a room lighted by the skylight to find his daughter prostrate on the floor, blood gushing from deep cuts on her face and head.

Summoning Capt. James C. Pryor, the chaplain and the officer hurried with the girl to the naval hospital in an automobile, but she was declared dead upon arrival. Her skull was badly crushed, as she had fallen three stories.

A pall of gloom spread over the academy campus and into the town of Annapolis when the news of Willa's death spread, as she was popular both with the midshipmen and the members of the faculty.

No inquest will be held.

SCHOOL BUS ROUTES PROBLEM IN COUNTY

School Board Presents New Regulations for Approval of Commissioners.

WASHINGTON MEN FINED

Faced with the prospect of pulling the "chestnuts out of the fire" for the county commissioners on the question of free bus transportation of high school pupils, the Prince Georges County board of education yesterday "passed th buck" back to the county commissioners.

The commissioners had referred to the board an application filed by influential county political leaders for free transportation of pupils for a distance of 20 miles to the Marlboro colored high school with the agreement of the commissioners to finance the bus route "if the board will recommend it." The board of education could approve the new route, it was pointed out, and find itself deluged with delegations from several other communities which had asked the same privileges at a prior time, or it could face political disfavor by refusing.

The board retaliated by presenting a set of new regulations for the board of county commissioners to act upon which will provide a "fixed transportation policy." The new regulations would provide for establishment of bus lines for elementary pupils only after a rural school has been closed, or to avoid the erection of an addition to a present rural school building; limitation of transportation of primary pupils to those living more than 1 mile from the school; intermediate pupils living more than a mile and a half and high school pupils living more than 2 miles away; establishment of high school bus lines wherever there are at least twenty pupils desiring such transportation who have no access to public conveyance; discontinuance of any bus line if the costs mount over $40 per annum per pupil unless the pupils pay all costs above that sum.

The board then recommended that the following bus routes be provided for in the event that the commissioners approve the new plan: From Lanham and Landover to the Hyattsville High School, cost $1,200; from Mitchellville and vicinity to the Marlboro High School, $1,200; from Collington and Bowie to the Highland Park Colored High School and from Young's store to the Marlboro Colored High School, $1,200. The requests are arranged in the order they were received.

The board made no definite statement, but the letter which was received yesterday by James C. Blackwell, clerk to the county commissioners, plainly shows that the board feels that the prior requests should be complied with first before caring for the route asked by the political leaders. The board points out that the Marlboro Colored High School is "totally inadequate for the present enrollment" and asks that an appropriation of $30,000 be immediately provided to purchase land and erect a new elementary and high school building to supplant it.

Pointing out that the present transportation bill for pupils attending county schools is $21,700 a year, of which $1,500 is paid by pupils and $200 by the county commissioners, the balance being included in the budget, the board asks the commissioners if they wish all high school children to be transported at a charge of $20 a year each, which is about one-half the cost, or whether the county commissioners are desirous of furnishing free transportation, which would have the effect of cancelling charges on three existing routes. The board goes on record as approving free transportation for high school pupils, provided the problem is treated in the same manner throughout the county and provided that the commissioners are willing to appropriate funds for this purpose.

In referring to a disagreement between two factions at the Glenn Dale School in regard to a teacher at that school yesterday morning it was erroneously stated that the school had been closed last year and had encountered previous difficulty with teachers. Another school was referred to in these statements and not the Glenn Dale School. The Post regrets the error.

Two Washington men yesterday were fined in the Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court on charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Each was fined $101 by Judge J. Chew Sheriff. The men, both of whom were arrested by Maryland State Policeman L. Bloom, gave their names as William Fladung and Edward L. Berry.

William Page, colored, who is alleged to have thrown a lighted lamp at Sarah Brown, also colored, was sentenced to serve six months in jail on a charge of assault and battery. The man attempted to cause them to believe that he was insane by biting at handcuffs placed on his wrists, County Policeman Claude Reese and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown, the arresting officers, declared.

A suspended sentence was meted out to Eva Watkins, colored, accused of starting a woodland fire in violation of the forestry laws. The woman was accused of permitting a brush fire to get beyond control. Cora Edmonston, colored, was fined $100 on charges of illegal possession of intoxicants and running a disorderly house. She was arrested by Reese and Constable George Wiseman.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

"HERE is something worth striving for," remarked Luella, reading the awards made by the Nobel Foundation.

"Yeah?"

"Certainly," she said. "Don't you think it time your gave up trying to solve cross-word puzzles and picking the losers at Pimlico? It says here the Nobel prizes are worth each $46,299."

Come to think of it, that's rather a tidy sum of money. So, inquiring for details, "What would you have me do?" I asked Luella—— "Or are there any specifications for the winning of the Nobel prizes?"

"There are five different classes," she told me, "but what I think you ought to try for is the chemistry award——"

"The chemistry award? I never was much at chemistry——"

* * * *

LUELLA bade me be silent.

"You are probably a genius and don't know it," she bragged, reading aloud: "Professor Hans von Euler-Chelpin, of Upsala University, Sweden, won the 1929 award for researches in the fermentation of sugars and the enzyme action in the process——"

It was my turn to call a halt.

"Just one minute, lady, just a minute! What do I know about enzymes?"

Again she stopped me. "You know a lot about the fermentation of sugar," she flashed. "Every time I want to use some for cakes and pies the sack is empty and there you are down cellar with a lot of crocks——"

"Now, you're getting personal, Luella. You see——"

"If the truth were known," she said, "you know a lot about enzymes."

Maybe I do and maybe I don't. The idea seems familiar, but I've never heard the word before.

"You've got a book," she recalled, "look it up."

* * * *

IT TOOK but an hour or so to get the low-down on enzymes, from the rare old volume, "What Every American Should Know." Sure enough, Luella was right. I do know something about enzymes. It seems that an enzyme is nothing more nor less than a cake of yeast.

"Didn't I tell you?" chided Luella. "You've got as good a chance as anybody to win a Nobel prize, especially any body named Hans von Euler-Chelpin——"

"It isn't cricket to make fun of the man's name," I remonstrated. "What's so odd about Hans von Euler-Chelpin?"

* * * *

LUELLA giggled. "How do I know what's odd about him? But his name sounds like the German for Charlie Chaplin."

"If you want to go into that," I challenged, "what about Chaliapin, the singer? That's probably Charlie Chaplin in Russian. You are talking, though, about the Nobel prize for chemistry, and I've got half a notion to enter the contest."

"Good," said Luella "I know you'll win, too!"

"You do?"

"Yes, because you're making original researches. You've never been hampered by tradition, in your laboratory tests——"

"In other words, I don't know from one batch to another what the results will be, eh? Does that make a difference?"

"All the difference in the world," she said. "I've heard some of your friends say, when your back was turned, that compared to you all the Munich brew meisters are bums!"

They would say that. Anyway, here is warning that Prof. Hans von Euler-Chelpin must look to his enzymes. It's time an American won a Nobel prize for a noble experiment.

WHARF IS OPPOSED BY PARK DIRECTOR

Protests Filed Against Permit Requested by Oil Company.

TIME LIMIT IS EXTENDED

Rejection of the application of the Sun Oil Co., of Philadelphia, for a permit from the United States Engineer Office to construct a wharf to handle petroleum products at the company's proposed plant just north of the Key Bridge, at Rosslyn, Va., was foreshadowed yesterday when it was learned that Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks and vice chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, has protested against the issuance of the permit and that the Fine Arts Commission is contemplating similar action.

Maj. Brehon B. Somervell, District engineer in charge of the Washington area for the War Department, who is to pass upon the application, had set today as the last in which expressions of attitude would be received from interested persons, but in compliance with numerous requests he has extended the time limit until tomorrow. Col. Grant said yesterday that if the wharf was constructed it would be injurious to the park area proposed in the Thompson bill, which already has passed the House and which he believes will become law, and that the wharf also would encroach upon Government property.

H. P. Caemmerer, secretary of the Fine Arts Commission, has taken much the same stand, and indicated yesterday that his commission likewise would file formal protest. The commission has received a letter of strong protest from Dr. J. M. Roberts, purporting to speak for the residents of the vicinity, he said. Property owners and homemakers in the neighborhood of Rosslyn are understood to be unanimous in their disapproval of the plan.

Although tomorrow has been set as the final date for protests and comment, Maj. Somervell said that he was unable to say definitely when he would pass upon the application. In the event that he is in the city and more pressing business does not come up, he may consider the application and protests tomorrow and then announce his decision, he said.

The Silver Lining In Wall Street Cloudburst

Many financial experts see behind the storm-cloud in Wall Street such blessings as the release of the huge funds that have been tied up in speculation now freed for use in productive enterprises; the cure of the speculative craze that turned America into a vast Monte Carlo; and the elimination of false values of securities which have been a danger hanging over the investment world for several years past. The essential soundness of business is emphasized everywhere.

Stock speculation in the past had a great deal of influence on business sentiment, but the National Industrial Conference Board argues that this is no longer true. It presents an impressive array of figures involving stock prices and various business factors which enable it to reach the conclusion that "the violent stock fluctuations during the present and past year have had little relation to business activity, the more so as business during that period has shown a hitherto unusual stability and thus far a steadily increasing trend."

In The Literary Digest this week, November 16th, there is a very comprehensive survey of the business situation and the effect upon it of the Wall Street slump, with conservative predictions of what may be in store for the individual investor, business man, and job holder. Other striking articles in this number are:

FOOD AND THE LEAGUE.

America would have to form an alliance with members of the League of Nations and bring about a change in the League covenant before President Hoover's suggestion to immunize food ships from interference in time of war could be made effective. This is the unmistakable impression conveyed by the latest dispatches from London, Paris and Rome. The trend of foreign comment does not encourage the idea that the food ship plan of feeding the enemy would be acceptable even in the circumstances suggested, but it dispels any thought that European nations would consider the proposition while America remains outside of the league and aloof from any alliance to punish a violator of the Kellogg pact.

In the first place, it is pointed out in Europe that the proposal to feed the enemy could not be agreed to by any league member, because it is a direct violation of Article 16 of the league covenant, which provides for the economic or starvation boycott of any covenant-breaking state. The league binds every member to join in the economic or starvation blockade in order to bring a recalcitrant nation to terms. The proposal to supply the enemy with food is the exact opposite of the league remedy, and would, according to European commentators, have the effect of inviting violation of the covenant and encouraging an aggrieved nation to resort to war. What the league regards as its most effective peace weapon, short of combined military operations, would be rendered impotent. When the covenant was being formulated it was stoutly maintained that the economic blockade under Article 16 would be sufficient of itself to make war impossible, by bringing a covenant-breaking state to terms before actual hostilities began.

After binding all the league members to joint action, Article 16 provides that the league members shall subject the offending nation > to the severance of all trade or financial relations, the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals and the nationals of the covenant-breaking state, and the prevention of all financial, commercial or personal intercourse between the nationals of the covenant-breaking state and the nationals of any other state, whether a member of the league or not.

Neither Great Britain nor France nor Italy nor any other league member could agree to Mr. Hoover's proposal without violating the obligations of Article 16. It would not be a question of making the agreement with America first and then ascertaining whether the league would indorse it. The league members under Article 20 of the covenant have agreed that they will not enter into any engagements inconsistent with the terms of the covenant. Acceptance of the food ship proposal would automatically violate Article 16 in the absence of an amendment to the covenant itself. There would have to be very substantial reasons before the league would consider amending the covenant to do away with the economic blockade, which is the league's chief weapon. Whether the league members would regard an American alliance to punish violators of the Kellogg pact as sufficient inducement can not be stated. Perhaps if America were drawn into such an alliance the league members might regard the international police power sufficiently strengthened to warrant abolishing the scheme of blockading a nation resorting to war. But the United States can not, under the Constitution, make a treaty of alliance that would be in effect an amendment of the Constitution. The treaty-making power is very extensive, but it is not greater than its creator.

IMPOTENCE AND FOLLY.

All factions in the Senate are agreed that further attempts to enact a tariff bill in the extra session are hopeless. Two weeks ago President Hoover issued a statement calling upon the Senate to get down to business and pass the bill. He would not admit that "the Senate of the United States was unable to legislate." The period suggested for completion of the bill has now elapsed, and the whole country is forced to admit the Senate's impotence.

The Democrats are ready to adjourn. After a conference with various chiefs of the party Senator Simmons, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, announced that they are willing to abandon the tariff to the vicissitudes of the regular session. Wearied by the long fight and by the hopelessness of the Republicans' position, Senator Smoot, chairman of the finance committee, will offer no objection to the adjournment move. The insurgent Republicans realize that their tactics can not produce a tariff bill before December 2. Speaker Longworth has indicated that the House will not oppose adjournment if the initiative comes from the Senate.

The Democrats will go home for a brief holiday satisfied with their achievement. They set out to obstruct the administration's plan for revision of the tariff, and with the aid of the Republican renegades they have succeeded. However, the full burden of the Senate's failure falls upon the shoulders of the insurgent bloc, which broke away from its party principles. Having wrecked the tariff bill with its debenture nostrum, its vitiation of the flexible provision and its insistence on rates that provide relief for agriculture only, this clique is now apprehensive that the bill will fail. Ordinary prudence would have suggested to them two months ago that a bill written for any special interest would never be passed. How can the farmers back in the home States excuse such utter disregard of their interests?

If the present era of prosperity is interrupted it will be directly traceable to the failure of the Senate to deal fairly with tariff revision. The session was called to patch up the weak places in the economic structure, but it has succeeded in shaking the confidence of business throughout the country. John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, says it is useless to ignore the fact that the uncertainty which began to invade the business world a few months ago has been intensified by the failure of Congress on the tariff. The opinion is sustained by other business and industrial leaders. Industry, commerce and agriculture alike are injured by tariff uncertainty.

The country is disgusted at the ineffectiveness of the Senate. To realize that a limited revision of the tariff can not be made is to lose faith in the national legislative body. For those who have struggled constantly and faithfully for a revision that would do justice to all American interests, the public will have sympathy. But for the clique that has sacrificed the whole country for the sake of selfish ends that can not be attained there will be nothing but public scorn. The failure of the extra session, designed especially for relief of their constituents, will fall heavily upon the heads of these misguided zealots.

ALEKHINE'S CHESS CROWN.

Dr. Alexander Alekhine retains his crown as the world's chess champion by his defeat of Bogoljubow in a protracted match of 25 games, of which the champion won 11, lost 5 and drew 9. Both champion and challenger are natives of Russia, and it is interesting to note that Alekhine perfected his extraordinary talent while a prisoner during the World War.

It soon became apparent after the match started that the champion was superior to his opponent in all branches of the game and therefore in a position to take chances which he never took in his match with Capablanca two years ago which he won by a score of 6 to 3 and 25 draws. The match just concluded produced lively and spectacular games as a consequence. But the caliber of chess, from the standpoint of soundness, was not comparable to that of the Alekhine-Capablanca match or the match between Capablanca and Emanuel Lasker, whereby the former became champion.

There has always been doubt in the chess world as to whether Capablanca's defeat of Lasker by a narrow margin was conclusive proof of superiority. Lasker is still regarded by many as the outstanding master of modern times. A match between Alekhine and Lasker would be most interesting.

SIMPLIFYING COMMERCE.

In the interest of developing trade between the American nations several recent Pan-American gatherings have recommended adjustment of port formalities and the procedure of collecting tariffs. As a result a pan-American commission will meet in Washington on November 18 for an intensive study of port regulations. It is the purpose of the commission to facilitate commerce by elimination of red tape in the collection of duties.

Delegates from 21 nations will endeavor to work out a program for simplification of formalities wherever possible. Rules of customs procedure will be standardized. An attempt will be made to simplify the calculations upon which duties are levied. At present different countries use gross weight, net weight, length, surface area or value in determining what tariff should be paid on similar articles. It is hoped also that all customs duties, surcharges and taxes will be merged into a single rate to reduce the burdens of administering tariff acts. Another proposal to be considered is that each country establish a central authority whose duty it will be to fix uniform classifications for assessment of duties at all ports. A further recommendation seeks the establishment of a customs court to hear all appeals from customs officials. Finally, the commission will consider needs for enlargement of port facilities to prevent clogging of international commerce.

The commission is undertaking an enormous but a worthy task. No one knows to what extent commerce with South American countries is stagnated by official red tape in the customs offices. But the great diversity of regulations suggests that the confusion, misunderstanding and delay resulting therefrom is considerable. It should be publicly understood that no attempt will be made to influence the tariff policy of any nation. The energy of the commission will be directed toward elimination of technicalities which stand in the way of commercial development. If the commission is able to formulate recommendations to accomplish that purpose it will prove a boon to inter-American commerce.

NO INCREASED FARES.

The Public Utilities Commission, in denying the request of the local street railway companies for permission to increase the rate of fare to 10 cents, acted in the public interest. The denial was based on two grounds; first, that the companies failed to prove that they are entitled to such relief and, second, that the relief sought could be obtained by means other than an increase in fares. Although the commission deliberately left the way open for presentation of further argument by the companies, the tenor of the decision indicates that it would take argument of great weight to influence a reversal of opinion. Inasmuch as the companies left no stone unturned in making their case, it does not seem likely that such further arguments can now be presented. The incident may, therefore, be regarded as closed, with the victory on the side of the public.

SIR RONALD LINDSAY.

All Americans who are acquainted with Sir Ronald Lindsay are delighted to learn that he is to represent his Britannic majesty in Washington. He has served twice in Washington, his last service here having been in the capacity of counselor of embassy. Since 1920 he has been ambassador to Germany and Turkey, and in 1928 he was appointed permanent undersecretary of the foreign office. No other British diplomat in recent years has enjoyed Sir Ronald Lindsay's opportunities for acquiring at first hand a wealth of knowledge of the actual condition of nations and a personal acquaintance with the world's foremost personalities.

Son of the premier earl of Scotland, husband of a charming American wife, accomplished statesman and diplomat, Sir Ronald Lindsay is Britain's most fortunate contribution to the cause of friendship and understanding with the United States. He will be most welcome.

WHO KILLED PROSPERITY?

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In view of the effect which the tangled tariff situation threatens to exert on general business and industry, the time has come for plain speaking. There is no discounting the significance of such statements as those by John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Fred I. Kent, a leading New York banker. They reflect the rapidly increasing resentment and disgust of the country at the tactics of those professional obstructionists in the Senate who are putting petty politics above broad, national interests and so grossly abusing the temporary power they have managed to assume.

Mr. Edgerton remarks that it is useless to close our eyes to the fact that the doubt and uncertainty which began to invade the business world a few months ago have been intensified by the failure of Congress to enact tariff legislation promptly at this special session and go home. This "strangulation" of the whole Congress by a mere handful of politically obsessed senators, calling themselves Progressives, has contributed more than anything else, in his opinion, "to stifle business confidence throughout the country." While this condition has been reflected in the stock market, this authority believes that if Congress would now be permitted to pass a tariff bill and end this uncertainty, "the restored confidence would more than offset the disruptions of temporary speculations."

Mr. Kent's statement, more directly concerned with the relation of the tariff imbroglio to the stock-market decline, emphasizes the fact that "uncertainty is the most difficult thing for business to face." In this connection there should be recalled the warnings so frequently and forcefully sounded by Mr. Hoover during the last presidential campaign against long-drawn-out delays in the revision of the tariff and the inevitably injurious influence which uncertainty in this matter exerts on business. He expressed his opposition to making tariff revision a continuous performance, as contained in the piecemeal program proposed by the Democratic candidate. The essence of his argument was that when summoned to revise the tariff, Congress should perform its task expeditiously, with the least possible disturbance to business, and finish its job in a manner that would not require any more tinkering for some time to come.

In the light of recent developments, it is strange to recall the general confidence at the time when Mr. Hoover assumed office that he would be able to command abundant support for putting through his program, which had just received such an overwhelming indorsement from the country.

But what a change has come over the spirit of this dream! For a dream it has proved to be. Senator Borah, who went up and down the country, from Boise to Boston, proclaiming industry's need for tariff protection and beseeching his auditors not to intrust revision to the tender mercies of the Democrats, has become a turncoat. He is wearing the full uniform of an insurgent general now. If he has his way, no manufacturing industry will get a shred of protection. And his associate obstructionists are equally enemies of general business and industry, which are now feeling the effects of their blows.

The country might as well face the fact that unless Congress at this time passes a tariff bill protecting both manufactures and agriculture, continuing the President's powers under the flexible provision and minus the objectional debenture, it is going to be a long time before there is another chance for tariff revision. And if this happens, the people will know just where to place the blame. It will not belong on the shoulders of President Hoover or of the Republican senators who have been trying to support his administration.

WANDERING.

"What did you see in your wanderings
Traveler, tell me pray?
At the edge of the world what charms unfurled
At dawn and dusk of day?"

"Oh, whether I traveled a mountain ridge
Or walked in the valleys fair
Or the edge of the sea, I found," said he,
"That people were dwelling there.

"Up or down to their tasks they went
At evening home they came,
Much as we are, were the folk afar
And their dreams were much the same.

"They laughed and sang when their hearts were glad
And the children romped and played.
They struggled for gain and they suffered pain
And I saw graves newly made.

"Though customs differ and manners change,
Wherever a man may roam
He'll find the tear and the smile appear
The same as they do at home."

The Bigger Game You Hunt, the More Risk You Must Run.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

NEXT to earning money, the hardest job in the world is to invest it wisely.

The worker with surplus earnings, the old people with savings and the widow with life insurance are equally ignorant of investment values, and because of their ignorance are preyed upon by rogues and ill advised by gentlemen who have axes to grind.

Many of those who are fleeced—perhaps most of them—invite disaster by trying to get something for nothing.

Those yet unfleeced may save themselves by learning the two basic facts of finance.

First, the degree of risk increases with the percentage of profit.

Second, no investment is absolutely safe.

The safest of all investments is a government bond, but even governments have repudiated their debts. Federal and State bonds are as safe, however, as anything can be in an uncertain world and offer the ideal invesmtent for those who dare not lose. Their one fault is that they pay a low rate of interest.

Municipal bonds are safe also, but they pay little more than the others, and if city officials fail to build a sinking fund, as frequently they do, the bonds lose reputation and are not easily converted into cash except at a sacrifice.

There are industrial bonds that are safe unless hard times or mismanagement bankrupts the company back of them, and there are real estate bonds—small shares in a mortgage on some income-paying skyscraper—that are safe if the bonding company doesn't lend too much on a property and its officers don't pocket the money, as one set did a few years ago.

Buying good bonds of any kind is a way to save money, but it isn't a way to get rich. In fact, it's much like building a savings account in a bank—except that banks pay less and occasionally go broke.

People who hope to grow rich by investing a small capital or continued savings must buy a share in the growth of the country. They must buy stocks.

A few thousand dollars invested in the better-known stocks twenty years ago would be a great fortune today, but this era of prosperity may not be repeated.

The new and safer way to gamble is to buy shares in a trust company that invests in a score or more of stocks. Your investment buys a proportionate share in all of the stocks held and the gain on one may balance the loss on another.

These companies know stock values and operate cannily, but they offer no guarantee of profits. If all stocks slump in a season of depression everybody loses.

Nowhere is there absolute assurance of profit or safety. And if you keep your money in a crock you run a treble risk. It may burn, somebody may steal it or money may depreciate again until your hoarded dollars shrink to a mere 50 cents in purchasing value.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

NO. 1—CALVIN COOLIDGE'S LIFE STORY.

This is a story that will interest grown-ups and not offend children. It is the work of Mr. Calvin Coolidge, a rising young author who seeks to do for Vermont what Bret Harte did for California, Thornton Wilder for Peru and Ernest Heminway for Spain. Mr. Coolidge was quite well known even before he turned to literature, he having spent a number of years in Washington as President of the United States or something. Great things were predicted for him even when he was serving as President and the high hopes of his admirers would now seem to have been realized by his first book.

* * * *

The book rather baffles description. It is not pure romance, nor does it come under the head of travel, history, hunting big game in Africa or psychoanalysis. Perhaps it may be best described as just a book, not too thick and not too thin, with most of the pages cut.

* * * *

Mr. Coolidge chooses for his hero a man named Steve, or possibly it is Gus, and the story opens in a small Vermont town at the height of the Money Mardi Gras or Coin Scramble, an annual fete in which all the natives participate and give themselves over to a riotous tossing away of silver dollars. In this quaint frolic it is the endeavor of each Vermont man to throw away more coins than the other. The man who throws away the greatest sum of money is crowned king of the spendthrifts and wheeled around the village green on a huge float called the Spirit of Extravagance. He is the envy of all true Vermonters.

* * * *

It is at the Coin Scramble that the hero meets Joan Lowell, a sea captain who is in love with Trader Horn, a brother of a ukulele-player known as "Musical" Horn. It is a case of love at first sight and he takes her into the village store and buys for her the gifts, which Vermont custom prescribes must be given by any Vermont boy to the girl of his choice. They are a Rolls-Royce, a player-piano and two 80-foot yachts.

* * * *

Here there is a terrific clap of thunder (which is no wonder) and lightning flashes in the skies. The Vermont hero takes Joan in his arms and sings the theme song, "Oh to be a Vagabond and Never Have a Dime." This is immediately followed, naturally, by a hurricane, which sweeps the hero and heroine into the Yale bowl with Nathalie Crane, Sinclair Lewis, two fishing guides and a big life insurance company.

* * * *

From this point the author seems to ramble a bit and there is a lot of narrative prose concerning the Hollywood diet, daylight saving and the Boston police strike. There is a duel between the hero and a cowboy, who wants him to dress up and play Indiana. While they are fighting it out, the heroine is caught in a three-alarm fire, which later turns out to be a stock market crash. She is saved by John D. Rockefeller, who climbs up a ladder and announces, "My son and I are buying at these levels."

Everybody is then reunited and the closing number is "America, I Love You."

* * * *

There is a preface on the maple-sugar industry and many footnotes on wood-carving, most of them quite subtle.

All in all Mr. Coolidge has done quite well and should be heard from later, unless the Boston censors do something about it all.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Free Food Ships Would Encourage and Prolong Wars and Make Economic Boycott Impossible.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It must have been apparent to President Hoover that Europe would never consent to immunization of food ships, for the reason that this would destroy the one weapon by which the League of Nations hopes to maintain peace without resort to bloodshed. Once food ships were declared privileged, the "economic boycott," or starvation of an aggressor, would no longer be possible. The proposal, if adopted, would not result in "humanizing" war, but would increase the dangers of war and would prolong wars.

The principal nations of the world are engaged in an attempt to limit armaments. The United States is taking a leading part in these negotiations. There are many who fail to see harmony between the limitation of munitions and guns and the immunization of food ships in time of war, because food is for all practical purposes armament. Wars are won with food. It is for this reason that the League of Nations, following the World War, decided to use the economic boycott to suppress war. The President's suggestion runs squarely counter to this movement.

The plan is put forth in the hope that it will mitigate the horrors of war. In effect it would prolong war. Instead of being brought to their knees by hunger, nations would be able to fight on and on until their man power was exhausted. Who can say that this would not be more destructive than the temporary pinch of hunger?

One of the reasons why war is not more common is because the population fears the consequences. Would not a large share of that fear be removed if continuous food supplies were assured? The result would be to popularize war. The nation declaring war would no longer feel its blight throughout the length and breadth of its land. The losses would fall upon the fighting machine. One more incentive to keep the peace would be removed.

It is argued by some that immunity for food ships would make armaments less essential, because there would be no longer necessity for protecting the food supply. Such confidence in international agreements is not generally shared, but if such freedom of food ships could be indisputably established, it would not reduce the need for armaments. Control of food supply is itself an armament, or a source of protection, as well as a terrible weapon of offense. What virtue is there in a plan which, if it could ever be put into effect, would increase the danger of war and lengthen the struggles when they did occur, and thus add to the burdens of taxpayers?

RALPH T. HARDY.

Freedom of the Seas Is Coming, Even if the Settlement Must Be Made by Force of Arms.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As The Post editorially remarks, denial of freedom of the seas "has driven the United States into two wars." Yet strangely enough, there are many good citizens in whose minds our deep-sea history is merely a source of academic battle thrills and sailors' yarns. On the other hand there is encouragement in what I take to be The Post's belief that, in this country at least, an alert and clear-sighted section of the electorate is not likely to be satisfied until, as an evidence of good faith, a sincere determination to write "freedom of the seas" into the law of nations is indicated by all governments.

Such being the case, it seems obvious that, maybe requiring a decade or so, the freedom-of-the-seas question will yet be settled, and settled right, possibly by an international resort to arms.

WILLIAM TIPTON TALBOT.

Shocking! New British Ambassador May Make the Embassy Wet Again.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am shocked to note by the morning papers that the new British Ambassador may not perpetuate the policy of keeping the British Embassy dry. I trust the report is in error, but it seems to me that our State Department could strike a telling blow for prohibition by confidentially advising the British and other foreign governments that no envoy who indulges in intoxicating liquors will be persona grata in dry America.

E PLURIBUS UNUM.

SMALLER TOMBSTONES.

At a recent meeting of cemetery superintendents, observes the Los Angeles Times, it was decided to recommend the use of smaller and saner tombstones. In many of the newer graveyards the tombstones and even the family monument are forbidden. There may be a marker of granite or bronze, but all the rest is a rolling expanse of delightful greenery. It looks like a pleasant place to sleep. The idea is to get away from the marble bill boards which advertised the virtues of the departed. It wearies a stranger to note a massive slab on which is carved:

Here lies the bones of Jonathan Spears,
A pilgrim in this vale of tears.
He was large of body and vast of mind,
And this was the biggest stone we could find.

Old-fashioned country church-yards are studded with tombstones after this pattern. Sometimes there was a suspicion that the slab had to be a ponderous one to hold the deceased in place. But now the men who create and control cemeteries are changing all this. If the mausoleum or crematory is passed over the suggestion is for a quiet little grave under an enduring greensward with no shaft or slab to rear its ghostly presence above the sod.

REPARATIONS BANK AGREEMENT SIGNED

Ceremony Is Guarded With Strictest Secrecy; Press Is Not Admitted.

DELEGATES ARE SILENT

Baden-Baden, Germany, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The statutes charter and trust agreements for the Bank for International Settlements, which has been hailed as removing the last of the postwar problems from the realm of politics, was solemnly signed at 6:25 o'clock this evening by the delegates to the conference which framed them.

The signing was shrouded in the same veil of secrecy which has characterized the long and sometimes bitter meetings of the last six weeks. Newspapermen were not admitted, nor were the faithful stenographers, who had borne the brunt of the long negotiations and who had looked forward to the historic ceremony which marked success.

The first to sign was Sir Charles Addis, of Great Britain, the senior by years, who also signed for his absent countryman, W. T. Layton. Another absentee was the French delegate, Pierre Quesnay, who, however, arrived from Paris late tonight and signed them.

Belgian Signatures Missing.

Belgian signatures also were missing, but General Secretary Walter Lichtenstein, of Chicago, hopes to obtain the signatures of Francqui and Van Zeeland in Brussels. It is expected that they will make a reservation regarding the selection of Basel as the site of the bank, which had caused them to withdraw from the conference a few days ago.

Contrary to expectations, no covering letter was devised to point out details or suggest reasons for certain stipulations in the provisions. The delegates feared they might meet with fresh difficulties and so instructed Chairman Jackson E. Reynolds, of New York, to send only a brief letter of transmittal to the central bankers of the Netherlands nations.

After the signature, the question of giving publicity to the work of the conference was raised, but when the chairman saw that no unanimous decision could be reached he adjourned the meeting subject to his call in connection with the second Hague conference on reparations and later for actual establishment of the bank. He remarked that the matter of informing the public was no concern of the conferees, but was for the central bankers to decide.

Charter to Be Secret.

No one apparently, except Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the chief German delegate, demurred at this, but all agreed that even the central bankers must not give publicity to the charter as this quite possibly must be changed to conform with Swiss laws; nor to the trust agreement, in which there are a large number of blanks as to the time of payment of reparations and their transfer to creditors.

The press was assured that every one present signed the trust agreement, even the French sanctioned it without change, but no one would say what it contained. On this subject the newspapers have been left in the dark throughout. As a seal in signing the document the delegates used the personal seal of Secretary Lichtenstein bearing his initials, "W. L."

Reporters Put Off.

The delegates were smiling broadly when they emerged from the room, but the smiles quickly disappeared when newspapermen pressed for information.

Each delegate referred the reporters to the next. The chairman rushed to his room, while M. A. Traylor, of Chicago, the other chief American delegate, stated that he could not release the text since the conference had not authorized him to.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

NOW you may say what you want to about the matter, but when Mr. Hoover begins talking about humanizing war he strikes a responsive chord. He has here an appeal to our innermost emotions, the ones that govern in the long run.

It is not, however, about food ships that we are concerned. It is an entirely different matter, one of the most brutal, most inhuman, heart-rending phases of war.

We refer to the way the band has of leading you to the battlefield and then turning around and marching off.

Really, one stutters when he tries to express his feeling on this matter.

* * * *

ONE of the most poignant feelings that came to man in the recent war was, after following the band all the way across the ocean, to suddenly find himself in the middle of battle-torn France facing the German army and with the band gone. It is a sickening sensation. A queer feeling seizes one in the pit of the stomach and slowly rises to his throat and then beads of perspiration break out on the forehead.

It tears at the mettle of man. He looks around panicky for that Pied Piper that he followed to this place, away from happy home and family, with no thought of danger, with no concern for tomorrow at all.

Does he then see the bandsmen lifting their instruments in loud refrain, some stirring martial air that seems to give him a charmed life? He does not. What he sees is the bandsmen packing their instruments and taking up a rifle.

* * * *

DISAPPOINTMENT is one's feeling when the bandsmen begin packing their instruments in such peaceful setting as that of the Ellipse. But disappointment is not the word for it when it happens on the battlefield.

There is no need for war being made so inhuman. Why, they speak of the atrocities of the enemy! That's absurd! There is no worse atrocity that can be committed than the way your own country has of taking the band away from you and leaving you high and dry.

It isn't right, that's all.

* * * *

THERE is no intention here of suggesting that the bandsmen deliberately run away. That is not the point at all.

It is just their general unreliability of which we speak. History does not record that the band ever played as it passed you on the street. Just why it is always idling just at this time is beyond the human comprehension, but is a fact that it has always just played for the man down the street.

Of course, this is but the bandsmen's diabolical make-up, and is not to be likened to their fiendish practice of taking you off to war and leaving you there all by yourself.

* * * *

NOW, if there is any sincerity in this humanizing of war, then there will be an effort to get an international agreement on the question of bands. Prhaps there were too many soldiers in the last war to make the band stay with every one of them.

But science has advanced greatly since that time. Remarkable progress has been made with the radio. So there is no reason at all why in the next war the battlefields should not be strewn with loud speakers spouting music 24 hours in the day. Then a step will have been taken toward humanizing war. Did we say a step? We should have said a stride, a long, breezy, hip-swaying, martial one.

DEATH BRINGS BALM TO SISTER OF KAISER

Princess Victoria, Poor and Disillusioned in Romance, Expires at Age of 63.

NO WORD FROM HUSBAND

Bonn, Prussia, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The romantic and tragic life of Princess Victoria of Schaumburg-Lippe, wife of Alexander Subkoff, Russian dancer and adventurer, who was her junior by 24 years, came to an end today.

The 63-year-old sister of the former kaiser died in St. Franciscus' Hospital this morning, bankrupt and disillusioned after two years of married life with young Subkoff, from whom she was seeking a divorce.

Last Thursday the princess entered the hospital suffering from inflammation of the lungs. On Monday a relapse set in. She weakened rapidly and death came this morning.

A brief funeral srevice was held in the hospital ward this afternoon, among those present being Mme. Subkoff, her mother-in-law. It was reported that her husband had never inquired concerning hr condition, nor could he be advised of her death, as his present whereabouts are not known. Presumably, he is somewhere in Luxembourg, where he finally took refuge after being expelled from Germany in consequence of numerous escapades.

Princess Marguerite, younger sister of Victoria, had come to Bonn several days ago with her husband, but was not present this morning, arriving at the hospital too late in response to a hurried phone call. She attended this afternoon's funeral service.

It is doubtful if young Subkoff will attend the funeral, as the princess' family is said to oppose his presence, and it is unlikely that he would be able to get a travel permit.

A representative of the former kaiser's family in Berlin this afternoon said that the former kaiser's presence at the funeral was entirely out of the question.

The last days of the member of the former German ruling family were forlorn. Her sister Marguerite saw her last evening for a few moments, but the patient onl yspoke a few incoherent words. Her heart stopped after a period of high fever.

Fall Forwards List Of Alleged Errors

Brief Says Jury Foreman Influenced Verdict for Conviction.

Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior in the Harding Cabinet, filed in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia yesterday an assignment of errors alleged to have been made by Justice William Hitz, of District of Columbia Supreme Court, during his trial on a charge of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny. Fall was convicted and sentenced to serve a year in jail and pay a fine of $100,000.

The brief filed in the Court of Appeals charges that Justice Hitz erred in permitting Beatrice P. Duke to leave the jury box after she had been selected by both defense and Government. It also is charged that Thomas E. Norris, who succeeded her and who was foreman of the grand jury, influenced the jury to bring in a verdict of conviction instead of acquittal.

Fall's attorneys cite the refusal of Justice Hitz to allow a demurrer to the bribery indictment and charged that the court erred in permitting testimony relative to Fall's dealings with Harry F. Sinclair.

Jenkins Injunction Denied Radio Firm

Justice Stafford Refuses to Appoint Receiver for Inventor.

Justice Wendell P. Stafford, in District of Columbia Supreme Court, yesterdy refused to appoint a receiver for or enjoin Charles Francis Jenkins, television inventor, and others from disposing of funds which he is said to have received from the sale of his patents to the Jenkins Television Corporation. The decree was issued in the suit for injunction and receiver filed recently by the Radio Service Corporation of New York.

The New York corporation charged that it owned the money and stock Jenkins received for his television patents because of a prior contract. Jenkins admitted that he had entered into negotiations with the corporation, but asserted that at the time he sold the patents to the Jenkins Television Corporation the Radio Service Corporation had not conformed to the terms of its contract.

The suit was directed against Jenkins, the Jenkins Laboratories, Inc., the original holding company of his patents, his wife and others. Attorneys Julian C. Hammach and Adkins and Nesbit represented Jenkins, while R. B. Fletcher appeared for the Jenkins Laboratories, Inc. Attorney R. H. McNeil appeared for the plaintiff.

Sex Political Prejudice Dying, Slemp Asserts

The sex idea in public life is rapidly being eliminated, according to C. Bascom Slemp, speaking from Washington last night on opportunities for women in public service over a coast-to-coast radio hook-up of the National Woman's Party. Slemp is national Republican committeeman from Virginia and former secretary to President Coolidge.

"The old-time prejudice against women in public office is very largely broken down," Slemp said. Hundreds of women occupy elective offices and thousands fill every kind of appointive office. Nowadays the same test is applied to women candidates and applicants as is applied to men. The main question in both cases is ability to demonstrate service to the public."

Maryland Senator Loses on Tax Plea

(Associated Press.)

If one promises to reimburse his mother-in-law for losses in securities purchased, and if the mother-in-law does lose and the son-in-law makes good, the son-in-law has to pay a Federal income tax on the amount of the reimbursement just the same.

This was the ruling yesterday of the Board of Tax Appeals in reviewing a deduction of $5,757 claimed by Senator Goldsborough, of Maryland, who in 1922 said he had entered into such an agreement with his mother-in-law, Mrs. M. M. Bhowell, and that she had lost that amount. The decision increased the senator's tax by $944.09.

THE B. & O. AT COLUMBUS CIRCLE
ONE hundred years ago, the first American-built locomotive, "Tom Thumb," coughed and wheezed down the thirteen miles of doubletrack from Baltimore to Ellicott's Mills.
A century has passed. New executives have replaced the pioneers who first recognized the great law of change.
Monday morning a new coach terminal of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will be opened for business at No. 15 Columbus Circle, fast-growing section at Broadway and Central Park West. It will be the fourth such station in the city.
Again the Baltimore & Ohio has forged its way northward, keeping pace with the centres of business and commerce, matching the bricks of shopping, amusement and hotel centres. The new station will have a ticket and Pullman office, baggage checking facilities, waiting rooms and porter service. Here passengers will be routed over the more than 5,000 miles of line that comprise the huge Baltimore & Ohio system.
A pioneer in the utilization of modern motor coaches to transport passengers from the train side to the important centres of the metropolis, the Baltimore & Ohio, through the eyes of its officials, has seen into the future of Columbus Circle.
For this is the great law of change, creating still another hub of commerce.
And the huge Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, one hundred and two years and six months young, IS IN STEP WITH THE BIG PARADE.

'Stag' Dinners Are Features In Day's Fetes

Two Affairs in One Hotel Vie With Ladies' Luncheons.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WHILE the ladies had their innings at a grist of luncheon parties yesterday, including one with Mrs. Hoover as the guest of honor and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur as hostess, the most important dinners on the calendar last night were "for men only."

One was given by the Minister of Albania, Mr. Faik Konitza, in compliment to Mr. Charles C. Hart, who has recently been named United States Minister to Persia after serving as Minister to Albania for over four years. Then, there was the dinner which Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, gave as a compliment to Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, with the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, as the ranking guest.

This was exceptionally picturesque for a private party, for the score or more admirals and the other distinguished Navy and Marine Corps officers in the company were all in evening full dress uniform. Yellow chrysanthemums and autumn foliage were used as decorations, with the individual flags of the Secretary of the Navy, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, the chief of naval operations and the major general commandant of the Marine Corps. A section of the Marine band played through the evening and the Marine Corps orderlies on duty added a further touch of formality.

It was as commodore of a New Orleans yacht club that Mr. Jahncke's enthusiasm for things nautical was first aroused and it is as "Commodore Jahncke" that he is generally known in Washington. Besides Secretary Adams and Admiral Hughes, his guests last evening included Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Fleet; Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville, commandant of the Marine Corps; Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, U. S. N., retired; Rear Admiral A. M. D. McCormick, Rear Admiral Andrew T. Long, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy; Rear Admiral R. H. Jackson, Rear Admiral G. H. Rock, Rear Admiral J. V. Chase, Rear Admiral M. M. Taylor, Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Rear Admiral A. L. Willard, commandant of the Washington Navy Yard; Rear Admiral H. E. Hough, Rear Admiral R. H. Leigh, Rear Admiral J. D. Beuret, Rear Admiral G. C. Day, Rear Admiral Luke McNamee, Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Rear Admiral D. F. Sellers, Rear Admiral Ridley McLean, Rear Admiral W. R. Leahy, Rear Admiral W. H. Standley, Rear Admiral H. H. Rousseau, Rear Admiral Luther E. Gregory and Rear Admiral A. J. Hepburn.

Also Brig. Gen. B. H. Fuller, U. S. M. C.; Capt. W. R. Gherardi, Capt H C Curl, Capt W. McDowell, Capt. Y. S. Williams, Capt. F. G. Pyne, Capt. E. B. Larimer, Capt. A. W. Johnson, Capt. Charles P. Snyder, Capt. Allen Buchanan, Capt. P. L. Reed, Capt. I. E. Bass, Capt. G. F Neal, Capt A. C. Pickens, Commander J. H. Towers, Commander F. X. Gygax, Commander H. E. Knauss, Lieut. Comdr. R. H. Skelton, Lieut. Comdr. J. T. Boone, Lieut. Comdr. A. H. Rooks, and Lieut. Comdr. L. E. Denfeld.

This dinner was given at the Mayflower and so was the dinner given by the Albanian Minister, who entertained in the Pan-American room. Mr. Konitza's guests besides Mr. Hart were the Minister of Bulgaria, the Minister of Persia, the Minister of Lithuania, the Minister of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, the Counselor of the Italian Embassy, Count Marchetti di Muriaglio; the Counselor of the Turkish Embassy, Ahmed Bedy Bey; the Counselor of the Persian Legation, Issa Khan Bahramy; the First Secretary of the Bulgarian Legation, Mr. Stephen P. Bisseroff; the First Secretary of the Lithuanian Legation, Dr. Mikas Bagdonas; the Second Secretary of the Turkish Embassy, Bulend Bey; also Assistant Attorney General George R. Farnum, Judge F. W. Dewart, Mr. Wallace S. Murray and Mr. Maynard Barnes.

Wife of Envoy Heads Bazaar Benefit Group

Mme. Wu Sponsors Event for Shop in Peking at Hotel Here.

Under the patronage of Mme. Wu, wife of the Chinese Minister, and a small group of distinguished Washington women, a bazaar will be held at Wardman Park Hotel on Thursday and Friday of next week for the benefit of a workshop for women maintained in Peking. Beautiful embroideries and other handicrafts made in this institution will be on view at the bazaar. Those assisting Mme. Wu on the committee are Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming, Miss Grace Dunham Guest, assistant curator of the Freer Gallery, and Miss Genevieve Wimsatt, who has lived in China for long periods.

Started by a few Chinese ladies as a place where their countrywomen might be taught handicrafts time honored in China and as a medium of exchange for their work, the workshop is now sponsored as well by many American women who have lived in Peking. Two hundred women now attend the classes, being well paid for work done while they are students. About half their output is sold in China, the rest finding its way to foreign markets.

BLACK BECOMES YOUTHFUL

Some women spend a fortune on clothes and the result is disappointing. Others, with a little shrewd planning and their own style sense, achieve the utmost chic at negligible expenditure. We have gathered this ensemble merely as a suggestion, to both, of what they can do at the Palais Royal. We have chosen black because of its perennial "rightness" and its feeling of sophistication, so important this year.

The Handbag, $2.95

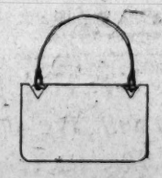
A perfectly flat suede pocket has one long handle that attaches itself by two bizarre rings of prystal. Here's a bag that will attract admiring attention because of its novelty.

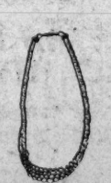
The Necklace, $1.95

Tiny pearls (simulated) of a creamy hue are braided and twisted and fastened with a barrel clasp. The beads in the center are larger.

The Hat, $5

Glossy soleil is vertically tucked over one eyebrow. There's no brim in front, but at the sides is a curious wing-like movement that dates the hat Winter, 1930.





The Frock, $16.50

Fine black crepe is ingeniously shirred to mold the waistline tightly, and the clever godets supply the necessary fullness below. The pinky-beige georgette cuffs and collar with long tabs are details that make for richness and wearability.

The Coat, $57.75

Of broadcloth, the season's fabric classic, with shawl collar and cuffs of black wolf. The cunningly inserted flares not only give gradually increasing fullness toward the bottom, but create the very slimmest of waistlines. A coat for the supple and the young.

The Shoes, $10

A pair of unique oxfords in suede are appliqued in calf with a modern design. They're further distinguished by an odd lacing, and the Cuban heel is a practical touch.

The Gloves, $3.95

Tan kid with the smallest of turn-back cuffs and a make-believe bow in white.

The Hose, $1.95

They match the gloves and are sheerest silk from top to toe.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE.

I WAS window shopping one day, when I discovered this smartly tiered frock of black wool crepe. It was a very exclusive shop, so I concluded the price would be prohibited for my budget. I just gazed and gazed at this adorable frock, thinking how I would just love to have it.

I especially liked the soft girdle in emerald green canton crepe that slipped through a bound opening at left-side front and tied in bow in puff effect at opposite side. It so clearly defined the higher waistline without interfering with the molded line of the silhouette.

The emerald green crepe appeared again in the revers of open Vionnet neckline and in bow tie. The back neckline was softened by sunburst tucks.

And here it is for you to copy exactly, for the pattern can be had in 42 inches bust.

Style No. 8231 is made with 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting in the sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and medium size.

You'll be delighted to hear that it is a one-piece affair. Merely side and shoulder seams to join and stitch circular tiers along perforated lines. It is cut from neck at center-front and underfaced and rolled to form revers.

Bottle green sheer velvet self-trimmed, midnight blue crepe silk, printed sheer velvet in rust brown tones, Spanish red canton crepe, and novelty printed silks appropriate.

It is always SUMMER-TIME
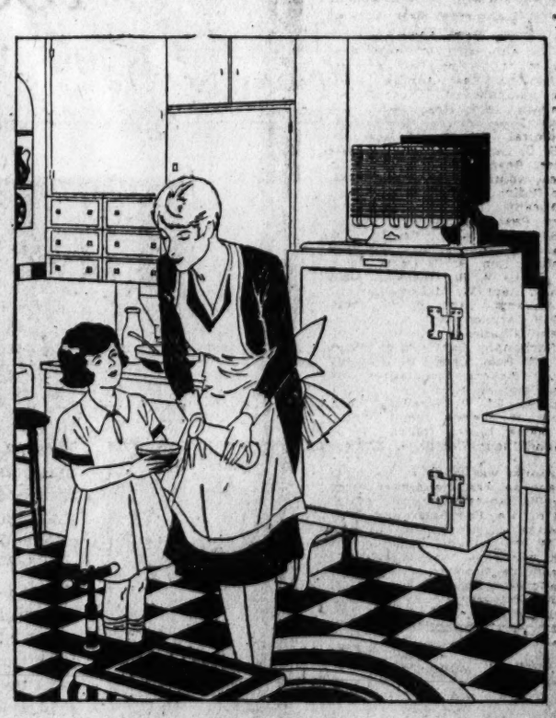
in your
KITCHEN

IT'S always summer-time in your kitchen. It's never cool where there is a stove. And the dangers of food contamination are present as long as the temperature in your refrigerator can rise above fifty degrees—the safety point

Faithfully, quietly, automatically the General Electric gives you the perfect refrigeration that safeguards health. It makes plenty of ice cubes, operates without ever needing to be oiled, creates no radio interference. And it has an accessible freezing regulator. Important, too, is the fact that it is the only refrigerator which has an all-steel cabinet, "built like a safe" to protect your food.

It stands high on legs that allow room underneath for mop and broom. And it is so easy to keep clean inside! Its smooth one-piece lining has no seams . . . every edge and corner is rounded.

Come in and examine the various models—there's a size and style to fit your needs and your kitchen. Just a small down payment can put a General Electric Refrigerator in your home.



THIS RECORD STANDS ALONE

There are now more than 350,000 users of General Electric Refrigerators—and not one owner has ever had to spend a single dollar for repairs or service.

Tune in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening from 9 to 10, Eastern Standard Time, over the NBC network of 42 stations covering the entire United States.

'INSIDE JOB' IS SEEN AS SAFE RAID FAILS

Army of Yeggmen Thwarted in Robbery Attempt at Navy Supply Depot.

BIG 'BOX' STANDS BLASTS

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—A gigantic safe in the naval supply department in Brooklyn withstood for five hours today numerous charges of high explosives, set off by a bandit gang who sought an $85,000 pay roll locked within.

The bandits had tied up the six base guards, all but two of them civilians, and locked them in their own "brig," but the massive doors of the safe stubbornly resisted the drills and nitro glycerin. With approaching dawn and a change of guards, the bandits were forced to flee, unsuccessful in their quest for the loot.

The raid on the naval base was skillfully executed. Coolly and deliberately the raiders went about their business, overpowering one by one the six guards about the buildings. Each guard was securely bound and locked in the base jail. And even a marine policeman who dropped in for a chat with the guards fell into the hands of the raiders.

None of the victims was harmed except one who was hit on the head with a pistol butt when he offered resistance.

The day guard, unable to get an answer to their signals outside, broke into the building and released the prisoners. Police believe the raid was an "inside job." Numerous civilians are employed at the base.

John McCarthy, civilian gate guard, who was the first to fall into the hands of the gang, said there were fifteen men in the three machines that drove up in front of the building. Some must have stood watch outside as only eight were counted by the inside guards.

Thaw Plans to Appeal From $25,000 Verdict

Pittsburgh, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Harry K Thaw today announced he would appeal from the verdict awarding Marcia Estardus, New York night club hostess, $25,000 in her suit charging him with beating her. Thaw arranged bond pending his fight to obtain a new trial.

Thaw said the plaintiff won the case because he had not appeared as a witness at the trial.

When fingers "Play" the keys instead of Punching them

What a difference it makes! That maddening office din has suddenly vanished. Work flows faster, easier. And along comes closing-time . . . and you're through on time . . . and fresh!

There is only one typewriter your fingers can "play" as they play a piano . . . the REMINGTON NOISELESS. You don't have to "punch" its keys because it is built on a new principle, with a touch that is caressingly gentle.

That principle makes the REMINGTON NOISELESS not only noiseless but easier and faster to operate. Standard 4-row keyboard . . . and does anything any hammer-blow machine will do . . . only faster and better.

Ask your office manager to have a demonstration made. Have him phone.

TWO DESCENDANTS OF ACTORS TO WED

Families of Joseph Jefferson and His Leading Lady to Be Linked.

NOTED CHURCH IS SCENE

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—In the Church of the Transfiguration, named "The Little Church Around the Corner" years ago by Joseph Jefferson, famous portrayer of Rip Van Winkle in the seventies, a wedding will take place tomorrow afternoon linking the family of the veteran actor with that of his leading woman.

The bride is Cynthia Carol Corlett, Jefferson's great-granddaughter and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wellington Corlett, of this city. The groom is Edwin Ogden Childe, son of Alberta Gallatin Childe, Jefferson's leading woman for 14 years and the founder of the Edgar Allan Poe Society. He is the grandson of Albert Gallatin Jenkins, the youngest general on the staff of Robert E. Lee, and of Judge Bolling, of Virginia, one-time United States Senator from Virginia and later minister to Colombia.

The ceremony will take place in the shadow of the stained glass window inserted in the historic little church in honor of the bride's great-grandfather, one of America's best-loved actors. Years ago he sought to make arrangements for the burial of one of his troupers in a Fifth avenue church, was refused on the grounds that "the church did not hold services for actors," and was directed to "The Little Church Around the Corner."

His exclamation, "God bless that little church around the corner" clung and has made it the favorite of actors the world over.

WHO'ZIT?

1. He was an American.
2. He was Secretary of the Navy.
3. He was Attorney General of the United States.
4. He was the grandson of a king and the grand-nephew of an emperor.

Answer to yesterday: President McKinley.

Milton Schwarzwald, director of the R-K-O-lians, orchestra, has arranged a special program of wartime melodies with vocal interludes.

Marcella Shields, Graham McNamee and Rudy Vallee and his orchestra will be the chief actors in a night club sketch to be broadcast during the Sunshine Hour from WRC at 8 o'clock. Vallee will sing several favorites.

Lyrical and sentimental selections, with an old Grieg favorite, and a composition by Ball, have been arranged by Frank Black for the Seiberling program to be broadcast at 9 o'clock. "Moszkowskiana," an arrangement by Otto Langey of the most celebrated airs by the famous Polish composer-pianist, Moritz Moszkowski, stands out in the Jack Frost Melody Moments to be broadcast under the direction of Eugene Ormandy at 9:30 o'clock via WRC. Oliver Smith, tenor, will sing Tschaikowsky's "Nur Wer Die Sehnsucht Kennt," with string accompaniment.

Harry H. Culver, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will be the guest speaker on the Halsey, Stuart radio program at 10 o'clock. The following musical program will be under the direction of Andy Sannella:

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

COMMISSIONER HAROLD A. "A-FOUN'", of the Federal Radio Commission, and Capt. Guy Hill, chief engineer of the commission, see improvement in the radio service of the country following a year's try-out of the reallocation of frequencies. It seems to us, fishing around nights, the opinions of these two conscientious officials to the contrary notwithstanding, that there is about as much of a jumble on the air as there ever has been. Captain Hill himself says that there are entirely too many broadcasting stations.

Furthermore, until the Radio Commission gets up enough courage to close down some of the superfluous stations (which we don't believe it ever will) the situation, with power being increased right and left, will get worse instead of better.

While the set-up may be pleasing to the commission nationally, it doesn't appear that there is anything to get excited about in so far as the District is concerned. Complaints have been repeatedly made that local stations are tuned too broadly, and of late there has been a noticeable heterodyne on Station WRC.

TO further add to the complexity of the radio situation the broadcasters are urging that national cleared channels be increased from 40 to 50. These channels would be used to relieve such stations as WTIC, at Hartford, with 50,000 watts power, and WBAL, at Baltimore, with 10,000 watts, having to share the same channel, each silent half the time, notwithstanding their terrific overhead. Or WENR, at Chicago, using 50,000 watts, having to divide time with WLS, Chicago, also recently authorized to use 50,000 watts.

Putting two big fellows like these in one bed will either result in one throwing the other out or in their breaking down the bed. This seems regrettable, for the stations mentioned are among the very finest in the United States, high grade organizations with competent directors, giving the public the best there is in radio.

We do not believe the solution is the 7½ kilocycle separation advocated by Louis G. Caldwell, but, as said before, the job which ought to be done is to weed out the superfluous stations. For instance, half the stations serving the Washington area could be dispensed with. And this is no doubt true of the country generally.

But what a yowl would go up from Congress if the Radio Commission started clearing out the underbrush. Everybody remembers what happened when Sam Pickard declared the commission had gotten "hard-boiled" and was going to throw 300 stations off the air.

In keeping with the best radio practice, brevity marked the introduction of the Chief Executive Armistice night by Col. Paul V. McNutt, past national commander of the American Legion, which was: "Scientist, Humanitarian, Herbert Hoover—President of the United States."

WORD was received yesterday that the Grigsby-Grunow Co., makers of the Majestic set, in Chicago, one of the big plants which closed down because of overproduction, had resumed operation on about one-third capacity. Five thousand persons are being employed, and as a starter are turning out approximately 2,000 sets a day.

George M. Cook, in charge of the company's public relations, who is in Washington, said the company received so many telegrams from jobbers and dealers saying they did not have enough sets for the Christmas trade that it was decided to reopen the factory.

Although the program was not broadcast locally, those who listened to "Journey's End" by the original cast now playing on Broadway, from the studios of Station WJZ, on Armistice Day at 11 o'clock, were unanimous in voting the play one of the radio's finest dramatic offerings to date.

Within the past year much has been accomplished in the way of dramatic entertainment via the loud speaker, but with few plays being moved from the boards to the studios. Perhaps the long training of the theatrical cast, which is necessarily lost in radio productions, was in part responsible for the fine effect achieved in this presentation of "Journey's End."

THERE was a rather ignominious finish to the recital of Countess Olga Medalgo Albani, mezzo soprano, when the last song of her broadcast program was cut off in the middle to make way for the next feature. Such are the exigencies of a radio schedule. No matter who is in front of the microphone, with a few exceptions, one of which is the President of the United States, when his time is up, off he goes.

Intercepted from Station WEAF, New York:

Lawyer: "Did you see the automobile approaching the railroad track?"

Watchman: "Yes, I said, 'That is a nice car—wasn't it?'"

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

IF November 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight.

Astrologically there is nothing of importance indicated for this date. Tact will be needed in family affairs, as those in near association will fail to carry out duties and obligations.

The child born on this November 14 will have an alert mind, will be quick motioned, and full of energy. With application it will be able to take honors in the classroom. It will be lavish in its affections.

If a woman, you have little talent for business, and are not inclined that way. If you marry, you will make a fine and an economical homemaker, and will be your husband's helpmate in every sense of the word. If unmarried, you are a typical old maid in your nicety. Your maternal instincts will find expression, however, in your devotion to some one who needs your care, and to all animals. You are not excessively demonstrative, but your love complex is highly developed and it does not lack expression.

If a man, you have a marvelous aptitude for detail work, but you can not rise above it and take it in your stride—you do not see the wood for the trees. You are often able to foresee, but you are not farseeing. You are extremely conscientious, but an excess of any virtue comes perilously near a fault. You do not know when to slight a minor factor for the sake of a major one. In your human relationships, you are thoughtful, kindly and unselfish. You are not always looking out for Number One. There is very little envy, jealousy and hate in your make-up. You easily forgive and forget an injury. You have no greedy and vain ambitions—your desires are homely and simple.

Successful people born November 14:

Rev. John Carroll—First Roman Catholic Bishop in the United States.
Anson Burlingame—Diplomat.
Hendrik D. K. Van Elten—Artist.
Henry Clay Barnabee—Comedian.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Loose panels and pearls make lovely this white crepe de chine evening dress. (Courtesy of Jean Magnin, Paris.)

IN all the room were only two lovely women. And there is nothing as lovely on earth as a lovely woman! One slipped her wrap back over her chair, gracefully slightly bending her long neck as she did so, glanced casually around the room to observe the effect of her entrance, and seated herself with a slow smile. So far, bien!

One can forgive a lovely woman almost anything—but gracefully tapping a cigarette on the tablecloth, she suddenly bent her head down to the light in her escort's hand, bent it almost to the table. And then lifted her head and laughed broadly and loudly!

• • • •

The other, with reddish curls piled high all over her head and neck rising gracefully from a decolletage that slipped half over her shoulders, looked at this, her only competitor, with something of complaisance tinging her momentary eclipse.

As the evening progressed it was observed that the first, despite a lovely face, attractive and distinctive bob, long pearl earrings and modish gown, was awkward with her fork, smoked cigarettes distressingly, displayed a very broad hand broadly against the black of her partner's coat when dancing and laughed horribly.

Then the second, an older woman, took out a powder puff and smeared it vigorously all over her face—

The cameo slipped to the floor and broke. I sighed. They were only women after all, and each had spoiled a rather lovely picture in a moment's carelessness.

Some evening gowns may be gorgeous, some striking, some charming, others unusual—but I honestly do think that here is one that can be only "lovely." Jean Magnin has imprisoned loveliness in the ever so graceful white crepe de chine gown I have illustrated for you today. It speaks for itself, simply and eloquently.

• • • • •

Know you that a white evening gown like this one, of such graceful and harmonious perfection and perfect workmanship, is well worth investing in? For so many reasons! One is that white is flattering, lovely and in general very modish. Another is that it can be, if economy is a factor, dyed at least three times. For example, first a pastel shade, then a vivid shade of the same color and then black. But when you plan to do anything of this sort with a gown you have to be very sure that the gown is of substantial elegance, that it will withstand style vicissitudes, as well as the undeniable weakening of the fabric with three dyeings.

Member that lovely, lovely Russian doll that we just can't live without talking about every now and then? Well, we thought you would like to make her for some dearly beloved friend for a Christmas gift—so we offer you the directions for making her and six other unusual and lovely boudoir dolls, all in a leaflet, for which you may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. We wouldn't fool you—you have seen some of these wee lovely ladies before, but we will just bet you have lost the leaflet and were wishing like anything that you had it for Christmas-gift making.

Christmas Box.

Don't you think he would like a wall tapestry? Perhaps for his den or even for his office? You can pick up the most fascinating ones in antique shops. Lovely splashes of color which seem to carry a breath of the Orient. Or a bit of Spain. Or even England, when it was merrie. There are large ones and small ones—just the right size for a door panel, or that bare wall space that's a problem no mere picture can solve. And a gift he is bound to appreciate because it's that woman's touch to complete a masculine mood!

We feel sure you will enjoy the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Washington Post each Sunday. Won't you look for it?

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

THE Warner Brothers, evidently spurred into a definite commital as to their company's purpose by the many divergent rumors that have sprung up since their purchase of the 28 per cent of First National formerly owned by William Fox, through Harry M. Warner, president, have issued a frank and comprehensive statement of their position. The statement is in part as follows:

"The question of silent pictures played no part in our purchase of the Fox interest in First National Pictures, Inc. On the contrary, Warner Bros., who were the pioneers in the talking picture field and who profited most by the gradual elimination of silent pictures, placed all of the facilities of their Vitaphone Corporation at the disposal of First National immediately upon securing control of that company last year. These facilities have been taken full advantage of by First National with every picture since released, as evidenced by its subsequent earnings, which have been exceedingly gratifying.

"We have been trying to acquire the stock of First National Pictures, Inc., held by Mr. Fox, or his companies, for some time past, but have been unable to do so. On the contrary, Mr. Fox was desirous of purchasing 50,000 shares of First National stock held by our company at one time, at a price of $800 a share, which would have amounted to about $40,000,000.

"Recently, for some reason, the negotiations were resumed and we consummated the deal. We are very happy to have been able on such short notice to acquire an asset so valuable as the control of such a successful company.

"I also want to say that the acquiring of this stock plays no part in any deal with Paramount or any other company. Warner Bros. have come to the conclusion that they will remain as they are, free of mergers with any company, as they feel capable of continuing to develop their own business in the future as they have in the past."

I still am adamant in my inflexible insistence that that is that!

• • • •

Although it will fall within the field of his professional activities, and not mine, when presented as the attraction at the National next week, I feel sure that my office mate, Mr. Daly, will take no offense if I remark here that Tuesday afternoon's special preview showing of "Hunting Tigers in India" demonstrated that exciting subject to be well-nigh the master-picture of its type. Unlike the Martin Johnson, Ben Burbage, Meriam and Schoedsack and other sterling film records of big game hunting of a single species in far places, this G. M. Dyott celluloid recital introduces thrilling glimpses of all manner of jungle denizens.

And it is a celluloid "recital," since for the first time in the history of adventurous traveloging the voice of the hunter relates the complete narrative of the hunt through the medium of the National's new sound installation. The actual commotions attendant upon the hunt, however, are not, of course, made audible.

I understand that wild tigers, and the like, do not wait for the hunter to set up his microphones and recording apparatus!

Mr. Fox has gone in for another innovation.

"Sunny Side Up," the sensationally successful new vehicle for Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell, playing New York at the $2 scale, but shown here Tuesday midnight to an invited audience for nothing, and available Saturday to all who will come and see at the regular local house range of admissions, follows a form that I think has not been duplicated since the vogue of the musical cinema set in. It is called "an original screen musical comedy" and I presume that is about what it is. Certainly it could never be transplanted to the stage and live, it is that full of stuff too fast for the stage to handle.

It will reveal to their hosts of ardent admirers entirely new facets of the versatile art of its costars. It will reveal also the most daring sequence that I have ever seen upon either the stage, or the screen during the rendition of the already famous—or infamous, as you prefer—"Turn On the Heat" number.

Far beyond being any mere "torch" number, here is one that is a raging, complete and devastating conflagration—or maybe holocaust is the word I want. Whether it strikes you as being a bit too racy or not, the idea of melting a snow and ice bound Arctic field of igloos into a flowering tropical jungle that finally bursts into flame, from the mere proximity of a gyrating galaxy of "red-hot mammas," is at least original.

The whole idea, popped into the imaginative and fertile brain of Mr. Winfield Sheehan, in charge of all Fox production, one evening while he sat perched in the palatial living room of his mountain citadel overlooking Los Angeles, David Butler was commissioned to convert it into continuity—for his own direction—and De Sylva, Brown and Henderson, and Seymour Felix into song, patter and dance.

And here it is. But I warn you, do not risk more than one eye on parts of it.

Harold Lloyd, I am led to believe, is much concerned because uninformed commentators on the motion picture are referring to his latest release, and first all-talking production, as "Welcomed Stranger." He fears, and not without cause, that it will be mistaken for a film version of the former stage play written by either Mark Swan or Aaron Hoffman—I forget which—or maybe it was neither, as a starring vehicle for George Sidney, the Hebrew comic.

While this column did not carry the misinformation, I am glad to devote a part of it now to informing the public on behalf of Mr. Lloyd that the name of his picture, soon to be seen at the Metropolitan, is "Welcome Danger."

Unless the boys have switched them since I looked at their copy a moment or two ago, next week's features in the first-run houses will be about like this: Fox, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Sunny Side Up;" Columbia, Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks in "The Taming of the Shrew;" Rialto, Eddie Quillan and Sally O'Neil in "The Sophomore;" Metropolitan, Pauline Frederick and Conway Tearle in "Evidence;" Palace, Nancy Carroll and Jack Oakie in "Sweetie;" Earle, Richard Dix and June Collyer in "The Love Doctor;" RKO-Keith's, Bebe Daniels and John Boles in a second week of "Rio Rita."

By the way, Kate Smith, our own cerulean chanteuse, with whom I early-careered a bit from the sidelines, is playing five weeks of the biggest Loew time in and around New York. This week at the Capitol, on Broadway, for the third return engagement within four months; Paradise, New York, next week, and then Loew's King's in Brooklyn, where Wesley Eddy is master of ceremonies.

Yes, they are old friends. I introduced them myself at the fifth roof-garden birthday party Wesley had during the last August he was in town.

And we all lived!

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

NOVEMBER 14.

SEENA OWEN, star of the silver screen, was born this day, 1896, in Spokane, Wash. Seena Owen is her own phonetic spelling of her true name, Signe Auen.

The star was educated at Bruno Hall in Spokane and in Copenhagen, Denmark. On her return to America, she appeared in stock in San Francisco. The lure of the silent drama became too great, however, and she deserted the stage to join the Kalem Co. After she appeared in several minor roles, she received a contract from D. W. Griffith to play a prominent role in "Intolerance." Probably her best known picture is "At the Cross Roads." The star formerly was married to George Walsh. She has a daughter.

STOCKS HAMMERED DOWN TO NEW LOWS

Exchange Officials Try to Determine Source of Sales Pressure.

DECLINE QUITE ORDERLY

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Ruthless and unremitting crushing down of quoted values went forward with augmented force on the stock market today as officials of the stock exchange took action to learn the source of the destructive pressure, and unofficial reassurances as to the Nation's financial stability and strength were forthcoming from important sources in Washington.

Again the decline was as orderly as it was persistent, but more than 400 stocks explored low levels previously untouched this year, and the volume of trading for the three-hour session swelled to 7,761,450 shares, a total unsurpassed in any session of like duration, even exceeding the turnover of 7,184,060 shares of October 7. The pace of trading was relatively smaller than on October 29, however, when 16,410,030 shares changed hands in five hours, or at the average rate of approximately 3,300,000 an hour, compared to an hourly rate of about 2,590,000 shared today.

Losses ran from a to a maximum of 29 points, but few leading issues dropped more than 10 points.

Price Index Drops.

The Standard Statistics Co.-Associated Press price index of 50 leading industrials was depressed 8.8 points and the index of 20 leading rails 4.9 points to the lowest levels since February 20, 1928, and that of 20 leading utilities 11.5 points to the lowest since August 27, 1928.

That the continuance of the decline has become highly perplexing not only to the man in the street, but to officials of the stock exchange and leading bankers as well, was indicated in the action of the exchange in requesting members to submit reports of the long and short positions of all accounts. In the absence of bank or brokerage house failures, or indications of serious conditions in industry, the driving of even select investment stocks to levels where they yield from 6 to 10 per cent has become mystifying.

Naturally, each break through to new lows spills over a new patch of thinly margined accounts, and touches off more stop loss orders, but even these technical considerations seem inadequate to account for the enormous volume of selling at this late stage of the decline. It has been rumored that an enormous bear pool is active, but it seems strange that such a pool could not be driven to cover. It is also rumored that holders of huge blocks of stock are crippled and forced to liquidate their holdings, but Wall street can not understand why such liquidation would necessarily have to be done in so destructive a fashion.

Day's News Innocuous.

There was nothing alarming in the day's news. Freight car loadings and steel production were reported to have declined further, but these developments are largely seasonal around the middle of November and during the next few weeks. Iron age reported some hesitancy in new steel buying, as result of the stock market crash, but pointed out that railroads and farm implement manufacturers were still large takers. Crude oil production figures for last week were the most favorable in several months. Remington Rand declared a special dividend of 50 cents, the first in more than two years. Sinclair Oil, however, while declaring the regular dividend on the common, omitted the usual extra of 25 cents.

Call money again was in abundant supply at 6 per cent, and 30-day time money was reduced to 5¾ per cent from 6. Further reduction in bankers' acceptance rates was announced. Another huge reduction in brokers' loans to levels far below that of a year ago is expected to be announced after the close tomorrow. While Federal Reserve member bank loans against securities have not declined as rapidly as brokers' loans, it is estimated in banking circles that next week's figures will be more favorable.

Capital Reports Received.

It was reported from Washington that Secretary Mellon discussed the situation with President Hoover today. While no official statement was forthcoming, it was unofficially reported that Washington feels the situation calls for no emergency measures. The banking consortium composed of the heads of the Nation's leading banks which has acted to stabilize the market held no further conferences today, and it was indicated that members were satisfied with the orderliness of the market.

Among shares reaching new lows were such premier issues as General Electric, which dropped 16⅝, to 168¼, and closed at 173; U. S. Steel, which dropped 3½ points, to 150, and closed at 151½, having sold as high as 160 during a brief rally in the morning; American Can, off 10 Anaconda, off 6½; Chesapeake & Ohio, off 13½; Eastman Kodak, which dropped 8 points, then reduced its loss to 3; National Biscuit, off 9, and scores more.

Stock Exchange Firms Asked for Statements

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange today asked members to file statements of condition as of the close of business yesterday, and daily changes thereafter until further notice.

The statements are to include a list of stocks borrowed, from whom and for whose account; a list of stocks loaned, and to whom; intra-office borrowings and for whose account; a list of all stocks which they have failed to deliver, and for whose account. Members whose offices are in New York must file statements on or before the close of business next Saturday, while out of town members will be given until Monday noon.

HEAVY SALES SEND BOND PRICES DOWN

Nearly All Gains of Last Month Are Lost in Busy Session.

U. S. ISSUES ARE UNEASY

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Heavy selling carried bond prices sharply downward today, and at the end of the busy three-hour session the averages showed that all but a small fraction of the gains made over the period of more than a month had been lost.

The liquidation was similar in character to that of recent markets when bonds have been dumped freely by holders needing funds. The loss in the Associated Press combined average for representative rails, industrials and utilities—40 bonds in all—was approximately half a point, bringing the composite price to 93.65, against 93.36, the low mark established late in September.

A feature of today's trading, which reached a volume of more than $22,000,000, was the easiness of United States Government obligations. Liberty 3½s declined half a point and the first 4¼s went to a new low for the year on a loss of ⅜. Recessions in the remainder of the group were small, but the price movement was in contrast to the strength of Government's in recent sessions, when there has been active buying by individual investors and corporations.

Utilities, Industrials Sag.

Utilities and industrials showed some resistance to the pressure during the forenoon, but later weakened with the rails, which were off sharply. Although a few prime investment loans held steady, the selling in general showed little respect for investment values or yields. However, traders expressed the opinion that the expression was only a technical condition directly attributable to the demand for funds created by the continued slump in stocks.

Numerous convertible and other share privilege bonds touched new lows. Among them were American International 5½s, off 7, to 88; Alleghany Corporation 5s of 1949, off 4, to 93; Commercial Investment Trust 5½s, off 2½, to 80; Missouri Pacific 5½s, off 4, to 97, and Reading Coal & Iron 6s, off 9½, to 80.

A. T. & T. Bonds Steady.

American Telephone 4½s held fairly steady, closing a point lower. International Telephone 4½s lost 4 and American I. G. Chemical 5½s dropped 2½.

Losses of one to two points appeared in such industrials as Allis Chalmers 5s, Armour & Co. 4½s, Standard Oil of New York 4½s and Shell Union Oil 5s. In the utility sections American Telephone listings lost half a point each; Brooklyn Edison 5s, Laclede Gas 5½s and Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, 1½, and New York Telephone General 4½s, ¾.

Declines were of larger proportions in the rail group, where numerous losses of a point or more were suffered, notably in Canadian Pacific 5s, Chicago & Alton 3½s, Great Northern 4½s, New York Central 6s, Pennsylvania gold 5s and 6½s, Union Pacific first 4s and Western Maryland 4s.

Foreign obligations showed extensive losses and several new lows developed.

OPEN COMPETITION PROPOSED BY U. S. TENNIS BODY

NICKLE CHIPS FOR USE IN FLORIDA

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 13.—Far be it from me to jeer at wounds, having been somewhat bruised myself, but I have been wondering what the Madison Square Garden Corporation will use for customers at the heavyweight prize fights in Florida this winter and, more to the point, what the customers, if any, will use for money, if anything.

I am told that all the roulette dealers who are now in Chicago and New York outfitting for their season in Florida at Aguacaliento, Mexico, are laying in heavy supplies of nickel chips and that patrons of pugilism and six-day bicycle riding who used to buy large blocks of the expensive seats, lately have been standing in line at the gallery ticket windows, buying one apiece. The patronage of the more expensive sporting presentations is drawn largely from the leisurely classes, refined and otherwise, and while their leisure is not likely to be iterrupted, their patronage is, unless, of course, the promoting corporations decide to revise their rates of admission in a general southerly direction.

But in the case of a prize fight production in Miami, Fla., even if the price of admission should be reduced to $5, $3, and $2, it will still be a problem to bring the customers to the arena in paying quantities because the price of admission last year was the least of the expenses of the patrons.

Expenses Run to $500 Each.

There was the matter of transportation from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and so forth, and there were other matters, such as room rent at $20 a day, and one thing and another many where from $1 a drink to $10 a quart, which ran up the cost of a casual run down to the prize fight to a minimum of $500 per customer. Most persons of the customer class nowadays seem to have more urgent uses for $500 and it is distressing to note how many of them have not got $500.

Being no economist nor expert on the restless forces of charge, I do not know whether the great rearrangement in the heavyweight department of the prize fighting industry which is now going on in New York is related to these conditions or is merely a series of happenings which merely happened to happen at this time. But they are tremendous developments and there is no foretelling their significance to posterity.

Humbert Fugazy, the fightless fight promoter, has sold his liabilities to the Madison Square Garden Corporation, whose stock has been feeble, for $60,000 and will now retire. Thus he will finally abandon his plan to build a super garden in New York with a seating capacity of 35,000 and a unique floor plan whereby 35,000 seats were to have been in the first row.

Fugazy Was to Break Ground Next Week.

The Garden Corporation bought off Mr. Fugazy just in time, as it was his intention to break ground for this super garden next week. In fact, it has constantly been his intention to break ground for this edifice next week for the last ten years, and I have received many beautiful architectual drawings from his office in the course of the decade, labeled, "proposed Humbert Fugazy super garden stadium, for which ground will be broken next week."

These all bore a resemblance to various faces of the State capital in Little Rock, Ark., and I used to hear that Mr. Fugazy had no architect but had merely hired a pantagraph and squirt gun artist in one of the advertising houses to build up these majestic pictures from postcard views of this distant State house, but I do not like to think Mr. Fugazy would have done that.

Scioto Club Named For Ryder Cup Golf

Atlanta, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Scioto Country Club, Columbus, Ohio, today was selected as the site for the 1931 Ryder Cup matches by the Professional Golfers Association in convention here. Selection of a site for next year's P. G. A. tournament was referred to the executive committee for decision.

Capablanca Challenges New Chess Champion

Paris, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Jose Capablanca, Cuban chess master, has issued a formal challenge to Alexander Alekhine, Russian expert, who has just won the world's chess championship at Wiesbaden.

Capablanca previously had sent challenges through friends but Alekhine insisted on a formal written challenge which Capablanca has mailed.

The Cuban hopes that the challenge will be accepted shortly and expects that the matches will be played either in New York or Bradley Beach, N. J.

Klien Breaks Pinehurst Record

Shoots a 66, 5 Under Par to Win Mid-South Open.

M'Leod Tops Capital Pros With Others Far in Rear.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Smashing the championship No. 2 course record with a sensational 66 five strokes under par, Willie Klein, of Wheatley Hills Country Club, Williston, Long Island, today won the tenth annual Mid-South open golf tournament of Pinehurst Country Club, with a total of 138 for the 36-hole event. Klein had a round 72 in the morning, 38 out and 34 in. This afternoon he sped around the made-over layout, with its twelfth hole stiffened and its new grass tees adding materially to the yardage, in the startling figures of 33 out and 33 in, to notch his record 66. He had an eagle 2 on the ninth, and birdies on the sixth, eighth, sixteenth and eighteenth.

Freddie McLeod, diminutive Columbia Country Club professional, led the Washington, D. C., contingent, numbering 11, with a 145 total, adding a brilliant round of 70 to his 75 of the morning. The other Capital pros were far in the rear, although Gene Larkin shot a fine 72 in the mroning ruond.

The finish of the event, in which 96 of the country's leading pros, including five former national champions and a flock of fast-stepping lesser link lights of the pro realm, was intensely interesting.

Gallett Finishes With 143.

Francis Gallett, of Milwaukee, had come in early in the afternoon with a card of 73, to give him a total of 143 to lead the field, with about a fourth of the competitors in. Gallett held the premier spot for a long time and seemed well entrenched to stay there, as most of the big shots came in fast after him to hand in cards that put them out of the money.

Then near the end came Dan Boardman, an unknown to the game, who hails from Philadelphia and who is stationed at Linewood Country Club, Atlantic City, with a dramatically scored 73, to give him 142 and oust Gallett. Boardman holed a 35-foot putt off the grass for a birdie 3 on the eighteenth to do the trick.

The galleries had conceded Boardman first place, though Klein, with 72 as his morning card still had to come in. He was almost last of the field to hand in his card. He, too, concluded his miraculous round with a sensational 35-foot putt on the eighteenth for a birdie 3, the birdie was not needed—a 6, two over par, would have won for him—but he set a mark that will be hard to equal over the snaggy championship course.

Kerrigan Takes Third Money.

Fourth place money went to Tom Kerrigan, of Siwanoy Country Club, New York, and Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., who came next after Gallett in a tie with cards of 144 and will split the award.

Jack Forrester, of Forest Hills, N. J., won the title last year with a total of 141, his best card being 67, which gives Klein a record for the course, for the event, total and for low round. Forrester was out of the money today, taking 145 as his total.

Klein won $400, Boardman, $200; Gallett, $150, and Turnesa and Kerr, $50 each.

Willie Klein, Williston, Long Island, 72—66—138.

LANDIS CALLS PARLEY.

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today issued a call to major leagues and their constituent clubs to meet at the Roosevelt Hotel, New York, at 11 a. m., December 12.

Belanger and Lomski To Clash at Detroit

Detroit, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Charley Belanger, of Vancouver, light-heavyweight champion of Canada, will meet Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., here Friday night in a ten-round elimination bout for the title recently vacated by Tommy Loughran, Dick Dunn, manager of Olympia Arena, announced tonight.

Belanger replaces George Courtney, of Oklahoma City, who was forced out out of the fight with an infected toe.

Yale Okun, New York light-heavyweight, has been signed to meet the winner of Friday's night's engagement.

Courtney's disability forces Olympia to make its second substitution in the Friday night card. Johnny O'Keefe, Columbus lightweight, who was to box Tommy Cello, died Monday night of heart disease. Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, was substituted.

YALE TO USE BOOTH AT START

Little Star in Opening Line-Up in Princeton Contest.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Dartmouth and Cornell have been carrying on their annual football rivalry only since 1919, but they go into their games and their preparations in as deadly earnest as the East's oldest football rivals. Both the White Indians of Dartmouth and their red-clad rivals are staging some of the season's hardest drills in preparation for their encounter Saturday.

The Dartmouth squad was kept at work until after dark today getting ready to meet their undefeated rivals. The work, however, was not rough today, a chalk talk occupying much of the time.

Meanwhile, Gil Dobie endeavored to teach his Cornell linesmen to use speed to offset Dartmouth's superior weight. Allen and Lueder, ends, who were injured in previous contests, were back in the line-up.

Light Work Only At Yale.

Mal Stevens, of Yale, announced his intention of displaying a new starting line-up against Princeton. Albie Booth, who has not been in at the kick-off so far, is scheduled to start along with Ned Austin and Truxton Hare. Stevens gave his men only a dummy scrimmage today, placing much emphasis on passing plays. The Tigers had a fifteen-minute scrimmage in the rain as a part of their drill, using only line plays, but kept Ed Wittmer, star back, out for fear of injury.

Pittsburgh's undefeated Panthers had a dummy scrimmage against the third team in preparation for the city championship game with Carnegie. The Tartans had a light but long drill with formations taking up much time.

Columbia staged a defensive drill against the plays used by its oldest rival, Pennsylvania. The Quakers were occupied with the problem of developing a pair of kickers to take the place of Walter Masters, who is not expected to play.

Passing Defense is Stressed at N. Y. U.

New York University busied itself with a defensive dummy scrimmage in preparation for the East's big intersectional clash against Missouri. The Violets finally learned how to break up Missouri's passing attack as interpreted by the scrubs.

With a let-up in the Army schedule Saturday, Biff Jones gave some time to the reserves, sending two teams of them against the scrubs.

Colgate and Syracuse Meet in 30th Contest

Special to The Washington Post

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 13.—The climax of a season's effort will be reached by the Syracuse University football eleven at Archbold Stadium Saturday when the Orangemen meet their ancient up-State rivals from Colgate for the thirtieth game since 1891. The powerful Maroon machine is favored to win.

Although Colgate seemingly has considerable advantage over Syracuse, close followers of the game are paying little or no attention to the relative paper merits of the teams. Colgate lost one game only to Wisconsin, by a single touchdown, while the Orangemen were dropping games to Nebraska and Penn State.

What the close observers note is that Syracuse should not have lost to either of its competitors. They also point out that Colgate has not been called upon to face a line as tough and efficient as that of the Orange. Syracuse's chief weakness was an inability to stop aerial attack.

Syracuse will use its strong forward wall of three sophs, three juniors and a senior to pit against the veteran Colgate group. It includes Ellert and Stoneberg, ends; Newton and Kanya, tackles; Obst and Van Ness, guards, and Berner, center. This line is every bit as good as the best the Maroon can offer.

Colgate has some edge in the back field. Syracuse's attack will be engineered by Henry Frank, quarter back; Stevens and Borton, half backs, and Sebo, full back.

COAST GRID STAR DIES.

San Jose, Calif., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Henry Luoma, star guard of the University of Santa Clara Football Team, died here today, following an operation for appendicitis a week ago. Last year Luoma won honorable mention from several experts in all-American selections.

PLEBE SOCCERISTS WIN.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13 (Special). The Navy Plebes defeated the Baltimore City College soccer team here this afternoon by the score of 1 to 0. The Plebe tally came in the third quarter after both teams had fought a deadlock in the first half.

STANAGE WITH PIRATES.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Oscar Stanage has signed a contract to continue as coach of the Pittsburgh National League Baseball Team in 1930, the club management announced today. Stanage was reported to have been contemplating joining the Chicago White Sox as coach under Manager "Donie" Bush, former Pirate pilot.

Dry Gridiron Now Hope of Maryland

Old Liners Aim to Use Full Assortment of Plays Saturday.

Coach Byrd to Start Yale Game Backs Against V. P. I.

ALTHOUGH the University of Maryland football players got in some telling licks in handling a wet ball in practice yesterday, they are hopeful that they will have a dry field and a clear sky when they tackle the Virginia Poly Gobblers in Norfolk on Saturday.

While the Old Liners have a well-developed running attack, Coach Curley Byrd and his charges are strong for mixing in a fine assortment of aerials, and the Maryland combination is not so good as a "sea-going" outfit.

There was very little rough work yesterday, although all of the players remaining on the squad are available for duty and the drilling saw three teams running up and down the field.

Lombard and Carlis To Start.

Coach Byrd will deviate in only one way from the starting line-up used against Yale in beginning the clash with the Gobblers. He has indicated that he will start Lombard and Carlis, considered the regulars, at the tackle positions instead of Fisher and Ribnitzki, who began the contest against the Elis. However, the four men are just about equal in ability, although Carlis is a sophomore while Fisher is a junior and the other two are seniors.

Maryland is well fixed for passing and kicking with Chalmers and Evans as the heavers, and the former and Miller as the kickers in the starting combination and with Roberts, an exceptional booter, ready for pinch duty.

Chalmers Punted Well Against Yale.

After Miller and Roberts were forced out of the Yale game with minor injuries, Chalmers did a fine job of punting, particularly in placing the ball "where they ain't."

Radice, full back, is the other regular member of the Old Line back field quartet, and the ball toters mentioned, along with Berger, "the pass snatching fool," have been doing most of the toiling back of the varsity line in the practice sessions. Berger is not just a pass grabber by any means, as he is clever running back and plays a strong defensive game, which comes rather natural to him on account of his prowess as a basket ball player.

V.P.I. Coach Drives Squad For Game With Maryland

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Nov. 13.—Andy Gustafson scrimmaged his Virginia Poly squad against Maryland plays in the rain and mud here today. Covered with mud from head to foot and fighting in vain to make headway in the treacherous footing, the Poly players fought until dark against the pet attacking methods of Coach Curley Byrd and his Old Liners. Then Andy tried out in actual battle for the first time this week the plays to be used against the Byrdmen. When backs could no longer see the ball the Poly coach called a halt and wound up with calisthenics and a final lap around the field.

All this was on top of tackling practice and frequent shifts at the heavy charging machine. The Gobblers headed for the gym weary from one of the hardest practice sessions of the year.

Buckner Green and Mark Ritter were assigned to the tackle posts today in place of Jim Swart and Harry Stark and will be in the line-up at the kick-off. The two big sopho-

Publicity Guns Trained on Georgetown From Gab Department of West Virginia

Flood of Words Not Expected to Intimidate Hilltop.

By JACK ESPEY.

THOSE husky, highly press-agented West Virginia Mountaineers evidently are hoping to walk out on the Griffith Stadium gridiron Saturday afternoon and find Georgetown's Hilltoppers trembling and whipped mentally before the game starts. For the past few days the skies at Morgantown have been lighted with fireworks shot up almost hourly from the university publicity office bearing the warning, "Look out, Georgetown! We're out to get you!"

The Mountaineers are trying to bolster their none too good chances of winning this annual Georgetown "homecoming" battle by defeating the Hilltoppers in a game of gab in which nearly all of the talking is being done by the former. By attempting this, Ira Rodgers' outfit is proving itself resourceful and possessed of creative minds, but those qualities as yet have failed to play much part in football games unless the mechanical ability to shove that leather across the goal line is there also.

Warning May Act as Boomerang.

Probably the Mountaineers, as well as the rest of us, realize that Georgetown ought to win by two or three touchdowns. If they do, they deserve credit only for not underestimating the Hilltoppers and not for employing an effectual method of gaining the decision.

West Virginia's warnings may, in fact, act as a boomerang, for if Georgetown takes them seriously it will work all the harder preparing to prevent what would be a tremendous shock to the football world if the Rodgersmen should win.

This is the West Virginia Team that was shoved backward to its goal line six times—four in the second half—by Detroit University last Saturday. This is the same band of giants that fell to pieces in a state of utter demoralization when they lost their captain via injuries, and it is the same identical bunch that couldn't even threaten to score against Fordham, that had a tough time beating Oklahoma Aggies, that bowed to Davis and Elkins, and that absorbed a walloping from Pittsburgh.

These vocal threats are made to a Georgetown team that has yielded only one touchdown so far this year, a team that held Navy without its 30-yard line in a 0-0 game and which

West Virginia-G. U. 1930 Game Arranged

Special to The Washington Post.

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 13.—West Virginia University officials announced this morning that contracts had been signed calling for a Georgetown-West Virginia football game at Washington, D. C., on October 25, 1930. This will mark the fifth encounter between the Mountaineers and the Hilltoppers since the resumption of football relations in 1926. This year's battle with Georgetown, which occurs next Saturday, and the 1927-28 games were played in mid-November, while the 1926 clash took place in October.

Wood, Harvard Grid Star, Named on Davis Cup Squad

Brilliant Forward Passer One of 17 Asked to Keep in Condition for Matches—Tilden Named Despite Retirement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—W. Barry Wood, jr., flashy sophomore quarter back of the Harvard Football Team, has been selected as a member of the American Davis Cup squad for next year's international tennis campaign along with such stars as Bill Tilden, Frank Hunter and John Doeg, it was announced today.

The versatile young Milton, Mass., athlete who tied the Army with a touchdown pass and astonished Michigan with his sharp-shooting pegs last Saturday, took a set from Doeg in the national singles championship and is ranked by the Davis Cup committee among the most promising of the country's younger players.

Starting its 1930 preparations early, the committee, headed by Chairman Joseph W. Wear, of Philadelphia, decided to file a formal challenge for the famous trophy in the American zone, as usual requesting the players to keep in good physical condition and to state if and when they will be at liberty to participate in trial matches and later in the various American zone Davis Cup ties, the committee named the following 17 men as the "tentative Davis Cup squad" of 1930:

Tilden and Hunter Head List.

William T. Tilden 2d, Philadelphia; Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y.; George M. Lott, jr., Chicago; John F. Hennessey, Indianapolis; Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex.; John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J.; Frederick Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa.; John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif.; Frank X. Shields, New York; Berkeley Bell, Dallas, Tex.; Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J.; J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J.; W. B. Wood, jr., Milton, Mass.; Sidney B. Wood, jr., Forest Hills, N. Y.; Wilbur F. Coen, jr., Kansas City; George J. Jennings, Chicago, and Richard N. Williams 2d, Philadelphia.

The committee took no apparent notice of the fact that Tilden has announced his international tennis career is at an end and that Hunter's further participation also is considered doubtful.

Ten women players, six of them Californians, were selected for the Wightman Cup Squad, from which a team will be picked to go to England in defense of the trophy next June.

Molla Mallory's Name Conspicuously Absent.

Those named were Helen Wills, Berkeley, Calif.; Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif.; Edith Cross, San Francisco; Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass.; Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Calif.; Mrs. L. A. Harper, San Francisco; Sarah Palfrey, Brookline, Mass.; Mary Greef, Kansas City; Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, Brookline, Mass., and Marion Williams, Pasadena, Calif.

The name of Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, mainstay of several Wightman Cup Teams, was conspicuous by its absence, although the Norse veteran eliminated the young English sensation, Betty Nuthall, in the last national championships.

Oglethorpe Full Back Dismissed From Squad

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Charlie McLaughlin, captain and full back of the Oglethorpe Football Team, was dismissed from the squad today because of his failure to attend the necessary number of classes. Oglethorpe will play St. Xavier at Cincinnati Saturday with Jess Burford, alternate captain, directing the team.

Champa, Injured C. U. Player, Recuperating

Joe Champa, veteran Catholic University half back, who suffered brain concusison last Saturday in the Duquesne game at Brookland Stadium, will be able to leave Providence Hospital within a couple of days, it was reported last night. Champa was taken to the hosptial in a serious condition during the game but responded quickly to treatment.

North Carolina-V. P. I. Negotiate for Grid Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Nov. 13.—Negotiations have been made whereby University of North Carolina will meet the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in football at Blacksburg on October 4, 1930, according to an announcement tonight by C. P. Miles, director of athletics at V. P. I. This will be the first visit of a Carolina Eleven to V P. I. since 1924.

Carolina, it is understood, will replace Hampden-Sidney on the V. P. I. schedule. The 1928 and 29 games between the two institutions were played at Chapel Hill in the new Carolina Stadium.

Amateur-Pro Encounters Approved

Lenglen and Wills, Cochet and Richards Matches Possible.

By TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Tennis produced an off-season sensation today in the shape of definite action by the United States Lawn Tennis Association in favor of open competition between amateurs and professionals.

If the unprecedented proposal cabled to the International Lawn Tennis Federation in Paris by the U. S. L. T. A. is accepted, the way will be open no later than next year for such epic matches, now impossible, as Helen Wills vs. Suzanne Lenglen, Karel Kozelum vs. Bill Tilden and Henri Cochet or Rene Lacoste vs. Vincent Richards. The barriers that have so long existed between the paid and unpaid performers will be leveled at a blow, and all star open tournaments like those in golf will be in order.

In perhaps the most significant development in tennis since the game expanded and spread from the private lawns of the wealthy into the public parks and the international arena, the United States has unhesitatingly taken the lead. The action of the U. S. L. T. A. marks the first step taken by an nation toward the goal of open competition.

Proposal May Be Voted At March Meeting.

If accepted by a two-thirds vote at the annual meeting of the federation in Paris on or about March 15, 1930, the proposed change will become effective immediately.

Simply worded, the amendment recommended by the executive committee of the U. S. L. T. A. would change the amateur code of the game to permit each national association to sanction competition between amateurs and professionals by giving written permission.

Under the present constitution of the federation an amateur tennis player is specifically and unqualifiedly prohibited from "knowingly playing for a prize with or against any person other than an amateur."

The proposed amendment calls for elimination of this sentence and the substitution of a clause providing that the amateur shall be prohibited from "playing a match or demonstrating the game or competing in a tournament either for a prize or otherwise, with or against any person other than an amateur, without the written permission of the governing body of his national association."

Open Tourneys Under "Local Option."

This would make possible a kind of "local option" under which various member nations might permit or prevent open competition within their borders, whichever they might see fit.

In announcing its action, the U. S. L. T. A. pointed out that there has been "increasing agitation for the holding of an open championship" since the formation of the professional lawn tennis association of the United States in which Vincent Richards, George Agutter and other famous players and teachers are enrolled.

As to when and where such a tournament would be held in this country, the association did not commit itself, but in an editorial in its official publication, Tennis, which announced the action, it was predicted on behalf of the U. S. L. T. A. that the "time is not far off when amateur and professional will be able to meet in competitive play in the United States in a well organized and efficiently run open tournament."

Pirates Quit Alliance With Salisbury Club

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh National League Club has relinquished control of the Salisbury (N. C.) Club in the Piedmont League, President L. L. Propst, of the Columbia Club, of the South Atlantic Association, announced today. The Columbia Club, which has been operating with the Salisbury Club as a "farm" for Pittsburgh, retains its connection with the National League Club.

Team That Tied Navy and Beat N. Y. U. Is of Known Quality.

would have won but for poor officiating. This stuff falls on the ears of a team that not only held Navy's strongest array almost powerless but that also knocked off a favored New York University eleven following a more or less unimpressive early season showing.

G. U. Needs Only to Play Normal Game.

Georgetown need not worry about West Virginia' advance attack. All Georgetown should worry about is to be sure to play as good football as it did against Navy and N. Y. U. If the wearers of the Blue and Gray repeat their performances of the past two Saturdays, a victory by a margin of two or three touchdowns will be the natural result.

Head Coach Little may be depended upon to leave no stone unturned in getting his men ready for this game. The overconfidence bugaboo will be deader than a Chicago squealer before his men take the field Saturday. He is aware that football teams start to take things easy once they get the idea they have done well, and Georgetown will not follow the rule if he has anything to do with it.

Little also is devoting much time to strengthening the Hilltop offense particularly the interference department. He has capable ball carriers but not enough good interferers to clear the path of the man with the ball so as to give him full opportunity to demonstrate his individual ability.

Yesterday the Hilltoppers indulged in a long scrimmage with the scrubs using West Virginia plays. They mixed it hotly for an hour, but the acting Mountaineers were unable to make any headway through the stone-wall varsity line. George Hornyak, a sophomore back of the scrub team, suffered a twisted knee.

DIAVOLO WINS 2 1-4 MILE PIMLICO CUP IN GALLOP

Wheatley Colt Takes Stake, Eased Up

Beats African by 8 Lengths; William T. Is Third.

Le Bey Winner Over Beezlebub in Steeplechase Event.

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 13.—The Pimlico Cup, one of the few remaining long-distance races run in this country, which was offered as a feature by the Maryland Jockey Club for the closing day of the Pimlico meeting, proved little better than a good open gallop for the Wheatley Stable's Diavolo, Whisk Broom II's best son, who has been a consistent winner in the important fixtures run in the East all season.

The fog was so dense throughout the program that the colors were not distinguishable except at the start or the finish, and the chart makers were unable to make the calls or learn the fractional time of the races. Often the fields could be seen only 200 yards in any direction.

There were only three starters in the cup, African and William T. being the other two. Diavolo was ridden by J. Burke and went to the post a 1-to-4 favorite. Setting his own pace he made all of his own pace and galloped home the easiest sort of a winner with a lead of eight lengths over African. William T., finished third, beaten three lengths and a half for the place.

Diavola Takes Early Lead.

The Pimlico Cup was a dash of 2 miles and a quarter and the start was at the top of the stretch. When they came into view passing the grand stand the first time around Diavolo was leading William T. by a length and a half and African was third, six lengths farther away. When they completed another circuit of the course Diavolo had increased his lead to two lengths and a half and African was ten lengths back of William T. Burke had the pacemaker under restraint and even then it looked like a case of all over but the shouting. Diavolo was still leading when they came into the home stretch for the finish. Burke had him under stout restraint. At no time during the running was the winner released from a pull. He outclassed his opposition and could have won by a tremendous margin had Burke permitted him to step along. The 2 miles and a quarter were run in 3:54 4-5. Diavolo's victory netted his owner $8,550 and a gold cup valued at $500. The Maryland Jockey Club divided $2,300 among the trainers of the three horses: $1,500 to James Fitzsimmons, $500 to T. J. Healy and $300 to W. E. Caskey, jr.

The fifth race, framed for platers under claiming conditions, brought a field of nine to the post. It was a dash of 1 mile and a half and Villager went to the post favorite. When they came into view passing the stand the first time Catlettsburg had a lead of eight lengths. Resourceful was second, a length and a half in front of Troll, who led the favorite, Villager, one length.

Villager Goes to The Front.

Coming to the finish inside the furlong pole, Villager had caught and passed Cattletsburg and at the end he was a length and a half in front and going easily. Troll was a tiring third, beaten two lengths for the place. Stevens, who had the mount on Cattletsburg, lodged a claim of foul against the winner, which was not allowed.

The fog became denser and it was impossible to distinguish the horses at a greater distance than 200 feet. Passing the stand the first time, Inception led Searcher by a couple of lengths. Chief Executive and Snelboc were on top of the latter, the three racing heads apart. When they again came into view, Inception was still leading and at the finish galloped home an easy winner by four lengths from Chief Executive and Searcher, who finished as named, noses apart. Electa, a distant trailer in the early stages, was fourth, eight lengths back of Searcher.

The start and finish were the only points in which the horses could be distinguished during the running of the first race. This was a dash of 1 mile and 70 yards, for 2-year-olds, for which Ulverston was favorite. The start was prompt and good and Mary Eloise and Kai Lo were quickest to begin.

Mary Eloise Weakens Near End.

In the run to the first turn Mary Eloise took command and she was still in front when the horses could be distinguished in the home stretch. Right at the end she began to falter and Pete Walls, putting up a rousing finish, got Easter up in time to nose out the tiring pacemaker. Phil R. was third, beaten four lengths for the place. Ulverston finished eighth and beaten off.

It is not so often that the Jefferson Livingston horses are seen in front these days, but in the running of the Consolidation Steeplechase the imported fencer Le Bey carried the colors of this popular sportsman to victory. There were six starters, and like the opening event the race was run in a dense fog. Passing the stand the first time around, Lizard was out in front of Beezlebub and then followed Le Bey five lengths farther back. The next time they came into view, which was at the eighth jump, Le Bey was leading Lizard by a length. Beezlebub was third another length away. Le Bey and Beezlebub took the last fence together with the former half a length in front.

In the run home on the flat Le Bey outfooted Beezlebub and, increasing his advantage, had a lead of two lengths as they passed the winning mark. Devilkin was third, beaten off 20 lengths for the place. All but Racing Star finished the course without a mishap.

Fortunate Youth, the colt that finished second to Ned O. in the Walden Stakes last week, beat a band of two-year-olds in the third race when he outgamed Top Kick and Swinfield. The first three were heads apart at the end. When the start came Fortunate Youth, quick to begin, outran his field to the first turn and was leading when they disappeared into the fog. Swinfield was on the outside and was carried wide at this stage.

When they came into view again in the home stretch, Fortunate Youth was still leading by a small margin, Top Kick was next the inside rail, squeezing through a narrow opening, and Swinfield was on the outside. All three were under punishment, but their positions remained unchanged all the last hundred yards.

CUSTOMERS LACKING IN FLORIDA

Garden Acted Timely in Fugazy Case, Says Pegler.

In buying Mr. Fugazy's liabilities for $60,000 the Garden Corporation took over his contracts with Victorio Campolo, the Argentino, who has a back as big as a skating rink and pain in every act of it; Max Schmeling, the German pugilist, who offended the New York Prize Fight Commission and fled to Germany as a political refugee; Fainting Phil Scott, the folding Englishman, and miscellaneous gladiators of all weights, who had attached themselves to the fightless fight promoter for quarters, heat and rations. They realized that Humbert could not produce prize fights in a theoretical stadium and refused to fight for anybody else. It was an easy existence.

Garden Forced to Take Over All Liabilities.

Just why the Garden Corporation wished to acquire Mr. Campolo and his backache or Fainting Phil Scott, I can not understand, but I suppose they found out that, in order to obtain a clear title to Schmeling they would have to take over all of Mr. Fugazy's other liabilities. Mr. Schmeling's manager, in a cable from Berlin, promptly replied that Schmeling never was one of Fugazy's liabilities and therefore could not be sold to the Garden.

This makes it all very complicated and the only fortunate thing about it all is that it is not important enough to worry about. Mr. Schmeling's manager said he would not accept the amnesty of the New York Boxing Commission, but would put his boxer in the ring in a supergarden at Atlantic City, which is now in process of imagination, for a purse of several millions. This language bespeaks a misunderstanding, however, and I do not believe any one explained to Schmeling's manager just what amnesty is. Neither does it seem that he has read the papers lately, because nobody in the prize fighting industry speaks of several millions any more.

There is an old Spanish folk song which should express the feelings and describe the economic condition of the prize fight industry before the winter ends. In my recollection, the chorus ran:

No tengo tobacco,
No tengo papel,
No tengo dinero.

There was a fourth line, which would not be at home in a family newspaper.

75 Ride at First Hunt Of New Fairfax Club

The first fox hunt of the newly organized Fox Hunt Club at Sunset Hills, Va., yesterday was pronounced a decided success by all of the 75 people riding in the hunt. More than 150 persons were guests of the club, which held the event at the home of A. Smith Bowman.

With the dogs procured from the Middleburg Hunt Club, a fox unplanted by the club, was jumped after a half hour's ride from the base and was downed after an hour's chase. Miss Isley, of Middleburg, got the brush, and the mask was awarded Mrs. A. Smith Bowman. A feature of the chase was the riding of James Powell, 8, who, playing against his father's advice, followed the hounds, took all the jumps and was in at the kill.

After the chase, luncheon was served all the guests by Mr. and Mrs. Bowman. Among the guests were David Bachelor, H. H. Carrico, Mrs. William Morgan Shuster, daughter of Col. Hayden, who was the founder of the American Fox Hunters' Association and lifetime president of the organization; Mrs. Joseph Horgan, Margaret Keith, Grace Raizer, Ilsley Spencer, Eileen Schlesinger, Julia Whiting, D. B. Smith, D. M. Waltins, Julia Keith, Charollet Nourse, C. T. Butlle, Maj. H. H. Hawkins, Mrs. Colmans, Maude Prelst, Mrs. Snyder, Margo Cousens, Bob Maldux, H. Woodley Smith and Grace Raezer.

DEVITT AND G. U. FRESHMEN TO CLASH TOMORROW

Contest Tops Five-Game Program

Gonzaga - St. John's to Meet on Benning Gridiron.

Tech Eleven Is Likely to Swamp Business in Series.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, JR.

A GAME between Devitt Prep's crack eleven and the Georgetown University Freshmen Team scheduled only yesterday for tomorrow afternoon on the Hilltop gridiron bids fair to outshine in attractiveness any of the other four games slated to be played. Although Tech and Business clash in an interhigh contest, which will be the series' last stand for each team, the result of the fray is almost a foregone conclusion.

However, there should be a real battle when Jim McNamara leads his prep men against the Hilltop yearlings. The prep school has turned out a first-class team this year and one that has already taken the measure of all but two of its rivals. Counted among its victims is the Eastern High Eleven, which has been playing great ball in the high school series. And with the Blue and Gray's next year varsity material looking not at all bad, the game should produce some hardy battling.

Another prep game to be played tomorrow involves two first-rate teams with the championship of the Catholic schools in the District at stake. Coach Orrell Mitchell's Gonzaga Team is down on the books to play host to Paully Byrne's St. John's Cadets at the former's new field at Thirty-fourth street and Benning road northeast. Taking a light and inexperienced group of boys at the beginning of the season, Byrne has developed his aggregation into a most formidable machine and one that should give the Purple Eleven a stiff argument.

Little Difference in Comparative Scores.

The prospect of a hot battle tomorrow is given from a glance at the comparative scores which leaves the decision just about at a toss-up. St. John's held the Georgetown Prep Team to a 0-0 draw, and the best that Gonzaga could do to the G. U. prepmen was to eke out a 6-0 triumph by virtue of a costly miscue on the part of a Georgetown man late in the game. Another indication of the Cadets' strength is seen from a game early in the season in which Tech High's prospective champions were able only to escape with the barest of margins, winning, 7-6.

Whether or not Hardell will endeavor to have his Tech Team attempt a record score against Business or not tomorrow is a question that remains undecided. The Maroon and Gray mentor, though, has given no indication of starting any but his regulars, and for this reason may expect to see his men do just about as they please against the luckless Stenogs.

So far, the Business Team has not scored a point in its three interhigh games and should it fail to cross the Tech goal line tomorrow would be marked with this somewhat inglorious record.

The other games of lesser importance will find the Swavely Prepmen tackling Georgetown Prep while Landon will oppose the Woodward Eleven.

Emerson to Meet La Salle.

Still battered by the 23-to-0 bruising received at the hands of the George Washington University Freshmen last Friday, Emerson Institute's Eleven is prepping daily to meet the LaSalle Institute of Cumberland, Md. Although expecting to play the game on Saturday afternoon, reports emanating from the Maryland camp seem to expect the game to be played on Sunday. However, Coach Sanborn states that Sunday games are against the rules of the local school and will leave for Cumberland with the idea of playing the game on Saturday.

Kelso and Buscher, linemen, are nursing injuries which will keep them out of action. The rest of the team is expected to start the game with the possibility that Davidson, a newcomer, may be given a trial in the back field. Only two games remain on Emerson's schedule after the LaSalle clash, one with Mount St. Mary's Team and the other with the Wenonah Military Academy Eleven.

Susquehanna Points For Gallaudet Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Selinsgrove, Pa., Nov. 13.—Susquehanna grid warriors after a complete rest on Monday started preparations for their final home game of the year with Gallaudet, last night. Every man on the squad turned out, although several backs were unable to go through the hard drills. Both Wagner, the flashy freshman back, and Malasky were slightly injured in the Ursinus fray and watched the proceedings from the side lines. However, both of these boys should be in shape to play against Gallaudet. Wagner was forced to leave the Ursinus fray early in the second quarter and his punting was missed until Glenn went in to carry on.

This week's workout will be intensive, but with a minimum of body contact work. Tuesday's workout consisted of a talk on mistakes in Saturday's game and a long drill in fundamentals. While there was a big improvement in all departments of the game Saturday, the coaches are still stressing fundamentals. The linemen showed great improvement in blocking and also in breaking through on defense. Barber's work at end stood out conspicuously as time after time he broke through and spilled the Ursinus backs for big losses.

SOCCER TEAM MEETS.

The Jefferson Alumni Soccer Team, which is organized under the management of T. B. Fairhurst, 716 B street southwest, will hold a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock. Any candidates wishing to play with the team are asked to report at that time. Practice will be held at Monument Field No. 1 at 1 o'clock Saturday.

2 CAROLINA FOES MEET AGAIN

N. C. U. Has Won 18 From Davidson; Lost 3, Tied 4.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 13.—One of the State's oldest gridiron rivalries will be renewed when the North Carolina University and the Davidson Wildcats meet on Richardson Field at Davidson Saturday afternoon.

Since 1898 the two elevens have met almost annually, and it seems traditional that neither shall win by a heavy score.

In 31 years there have been only five games won by as much as four touchdowns.

Four times the teams have fought futilely to scoreless ties, and on seven other occasions the margin has been one touchdown or less.

Several times field goals or safeties have furnished the means of a win. The series shows Carolina with eighteen wins, three defeats and four scoreless ties.

Long Rivalry Unmarred By Bitterness.

It is remarkable, too, that in so many hard-fought games no bitterness should have crept in to mar the occasion. The Tarheels and Wildcats have always played each other in sportsmanlike manner.

Davidson went twelve years before the Cats could crash through to a win. Only once in that time, however, could the Tarheels get away to an impressive win. The 27 to 0 score in 1902 was the brightest spot for Carolina. Three years netted scoreless ties.

The Tarheels' biggest score came in 1915 when they rolled up a 41 to 6 count, but the Wildcats came back in 1916 and held to a 10 to 6 score.

Two Davidson Victories Since World War.

Two of Davidson's three wins have come since the World War, one by 7 to 0 in 1920 and the other 10 to 3 in 1926.

Playing the first game ever staged in Kenan Stadium, the Tarheels reversed midseason form in 1927 to give the Wildcats a 27-0 lacing, and won again last year by 30 to 7.

North Carolina State and Wake Forest have two losses apiece in the big five title race, and with the chase narrowing down to Carolina, Duke and Davidson, prospects are for a great fight Saturday.

North Carolina Title Lies Among 3 Colleges

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 13.—With both North Carolina State and Wake Forest having lost two games apiece in Big Five competition, it looks as if the 1929 State title race has turned into a three-cornered affair between Davidson, Carolina and Duke. Somebody goes down Saturday, for the Tarheels are to clash with Davidson in the native Wildcat lair in what promises to be another of those epic Carolina-Davidson fights.

Duke and Davidson clash at Durham on Thanksgiving Day, and then on December 7 comes the monumental Duke-Carolina battle, already predicted by many as being the game that will settle the title race.

UMPIRES TO BANQUET.

The seventh annual banquet of the District of Columbia Baseball Umpires Association will be held on Thursday night, November 21, at the Hamilton Hotel at 7 o'clock.

PONTIACS LOSE ACE.

George Charnley, full back and mainstay of the Pontiac 100-pound eleven, will be lost to his team for the season as the result of a broken shoulder sustained in a game which the Pontiacs lost to Phi Alpha Epsilon, 12-6.

ON DIXIE GRIDIRONS

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Col. Dan McGugin, the sage of Nashville, has fooled the boys so many times this season that they are quite prepared for anything when he claps his hands and shoos his Vanderbilt Commodores out on the football field.

First Col. McGugin took his green sophomores and punted out a victory over Alabama. The experts gave him plenty of credit, but added, parenthetically, that he'd never get past George Tech and Tennessee, too.

But the cagy McGugin fooled them again. He dug out another rusty punt and gave Georgia Tech the worst licking it has taken from a Southern team in fifteen years.

Now Diogenes and all his cousins are abroad with their lanterns, trying to find an expert who will pick Tennessee to beat Vanderbilt Saturday.

This game will have a lot to do with deciding who's who in the South this year.

If Vanderbilt wins it is virtually assured of finishing undefeated and on even terms with Tulane, which also has a fine chance to come through with a perfect record.

But if Tennessee wins it will be something else again. Tennessee will have to eliminate Kentucky. Kentucky probably will prove to be a pretty tough nut to crack.

The Wildcats were rolling merrily along toward the title until they bumped into Tony Holm at Montgomery last week.

Tennessee hasn't lost a game at home in four years and hasn't lost a game anywhere in three years. This may prove to be a mental hazard for Vanderbilt.

On the other hand the Volunteers have been up against the law of averages every time they have performed this year. So far they have beat the percentage, but Maj. Neyland, the coach, frankly says he don't see how his team can go on winning forever.

Saturday's meeting is regarded as the conference game of the year. It will draw people from all over the South. Shields Watkins Field will not begin to hold the crowds.

There is a movement on here to have Saturday's winner meet Tulane at Atlanta January 1 to decide the championship.

Of course, it is assumed that either Vanderbilt or Tennessee and Tulane will go through without a defeat.

Should Tennessee win Saturday and then lose to Kentucky, Tulane would be the winner without any argument.

All star teams representing the Northern and Southern ends of the conference are scheduled here in a charity game in January and the idea is to have the conference title game supplant this, with the proceeds going to charity.

Neither Tennessee nor Vanderbilt is scheduled with Tulane. Vanderbilt has two conference games left with Tennessee and Sewanee. Tulane meets Sewanee and Louisiana State. Tennessee faces Vanderbilt, Kentucky and South Carolina.

Muhlenberg Game Next Goal of F. and M.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 13.—Franklin and Marshall meets Muhlenberg at Allentown this Saturday in a crucial Eastern Conference game, the outcome of which will have a direct bearing on the season's final title rating.

The F. & M. Possums are heading the conference parade in front of Gettysburg by a one-game margin. A setback this Saturday would prove disastrous to Coach Miller's eleven, while a victory would give the Possums an advantage that would send them into the game with Gettysburg here on Thanksgiving Day a slight favorite to cop the Eastern Conference title.

Coach Miller's proteges came out of the Mount St. Mary's game in good shape and not one serious injury has been reported. Dick Bachman, sensational young half back, who was injured in the P. M. C. game, reported for practice early this week and will be ready to start against Muhlenberg.

FLIERS PLAY QUANTICO MARINES

Dayton Eleven Confident After Beating St. Xavier.

Special to The Washington Post.

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 13.—The University of Dayton Flyers are now on the road for a successful season as they approach the finale of the schedule playing the Quantico Marines in the Dayton Stadium here Saturday. The win of 15 to 0 over their archrivals, St. Xavier, gave the Flyers just the amount of confidence to end their season victoriously.

The Dayton Team, although defeated three times this year, have not as yet met defeat at the hands of any Ohio team. They have defeated Wilmington and St. Xavier and with the Wittenberg game for the Thanksgiving tussle, they have the opportunity of keeping their Buckeye record untarnished.

Flyers Were in Form Against St. Xavier.

The Flyers showed more ability in the Governor's Cup game with St. Xavier than they have shown in the last few years. Every department of the team played better, with the back field getting away quicker while the line tackled the hardest they have this season.

"Jumpy" Marshall, the find of this season, was at full back and really showed the people at Corcoran Stadium how it was to break through the Musketeers strong defense. He made the longest run of the game when he ran 34 yards for a touchdown through the entire Cincinnati Team.

"Dip" Shuey, who was the tackle scintillater on the Flyers in his sophomore year, came back to life last Saturday and played one of the best games of his career at tackle against Xavier.

Shuey Was Star of Contest.

He was in on all plays helping his fellow linemen to stop the Musketeers' plays before they had the opportunity to get started. In fact, the Musketeers were unable to get by the Dayton 35-yard line during the entire game.

The Quantico Marines, whom the Flyers meet Saturday, have the advantage over the Dayton Team in the three games that they have played, as the Gem City lads have only been able to garner one win out of the trio of fracases. As the St. Xavier Team has defeated the Marines this year, the chances for a Dayton win Saturday are bright.

Massanutten's Augusta Game Listed Tomorrow

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodstock, Va., Nov. 13.—The classic of Shenandoah Valley scholastic football will be played here Friday, when Massanutten's Purple and Gold warriors meet Augusta Military Academy eleven at 2:30 p. m. on Seibert Field.

This game was moved up from Saturday, November 16, to Friday to allow the A. M. A. team to attend the V. M. I. and W. and L. homecoming games at Lexington Saturday.

To date both teams have fine records. The Augusta team has defeated V. M. I. and W. and L. junior varsity, Episcopal High, Woodberry Forest and Greenbrier, losing only to Fork Union M. A., 13-6.

Massanutten lost to Mercersburg, an out-of-State team, 7 to 6, and has defeated Danville M. I., Naval Apprentice School, St. John's College (junior varsity), Hampden-Sydney Frosh, and Roanoke Frosh. The Purple has scored 170 points to its opponents' 7, while Augusta has scored 118 to their opponents' 25.

V. P. I. HOPES TO RETAIN FORM

Team That Beat W. and L., and Va. Would Down Md.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 13.—Braced by the first day of rest in many weeks on the heels of the triumph over Virginia, V. P. I.'s eleven is back in the saddle and riding hard in preparation for the annual Tidewater battle with Maryland, at Norfolk, next Saturday. The Gobblers forgot football on Armistice Day in paying homage to the institute's war dead, but now are hard at the stern task of making ready to seek with might and main the scalp of a powerful eleven which swept Yale aside in the second half at New Haven last week.

The big question in the Gobbler camp is, "Can Andy Gustafson keep the team at its peak through another week?" The speed and power displayed against Washington and Lee and Virginia on successive Saturdays is one thing to attain and quite another to hold through three successive weeks. The task this week is calling for all the resourcefulness the crafty Gustafson can muster.

Tidewater Boys on Squad Eager.

One thing favors the Poly mentor, and that is the fact that many of his regulars are Tidewater boys who are eager to be at their best before the fans of their home section. Phil Spear, Tommy Tomko and Bird Hooper, from the first back field; Mit Owens and Bunt Ottley, from the second; Harry Stark, Jack Gray and Gene Brown, from the line, are all from the Tidewater country and will play this week before delegations from their home towns.

Phil Spear is taking a minor part in the scrimmages this week, for he was battered and bruised in his terrific assault upon Virginia's hopes. This lad crossed the goal line four times and for 50 minutes displayed as fine a burst of speed and power as any Old Dominion field has seen this fall.

McEver's Playing Also Feature.

Macauley McEver lagged behind the Tidewater flash only in scoring, for his dynamic line thrusts and elusive antics beyond the line of scrimmage threatened the laurels of his famous brother, Gene, of Tennessee. Tommy Tomko's driving and blocking also were big factors in the Poly attack, while Bird Hooper's smart generalship and a hard charging line, which gathered force as the game progressed, told heavily.

The Gobblers will need everything they can muster if they hope to fare even as well as Yale against another capable Byrd machine which is trained to reach the heights in mid-November. After the Tuesday and Wednesday scrimmages the Gobblers will have but one day to oil their attack before they take off on the first lap of the long ride to Norfolk.

Carolina Freshmen to Play Old Line Cubs

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 14.—Backed by four weeks of intensive work, the North Carolina Tar Babies will fare forth to College Park, Md., this weekend to stage their annual battle on Saturday with the Maryland Frosh.

The Tar Babies lost their last game, a heartbreaking 8-7 decision, to the Duke Freshmen, and will undoubtedly be striving hard to get back in the win column, at the expense of what is reported to be one of the strongest freshman teams Maryland has had in years.

Promising material is abundant in the Tar Babies ranks, especially in the line, but it has been hard to develop a smooth offensive, due to the fact that the freshman elevens are used so regularly in training the Tarheel varsity.

The yearling squad includes one All-Southern, high-school guard, three captains and a number of other formerly prominent high and prep school stars.

ON VIRGINIA GRIDIRONS

(Associated Press).

JOHNNIE BIGGS, who tossed the two passes from which V. M. I. netted a pair of touchdowns against Clemson, is the highest ranking military officer in the corps of cadets—cadet first captain and regimental commander. Biggs, who has played a good and at times brilliant game this season, holds the varsity long-disance run record for alumni field. He dashed 85 yards to score in the Hampden-Sidney game this fall.

If Gus Kaminer is back in shape this week-end he must vie with Hunter Faulconer and Herbert Bryant for the fourth place in Coach Earl Abell's Virginia back field. Capt. Sloan, Bill Thomas and Albert Lewy are forecasted as starters against Washington and Lee in the jobs of quarter, half and full, leaving a trio from which the Cavalier mentor may complete the quartet.

With the possible exception of Monk Ruffner, one of the mainstays of the back field, Coach Charley Bernier is expected to muster a full force for the Richmond U. game Saturday. Capt. Butch Blanton is back in form after illness and injury and is slated to be in his usual position. Ruffner was nurt in the Lynchburg mix-up.

V. P. I. probably has learned a lesson from Yale's experience last week-end and will do no experimenting with the Old Liners. Maryland staged a comeback to tie the Elis, after Albie Booth was withdrawn from the game, and Coach Gustafson is likely to find it necessary to keep Sears, Hooper and McEver on the job constantly to keep the Marylanders from hogging the battle. Maryland has tied one Old Dominion team—Virginia—and lacked but a point from evening the Cadets' score.

If Randolph-Macon backs can get the fumbles out of their fingers, they should give Hampden-Sidney, one of the Virginia Conference leaders, a stiff fight in the game at Ashland Saturday before Thanksgiving. In the Richmond U. game here last week, the Jackets showed keen ability at tackling and their defensive play for the most part far above par, but the backs could not keep their hands on the ball. Fumbling has been the thorn in the side of R.-M.'s offensive tactics this year, which have replaced their former emphasis on keeping down their opponents and letting their own side of the sheet go to the dogs.

The V. M. I. Rats downed the Cavalier Youngsterson the eve of the varsity victory over Virginia. Saturday before the big Thanksgiving game at Roanoke the Rats will take on V. P. I.'s Gobblets.

Minors Suspend Toporcer For Year for "Mob Scene"

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—George Toporcer, star second baseman of the Rochester Club of the International League and a former St. Louis Cardinal, stands suspended from organized baseball for one year, under an order issued by Mike H. Sexton, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, made public here today.

The order suspends Toporcer and fines Manager Billy Southworth of the Rochester Club $500 for "creating a mob scene" in the final contest of the "little world series" between Rochester and Kansas City of the American Association at Rochester, October 13.

The suspension, dating from December 1, 1929, comes under a regulation adopted by the National Association June 11, 1927, and sent by Commissioner Landis to all major and minor league clubs, umpires, managers, coaches and players.

Toporcer had been considered for a major league berth with the Cardinals in 1930, but club officials pointed out today that even if the suspension order did not bar him from all leagues, there is an agreement between leagues which bars dealing with any ineligible or suspended player.

Player is "Staggered" By Action.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—George Toporcer, of the Rochester Red Wings, 1928-29 International League champion team, said he was "staggered" when informed of his suspension from the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues at his home here today.

"The suspension staggers me," he said. "Especially in view of the fact I have already been fined $200 and had no chance to defend myself at the hearing called by President Michael Sexton in Chicago October 25.

"At that time I was in New York settling affairs, and telegrams notifying me of the hearing were mailed to me several days after it was held.

"The charge that I shoved and pushed the umpire is unfounded. I recall there was some profane language used, but that is not uncommon on the ball field.

"The incident occurred with two men on bases. Umpire Goetz had called two strikes on me, and when he called the third, which appeared to me to be low, I protested. Then he sent me out of the game."

Gallaudet Seeks First Win On Foreign Field in 6 Years

CAN Gallaudet College break its jinx of six years' standing and win its first college football tussle played on foreign gridirons? That is the question which is agitating the minds of the Blues as they girdle themselves for their combat with Susquehanna University at Selins Grove, Pa., Saturday.

Judging from the record of Susquehanna University this season, and considering the present battered condition of the Blues, the Pennsylvanians will offer stubborn resistance when they oppose Coach Hughes' men. The Blues will enter the game as underdogs, yet they hope to upset the dope in an attempt to even their wins and losses to date and also to chase the Nemesis of defeats suffered when playing abroad.

Instead of being in its prime at this time of the year, the Gallaudet machine is showing many ill effects of the rough encounter with the Temple Owls in Philadelphia last Saturday. Capt. Johnny Ringle was the only back field man to escape unhurt. Paul Zieske, a crack ball toter, received a severe cut about his lips, which required three stitches. His enforced withdrawal early in the game weakened Gallaudet considerably.

Alfred Marshall suffered fresh injuries in the Temple game and will likely be out for the season. Konrad Hokanson is limping around with a Charley horse, but it was confidently expected that he will get into the forthcoming Saturday's struggle at Selins Grove. Boyce Williams is nursing a water knee, while Roy Parks is seemingly doomed as a college player following another bad injury. Hugh Stack is another addition to Manager Friedman's hospital list, but the game center is expected to recover in time to be used on Saturday.

USING THE BALLS AND STRIKES ON THE HITTER AS A KEY TO COMBINATION FINGER SIGNS

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants).

In probably no other department of baseball have there been as many radical changes as in catchers' signals to their pitchers during the last fifteen years. Up until 1914 even the smartest of major league catchers had used virtually the same signs for fast, curve and waste balls that they had used when they were boys on the sand lot.

In 1914 world series smart baseball men realized that there was nothing to prevent runners on second base from tipping these simple signs to the hitter and letting him know just what kind of ball the pitcher was delivering and what to expect. George Stallings, Hank Gowdy, Johnny Evers and the late Pat Moran developed the first revolutionary step in catchers' signs when they developed a series of three signs, the second one being the real sign.

Later there developed variations of this system of three signs. The odd and even system was one. The catcher showed a different number of fingers three times in succession. The pitcher simply added up the number of fingers shown by the catcher. If they added up even it called for a fast ball, if they totaled an odd figure, a curve ball was thrown.

Later only one sign was used with a number of key movements that changed it into meaning either a fast ball, curve ball or waste ball. The number of balls and strikes on a batter was used in one system, the batter really unknowingly calling his own signs on himself.

Navy Soccerists Rout Lafayette Team, 7-3

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13.—The Navy soccer team ran roughshod over Lafayette and won easily by the score of 7 to 3 in a drizzling rain here this afternoon.

The Tar Booters had great offensive strength and the Pennsylvania team could not hold them in check. Navy started in scoring spon after the game started and held the upper hand throughout the tilt.

Gubbins was the scoring star for the Navy. He sent three goals into the net and his work on the forward line aided in other Middie tallies.

Bucknell Eleven Wary Of Penn State Battle

Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 13.—With only three days remaining before Bucknell's invasion of State College for the biggest game of the Bison season, that with the Penn State Lions Saturday, there was not the expected optimism on the campus here. Bucknell's victories over Lafayette, Gettysburg, Temple and Villanova in a month have not made the students or players overconfident.

Penn State herself has attended to any tendency toward cockiness by her own exploits against Lafayette, Syracuse and Penn. It has been a number of years since Penn State has come to the middle of November with victories over three leading Eastern elevens, all old-time opponents, and these successes have given Bucknell cohorts all the warning they need. Bucknell will enter the State game the underdog, and this means that the Bisons will go into the battle with all the "fight" they have.

TENNESSEE TOPS SOUTH SCORING

Tulane Now Second; Louisiana State Drops Down.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Tennessee and Tulane have replaced Clemson and Louisiana State at the top of the Southern conference scoring parade.

Tennessee went into the lead with 257 points by walloping Carson-Newman, 73-0. Tulane licked Auburn, 52-0, and moved into the runner-up position with 240 points.

Louisiana State, which led last week, lost to Duke, 32-6, and dropped to third place with 234 points. North Carolina continued in fourth place with 231 and Clemson, the early season pace setter, lost to Virginia Military, 12-0, and slumped to fifth position.

Kentucky, the only other eleven to score more than 200 points so far, is sixth with 208.

Team.	Games.	Points. For.	Against.
Tennessee	7	257	13

Beall High Soccerists Win in State Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 13.—In an elimination game today, looking to the State soccer championship, Grantsville High, champions of Garrett County, was no match for Beall High, of Frostburg, the champions of Allegany County this season, the Mountain City lads winning 13 to 2. The game was staged at Community Park here in a drizzle. The Garrett County boys were outclassed. It was the ninth straight year that a Garrett County team has lost to the Allegany County champion. It was the first year for a Grantsville win in Garrett County.

While the score stood 5 to 0 shortly after the opening of the second half, F. Livengood scored a field goal for Grantsville, and this was a signal for the Beall boys to get busy and they began raining field goals.

Beall is scheduled to meet Hagerstown High, champion of Washington County, at Hancock, in an intercounty elimination game Friday afternoon. It will have been the first time that an Allegany County champion played in two championship clashes in the same week.

V. P. I. COACH DRIVES TEAM FOR MARYLAND

mores are badly used up after five straight games with powerful opponents and are sorely in need of rest. Green and Ritter have an extra campaign behind them and are ready to take up where the Sophs left off. They both suffered from injuries early in the season, but have come through with a sterling brand of ball in the last three games and played so well against Virginia last week that they no longer are cut out for relief duty. Swart was injured early in the Virginia game and may not be well enough to take any part in the Maryland scrap.

But all the other Gobbler players linemen and backs are in fine trim and will go into battle with a veteran array which has played together most of the season. Care has been taken not to injure Phil Spear, McCauley McEver and the other ball toters who performed so well against the Cavaliers, for Gustafson knows that he will need every bit of Poly's power if he is to face Maryland with an even chance to fare as well as Yale did a week ago.

CELTICS PLAY VIRGINIA TEAM.

The St. Mary's Celtics Eleven, of Alexandria, has arranged to meet the Ginter Park Grid Team from Richmond at Baggett's Field Sunday at 3 o'clock. The Ginter Park Eleven boasts of one of the best records in the Virginia city.

NOVEMBER 14, 1904.

First snow of the winter descended on Washington. Communication lines cut off. Telegraph poles and wires toppled in the storm.

Prince Fushimi, Japanese envoy to the United States and member of the royal household, arrived in Chicago en route to Washington. He was on a good will tour of this country.

The Jackson brothers, who terrorized Charleston, W. Va., three days previous, surrendered. They had spent the three days hidden in a coal mine in the hill regions.

Republican revisionists, who want tariff reduced to the protection point, believe an extra session of Congress will be held in the spring. It is believed President Roosevelt will call the session after March 4.

Washington army barracks destroyed by fire caused by defective flue. Soldiers had a hard fight against the flames.

A record run from Chicago to New York was made by a Columbia auto. It sped the 1,127 miles in 58 hours and 35 minutes.

CREDIT IN DISTRICT GOOD, SAYS REPORT

Business Institute's Data State Stocks' Fall Is Quieting.

NAME BANK COMMITTEE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Credit and sales conditions for Washington area were described as "good" by the Credit and Sales Bulletin of Alexander Hamilton Institute, New York City, published yesterday. For the Middle Atlantic or local section the bulletin reported that the stock market decline has had a quieting effect on general business and manufacturing concerns were less active.

The exact effect of the stock market decline can not be accurately measured at this time, the bulletin stated, but it is anticipated that there will be a quieting effect on business. Expert opinion seems to be that the recession will be moderate, due to the fact that commodity prices are at normal levels, inventories are not unreasonably high, and that the banking and credit situation is strong, with a tendency toward easier money rates.

The credit fabric was kept intact in spite of the recent stock market break through the following factors, according to Benjamin M. Anderson, jr., economist of the Chase National Bank of the City of New York, yesterday:

"The foresight and prudence of the banks and brokers during the boom which preceded the break, the courage and loyalty of the banks and brokers in the midst of the trouble, the presence of veteran leaders of extraordinary ability who knew what to do and who had the capacity to think and act quickly and courageously, a great expansion of loans by the New York banks, and, finally, the Federal Reserve System, which acted with promptness and decision in pouring funds into the money market so that the banks might be able to extend loans on a great scale."

8,126 New Baltimore Phones.

With 8,126 telephones added to the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore City's system since January 1, Maryland is now served by 206,555 telephones. In ten years, Maryland's telephones have increased 67 per cent. Graham K. McCorkle, general manager of the company, is the authority for the statement that on November 1, 1919, there were only 123,896 telephones in the State.

This rapid increase in telephones is not confined to any particular section, for they are being added to the system in every part of the State. To take care of this growth, the company is constantly providing additional facilities to meet the requirements of the public for telephone service. Facilities for additional telephones placed in the past year or now in course of construction will involve expenditures of more than $4,200,000, McCorkle states.

These facilities include new buildings, additions to present buildings, additional switchboards and associated apparatus, private branch exchange switchboard systems, storage batteries of increased capacity, terminal frames and other central office equipment. The outside plant includes 7,533 poles, 348,000 feet of aerial cable, 260,000 feet of underground cable, ranging in size from 200 wires to 3,400 wires; 120,000 feet of underground conduit, 450 manholes, 780 miles of wire, 2,800 crossarms and 5,000 loading coils placed on cable and open wire lines to improve transmission.

Upon the completion of the placing of these new facilities, 6,642 poles, 800 guys, 5,000 cross-arms, 113,000 feet of smaller sized aerial cable, 270,000 feet of underground cable, 5,000 feet of underground conduit, 660 feet of submarine cable and 885 miles of open wire will be removed from pole lines along the streets and highways of the State.

All but two of fourteen issues in trading on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday showed declines, two small-priced issues holding former levels. These were Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred, 440 shares of which sold at 7¼, and Washington Mechanics Mortgage common-selling to the extent of 20 shares at 11. Decreases ranged from a fraction of a point to 30 points.

The stock turnover fell off 97 shares from 687, Tuesday's total, and bond sales volume of $10,500 was a $1,400 advance from the previous session. The exchange will be closed next Saturday. On that afternoon its members have been invited to an oyster roast at Wild Rose Shores, on South River, near Annapolis, Md., to be given by Maj. Ennalls Waggaman and Frank B. Pryor, of Waggaman, Brawner & Co., Inc., members of the exchange, and George O. Walson, president of the exchange.

Once Was Waggaman Home.

Wild Rose Shores was the country home of the late John F. Waggaman and was for many years a scene of Southern hospitality. It has recently been subdivided, and among those who have attractive summer homes there is Walson.

The weekly estimate of bituminous coal production in the United States, computed by the National Coal Association, shows a total for the week ended November 9 of 10,875,000 net tons.

The last weekly coal report of the United States Bureau of Mines gave the output for the week ended October 26 as 11,415,000 net tons, and for the week ended November 2 as 11,089,000 net tons. The loss in tonnage during the week ended November 9 was mainly due to the curtailment of operations on election day.

The Security Finance Corporation announces the election of Harry M. Keyser as a member of the board of directors to fill the vacancy caused by the death of T. Lincoln Townsend. Keyser is secretary of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and a director of the Munsey Trust Co.

MIDWESTERN UNIT RULES HORSE SHOW

ANNUAL EVENT CLOSES

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—For the second consecutive day the colors of Midwestern thoroughbred owners were flung high in victory over Madison Square Garden today as the Illinois-owned horses of Dr. D. A. Orth and George W. Peak romped off with the major share of the awards of the final day of the National Horse Show.

While Eastern exhibitors were splitting honors, Dr. Orth, who lives in Chicago, and Peak, a Winchester, Ill., breeder, combined to win three blue ribbons, as many seconds and two thirds. In winning the eight ribbons the two Illinois owners swept three classes, including the Grand Champion Roadster Division, which had a $1,000 stake attached.

Dr. Orth's nine-year-old bay mare, Lillian Sydles, led the roadsters, while Peak took second and third with Signal Flash and Peter Handsome, respectively. Lillian Sydles likewise won first in the open class for roadsters shown in harness. Again Signal Flash was runner-up, but third went to Peter De Forrest, exhibited by Dr. Orth.

The Winchester exhibitor's triumph came with the fifteen-year-old stallion, St. Meserob, which paired with Peter Handsome to win his 704th blue ribbon in ten years of show-ring competition. The victory in the class for pair of roadsters, 15.2 or over, was St. Meserob's second victory of the show as against the same number of defeats. Placing second to the brilliant Peak pair was the team of Peter De Forrest and Al Seigler, owned by Dr. Orth.

Bacce, ace of the Italian army jumpers, came through with a clean exhibition of hurdling to win the touch and out division from some of the highest-class jumpers in the show. With Capt. Mariano Lombardo in the saddle, the Italian horse turned in a perfect performance along with nineteen other jumpers to survive the elimination.

In the finals Bacce was again tied, this time by Triangle, of the United States Army, ridden by Maj. C. P. George. In the jump-off, Triangle faltered on the second obstacle, which the Italian jumper cleared with ease to win the blue ribbon. Third went to Hamlet, of the Polish army, and fourth to Suzanne A., member of the United States Army Show Team.

Mrs. R. J. Goodman, Hartford, Conn., added to her large collection of ribbons the grand championship of the five-gaited horses. Tea Caddy, a 5-year-old bay gelding, won the championship and $2,000 stake, with second going to O. Berry Beaumont's Charming Gypsy, from Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Paul Moore's Seaton Hackney Farm, of Morristown, N. J., won his twelfth blue ribbon of the show to lead all other exhibitors when he won the class calling out three heavy harness horses exhibited in a single harness.

P. J. Lawler, of Bala, Pa., was second, Mrs. O. M. Kaufman, of Pittsburgh, Pa., third.

Orphans Will See Show by Thurston

Annual Treat Is Arranged by Post and Great Magician.

Children in the orphanages of Washington will have their annual treat one week from today when The Washington Post and Howard Thurston, famous magician, join in offering a party at Poli's Theater at 2:15 o'clock.

Many children of the orphanages remember last year's party at which Thurston made rabbits jump out of silk hats, sawed girls in two and delighted the youngsters with other seemingly impossible feats. He has an even more attractive program for this year's performance.

Boys and girls from every orphanage in the city will be invited to this special show, with transportation furnished and with plenty of additional entertainment. There will be ice cream, souvenirs and other "goodies" for the youngsters.

All the tricks in Thurston's bag will be brought out for the benefit of the orphans and the great magician, always anxious to give these boys and girls a real party, has planned a few special stunts which will no doubt make him a life-long friend of all those who attend.

Other details of the party will be announced from day to day in The Washington Post.

Income Tax Counselor Sues for $72,000 Fee

Harry R. Stutsman, who says he is an income tax counselor, of Chicago, filed suit in District Supreme Court yesterday against Alonzo C. Mather, seeking to recover $72,000 which he alleges is due him as the balance on a $75,000 fee.

Stutsman, through Attorneys Enoch, Kerr, Wooley, Newton and Shipe, tells the court that on October 16, 1926, he was called in by Mather to adjudicate a claim made on the latter by the Treasury Department for $800,000 tax. Stutsman states that he saved the defendant a large sum of money which is not specified. He declares that his fee of $75,000 is fair and reasonable, and asserts that Mather has only paid him $3,000.

Loss in Stock Market Is Blamed for Suicide

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Stock market losses, said to have aggregated $1,000,000, were believed responsible for the suicide of Robert M. Searle, president of the Rochester Gas & Electric Corporation, at his home here today.

He was found on a bathroom floor at his home in Brunswick street by Herman Russell, vice president of the company. A gas jet was open and asphyxiation was given as the cause of death. Coroner Richard A. Leonardo issued a certificate of death by suicide during temporary mental derangement.

Death Date Is Fixed For Japanese Slayer

Honolulu, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Myles Yutaka Fukunaga, 19, slayer of Gil Jamieson, 10, son of a prominent Honolulu banker, must hang Tuesday, Gov. Lawrence M. Judd decreed in signing the death warrant for the Japanese. Gov. Judd characterized the kidnaping and subsequent killing in September, 1928, as "a dastardly crime, well planned and executed with exceptional brutality."

Fukanaga won several reprieves by appeals, which were finally carried to the United States Supreme Court, which recently refused to review the case.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

COMMERCE GROUP ENDS HEAVY DOCKET

Fairfax County Business Men Will Attend Services on Thanksgiving.

CROSSING PLAN TALKED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

At the meeting of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce held in the Lorton schoolhouse Tuesday night a letter was read from A. C. Ritchie, judge of the Fairfax Juvenile Court, thanking the chamber for its work in helping to secure the appointment of a board of public welfare. This board was appointed last month by Judge Howard W. Smith of the Circuit Court. The chamber indorsed the appointment of Mrs. Louise S. Manghum as superintendent of the welfare work in this county. A resolution was adopted asking that this work be placed on a salary basis as soon as possible. A committee was appointed, consisting of Mrs. G. Ashley Money, Capt. Thurlow White, George K. Pickett, the Rev. C. A. Langston, Herbert Haar and J. B. Barrett, to appear before the December meeting of the county board of supervisors to request that some provision be made whereby Mrs. Manghum would receive compensation for her work.

The resignation of J. H. Beattie, chairman of the committee on county-wide fire protection, was accepted and L. L. Freeman, of Vienna, who was recently elected to the House of Delegates from this county, was appointed in Mr. Beattie's place.

President Edmund H. Allen of the chamber awarded prizes to the 4-H clubs of the county for the outstanding exhibit at the county fair. These prizes were won by the Floris Club represented by Joseph Beard, girls club at Herndon represented by Virginia Carr and the Annandale Club represented by John Webb.

C. C. Carr, of Fairfax, was appointed chairman of the educational committee to succeed F. S. McCandlish.

Short talks were made by H. B. Derr, county agricultural agent, and Miss Sara E. Thomas, home demonstration agent.

President Allen presented an invitation to the chamber from the vestry of Pohick Church asking members to attend Thanksgiving services, which will be held in the church at 11 o'clock Thanksgiving morning. The services will be conducted by Rev. C. A. Langston, rector. The invitation was accepted and members plan to attend in a body. A gavel, carved from a rail from the Bull Run battlefield, was presented to the chamber as a gift by C. H. Powell, of Bailey's Cross Roads.

There was considerable discussion on the change in the plans for the Springfield grade crossing. The chamber questioned the action of County Engineer Larkin in abandoning the original plans for a concrete bridge in favor of two large corrugated pipes and a fill. It was understood that the supervisors had made arrangements in the annual budget for the erection of a concrete bridge across the stream at the crossing, but it developed that this bridge was being erected out of the county bridge fund. The chamber took no action indorsing any movement, but instructed the present committee to cooperate with Mr. Larkin in any way possible and to assist him in securing a right of way from property owners.

The secretary was instructed to write R. I. Mount, State resident engineer, highway department, emphasizing the danger existing at the junction of the Lorton and Richmond highway and ask him to set back a fence which obstructs the view at this point.

Progress in the establishment of a free county library at Fairfax was reported by Mrs. G. Ashley Money. Permission to use a room in the old clerk's office building for this purpose has been granted by the County Board of Supervisors. Miss Leslie Stevens, of the State Library Extension Service, will confer with the library committee, and Prof. Ormond Stone, of Centerville on November 21 to discuss further plans for the establishment of this library.

The claim of Deputy Sheriff Henry T. Magarity for the second $25 reward for the apprehension of poultry thieves was accepted and ordered paid, with the recommendation that in the future county officers will not be eligible for this reward. There was an appropriation of $100 for the continuation of the reward, but this was referred back to the agricultural committee for an investigation and report as to whom the reward should be paid.

E. C. Gibbs, county Red Cross roll call chairman, made a short talk explaining the work of the Red Cross in this county and asking cooperation in the drive for 2,000 members which will aid in raising of $1,000.

The next meeting of the chamber will be held in the Grange Hall at Masonville near Annandale.

Benjamin Stevens, who was arrested Monday night as a suspect in an attack on Miss Alice Young, 16-year-old schoolgirl, of New Alexandria, has been removed from the Fairfax Jail by Sheriff Eppa Kirby. So far no formal charge has been made against Stevens. The sheriff is expected merely to present the results of his investigation concerning the case to the grand jury, which meets in Fairfax next Monday morning. Several persons who are said to have identified Stevens will be summoned as witnesses.

At a meeting of the Volunteer Class of the Southern Methodist Church at Fairfax officers were elected for the coming year. Miss Roma Cupp was named president, and Miss Audrey Croson, vice president; Miss Virginia Beavers, secretary; Miss Jacqueline Pfalzgraf, treasurer; social service, Mrs. Mary Cullen; membership committee, Mrs. Fay Beckwith, Miss Ruth Hollis and Mrs. Ethel Williams, publicity, Miss Bernice Cupp; recreation, Miss Rita Cupp, Mrs. Marion Waple and Miss Virginia Haines. The meeting was held at the home of Miss Virginia Beavers. After the business meeting the Knights of Wesley joined the class in a social hour. The next meeting will be at the home of the Misses Edna and Bernice Jerman on December 9.

At a meeting of the Falls Church Town Council, Milton Roberts, chairman of the public property committee, was authorized to secure workmen's compensation insurance for all town employes to the amount of $4,000, with a weekly benefit and hospital bills in case of accident. This is required under a State law.

An ordinance was passed providing that all unpaid tax bills will be reissued and placed in the hands of the present town treasurer for collection. The finance committee reported that the accounts of the former treasurer, Rev. R. E. Castleman, were correct and the accounts of the receipts and disbursements of the town for the year ended August 31, 1929, although he had not complied with the law requiring him to collect all back taxes. A letter was read from Rev. Castleman in which he stated that he wished to withdraw previous statements by him to the effect that it was not the duty of a town treasurer to collect delinquent taxes by due process of law. This letter was made a part of the town record.

The public property committee was instructed to investigate the cost of installing stop signs on all streets intersecting the Lee highway.

President R. E. Kendrick, of the fire department, presented the department's budget for the coming year and asked the council for $50 a month as running expenses. A list of all the active members of the fire department was filed with the council as required by the regulation for the fireman's liability insurance. The council appropriated the sum of $250 to be drawn on by the department as it deems necessary. Phillip Nurse was granted permission to make repairs to the building owned by him and occupied by the Sanitary Grocery Co.

At a meeting of the Wednesday Morning Club of Vienna, a report was given by Mrs. John W. Echols that homes have been found for five destitute colored children living in Vienna. Homes for the children were found through the efforts of Thomas Walkers, a colored lawyer of Gloucester, Va. Clothes and transportation were provided the children through the efforts of the citizens of this county.

The club is very much interested in the establishment of a permanent home for destitute children of the county.

The Fairfax County Educational Association will hold a meeting in the Madison School at Falls Church at 8 o'clock this evening. Miss Dorothy Otley, president of the association, stated that several questions of vital interest to the teachers and parents of this county will be discussed.

William E. Vleich, 23, of Ballston, Va., a route agent for the Washington Laundry Co., was arrested late yesterday afternoon in Falls Church by Town Sergt. Mitchell and charged with driving while drunk and passing a stop sign. He was brought to the Fairfax County Jail to await hearing before Mayor John P. Bethune, of Falls Church.

Epstein Hit-Run Penalty Stayed

Convicted Driver Is Given Time to Decide Whether He Wants New Trial.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13.—Judge Robert Moss in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court today deferred imposition of sentence upon Meyer Epstein, convicted before him yesterday of manslaughter for causing the death of David Carroll, 18, Annapolis shoe salesman, in a hit-and-run auto tragedy on Severn River Bridge last September 19.

George B. Woelfel, counsel for Epstein, advised the court that he wanted to determine whether a motion for a new trial will be asked and for that reason desired to avail himself of the three days allowed under Maryland law before penalty is invoked following conviction.

The courtroom was crowded at 10 o'clock this morning when court was convened, Judge Moss having stated yesterday he would pass sentence at that time.

SALLE LAFAYETTE WILL BE DEDICATED

Rites at Virginia University to be Friendly Gesture to Romanic Peoples.

CLAUDEL WILL PRESIDE

University, Va., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Dedication of the Salle La Fayette here, November 20, at which Dr. Paul Claudel, Ambassador of France to the United States, will preside, initiates a gesture of friendship and admiration to all Romanic peoples by America.

Exercises opening the Salle La Fayette, as a memorial to France in the Romanic pavilion of the University of Virginia's east lawn, will be followed by similar openings of memorial halls to Spain, Italy and the Latin-American races.

As the French room is to be dedicated to La Fayette, the Spanish room will be named for Cervantes, the Italian room for Dante, and the Latin-American room for Bolivar.

Movement Began in 1926.

The movement to pay tribute to the Romance peoples started in 1926, when the university set aside pavilion VI on east lawn as the center of instruction for the school of Romance languages. The pavilion is one of the original Jeffersonian buildings and from the foundation of the university had been used as the residence of a number of distinguished professors.

Upon restoration of the building under the direction of Dr. William A. Lambeth, an authority on colonial architecture, the Romance language school decided to set aside four rooms on the top story, one each for four divisions of Romanic peoples.

The group of rooms is to be shrines of culture and art and it is the intention of the school to have artists from the nations honored decorate them, just as Robert and Martha la Montague Saint-Hubert, of France, painted the murals in the Salle La Fayette.

Frescoes Are Gift.

The decision of the School of Romance Languages to meet the expenses from American resources was carried out in the case of the French room by the gift of the Saint-Hubert frescoes by Ormond G. Smith, of New York, president of the French Institute in America.

Salle La Fayette was designed by the Saint-Huberts, with former Ambassador Jules Jusserand, of France, and Mme. Jusserand cooperating, and in its plan France's friendship for the Thirteen Colonies is set forth with the Marquis de La Fayette and Thomas Jefferson as the central figures.

Opposite the door two groups appear—two blue and white cameos, Friendship and Peace. Then La Fayette is shown, a tall young man, returning to America with an army of French regulars while colonists on shore cheer as the patriot leads the long file of ships into port.

Meeting Is Depicted.

Another scene depicts the venerable Jefferson and La Fayette at Monticello, at the celebrated meeting of the two November 10, 1824.

In each corner of the ceiling is one of four of the Franco-American leaders in the fight for American Independence—Rochambeau, Washington, De Grasse and Franklin. In the center, the sky is rent by a blinding light that emanates from the silhouette of Liberty, borne through war clouds in the chariot of the sun. To one side, thirteen pillars support a fronton, symbolic of the Thirteen Colonies united for independence. In the center of a terraneous hemicycle, a tree partly shattered by recent battles shows by the branches that do remain how fertile this new world must be. Nearby a group of those who have fought salute the new day of liberty — orphans stretch their hands up to hope; women, forgetful of yesterday's sorrow, smile at tomorrow and maternal tasks; while the last dark clouds of war roll like smoke from the battle field over the thirteen pillars of the colonnade.

"Old Belt" Leaf Market Glutted

Agitation at Danville Is Started for Holding of Extra Sale.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 13.—Glut conditions prevail on all of the nearby tobacco markets in the old belt. Danville has been swamped with leaf, and agitation has been started for an extra sale in the hope of making heavier inroads into the steadily accumulating supply. Many farmers have taken their tobacco from here to other markets.

The rush is said to be due to a desire on the part of the farmers to market their holdings before Thanksgiving Day,, there being a prevalent belief that prices will not be so high after that date has passed. Danville sold almost a million pounds yesterday at nearly 21 cents per pound.

Notwithstanding the fact that nearly $4,000,000 has been disbursed among farmers during the last 30 days, local merchants report that their volume of sales have not materially increased.

This is due, it is believed, to many farmers being involved in debt since the last crop and now are paying off arrears.

Eight Canneries Buy Up Tomatoes

More Than $60,000 Paid in Four Days for Crop in Luray Section.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Nov. 13. — More than $60,000 has been paid out in the last four days by eight packers of this county for the 1929 tomato crop. These packers are owners of the Hawksbill cannery, Luray, I. N. Dovel, proprietor; the Lester Penderghast & P. L. Koontz canneries, Stanley; the Charles N. Graves cannery, Ida; the C. D. Price cannery, Alma; the W. T. Moyer cannery, Fairview; the Thomas A. Moyer cannery, Kimball, and the Arthur A. Moyer cannery, Rileyville.

More than $2,000 was paid out by the W. T. Moyer cannery, Fairview, for the 1929 bean crop. The Mexican bean weevil caused a loss of more than $2,000 each to the other seven canneries.

The acreage in tomatoes this year is about 160 short of last year, though the pack is heavier. None of the crop was paid for until the canneries closed down about two weeks ago.

CHURCH FINANCING PRECIPITATES ROW

Heated Discussion Follows Introduction of Plan at Baptist Meeting.

REPORTS ARE RECEIVED

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 13.—Presentation of a new plan of church financing precipitated spirited discussion at today's session of the Virginia Baptist General Association at the First Baptist Church. The project was finally adopted by a decisive vote, but not until fifty or more clerical and lay delegates had engaged in a debate, almost unprecedented in association history.

At times half a dozen were on their feet at once, gesticulating and clamoring for recognition by the president, the Rev. Dr. T. C. Skinner, of Lynchburg.

The plan provides that all money raised in the State for denominational Christian work shall be divided, as in the case of the old plan, on a fifty-fifty basis, half to be used in State-wide work and half to South-wide denominational activities.

The plan was presented by the Rev. Dr. C. W. Daniels, of First Church, Richmond, supported by the Rev. Dr. George T. Waite, Richmond, executive secretary of the board of missions and education. Leaders opposing it included the Rev. Dr. Garland Ryland, Richmond; the Rev. Dr. R. S. Owens, Roanoke, and Miss Blanche White, Richmond, corresponding secretary of the Women's Missionary Union.

Lack of financial strength is a serious handicap to the rural church, according to the report on rural church work. "This," the report said, "is reflected in small salaries to pastors and the inability to measure up to the demands of the situation."

If Virginia Baptists are to reach the 1928 record in finances for State missions and education, they must raise approximately $221,000 by December 31, the convention was told by the Rev. Dr. George T. Waite, executive secretary.

Reports from various State denominational activities were heard, including the Baptist Orphanage, Virginia Hospital, University of Richmond and other schools and missions, the foundation fund, relief and annuity board, Sunday schools and young people's unions. The convention voted to hold the summer and recreational school again next summer at West Hampton College.

Old time revivals are a thing of the past, and personal visitation evangelism has taken its place, according to the Rev. Dr. A. E. Kernham, of Washington, who declared that his own investigations showed 96 per cent of those attending revivals already are church members.

The Virginia Baptist Historical Society, meeting independently, today elected Parke P. Deans, Norfolk, president; the Rev. George Braxton Taylor, Hollins, and the Rev. Dr. Eugene B. Jackson, Harrisonburg, vice presidents; the Rev. Dr. Garnett Ryland, Richmond, treasurer, and Prof. William A. Harris, University of Richmond, secretary. Executive committeemen chosen were C. H. Urner and the Rev. L. M. Ritter, the Rev. L. P. Little, the Rev. R. C. McDaniel and the Rev. W. T. Clark.

JEFFERSON TO KEEP ITS HEALTH CENTER

Alexandria Annexation Plan Merely to Cause Change in Location.

HOME SCHOOL IS SITE

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Despite reports that Jefferson district would find itself without a health center after January 1, 1930, when the city of Alexandria annexes the territory where the present health center is located, Dr. C. M. Chichester, county health officer, last night announced a new center for this district would be established in the Home schoolhouse on Mount Vernon avenue.

The announcement by Dr. Chichester followed a joint conference with County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, and Edward Duncan, supervisor from Jefferson district, when arrangements to establish the new health center were perfected.

Dr. Chichester stated that all equipment in the present health center will be moved to the second floor of the Hume schoolhouse as soon as annexation become effective.

The new quarters have been made available to take care of that section of the county only until such time as the county is able to provide more permanent quarters.

The health department, according to Dr. Chichester, is forced to move from the present location as soon as annexation become effective as it could not spend funds appropriated for county health work in any section other than Arlington County.

Dr. Samuel M. Johnson, president of the National Boulevard Association, who for the past three years has worked to obtain the needed rights of way for the 200-foot Lee boulevard, leading from the memorial bridge through Arlington County, declared yesterday that with the cooperation of land owners which has been given that within the next two weeks the rights of way will have been obtained and turned over to the Virginia Highway Commission.

"Work is now being rushed on construction plans and cost with a view to having the allotments made for its construction at the December meetson said.

"Never has it been my purpose to in any way block any movement for the construction of a road from the bridge, passing through the thickly settled sections of the county. On the other hand, I have at all times encouraged the movement, but the State has adopted the Lee boulevard as a State road and I propose to work to obtain all the needed rights of way, and I am confident that with the completion of the bridge the boulevard will have been constructed as far as Fort Buffalo, where it connects with the Lee highway near the Old Episcopal Church in Falls Church, Fairfax County.

The Arlington County Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing at the courthouse tomorrow night on the zoning ordinance covering the most thickly settled sections of the county which comprise Clarendon election precincts 1 and 2, Ballston, Lyon Park, Ashton Heights, Glen Carlyn, Bon Air, Oak View, Memorial Park, Lyon Village and Aurora Heights.

Following this hearing the commission has but two more hearings to hold, which are for the sections of Cherrydale and Arlington. The hearing for Arlington will be held the night of November 21 and Cherryrale the following night.

While much opposition has arisen over the recent hearing held in the Hume schoolhouse covering those sections known as Aurora Hills and Virginia Highlands, which were tentatively zoned as heavy indutrial in the lower sections, Secretary A. J. Webb announced last night that he has received no official request for the holding of another hearing in that section.
